A woman whose husband died recently, leaving her $2,000 life insurance, reported the sad news to her relatives thusly: "Jim died this week. Loss fully covered by insurance."

The production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania for the month of August, was 4,892,992 tons, a gain of 5,745,317 tons for the corresponding month of 1907, showing a decrease of 1,196,254 tons. The output, this year, to September is 41,809,911 tons, a loss of 2,592,571 tons, as compared with the corresponding date of 1907.

Miss Agnes Plum has purchased the Allen property on 11th street. Consideration about $2,700. Possession given Oct. 1st.

When one sees the Colosseum for the first time, there is a sudden realization, a veritable shock; it is grand—nothing grander could be imagined. This was the ancient circus of the Romans. On these graded seats sat 107,000 spectators yelling, applauding and threatening simultaneously. 5,000 animals were slain, and 10,000 combatants contended in this arena.

The gladiator from the center of the arena looked around at the 100,000 faces and saw the upturned thumbs demanding his death, what a sensation! One turned and looks again? The beauty of the edifice consists in its simplicity. Its continuous line of arches forms the most natural and the firmest of props. The Colosseum is the most imposing sight in Rome, and will be presented in detail by Edwin J. Hadley, at the Lyric Theatre, Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, 1908.

The 21st annual reunion of the survivors of the 53d Penna. Volunteers will be held in Wilkes-Barre on Wednesday, Sept. 23rd. Rev. Dr. M. D. Fuller, S. E. of the Honesdale District of the M. E. church, is the chaplain. Wayne county had a number of men in the regiment.

The prizes for the race at the approaching fair have been about doubled, which will prove an additional attraction to horsemen.

The following are the officers elected for the 1908-9 term: President, Wm. H. Dyer, Vice President, Frank W. Schuber, Secretary, W. W. Kimple, Treasurer, Charles H. Gray, George H. Carrol, First Assistant, John Gaudin, Second Assistant, John Lyons, Chief Engineer, Wm. B. Ball and John H. Carrol, Assistants, C. H. Rickwell and Charles McCaffrey, Stokers.

Jama McCaffrey, of Uniontown, Fayette county, prevented his wife appearing against him as a witness before the grand jury, by turning all of her clothing.

Nothing the fact that a number of ed racks and walls have been constructed in the Susquehanna river, in Wyoming county, the Nicholson Examiner says that "the persons who have secured State license to maintain these racks have made all preparations for the opening of the ed fishing season, which will be early this month. The edis migrate to the spring from the ocean by the clear water streams as far as they can get to upland, and then when the first frosts come in September, return down the streams to the ocean to spend the winter in the salt water. Experienced fishermen claim that this year there will be an unusually heavy run of edis and it is nothing to secure several hundred pounds of them in a night when they are migrating." Hasn't our neighbor fallen into a new set of habits of edis, and reversed the order and objects of their migrations? The best authorities say that the edis which descend to estuaries or the sea, deposit their eggs there, and that countless numbers of young edis are raised in spring.

Patk Lake dam, at the opening of a season, has seen thousands of them, smaller than a lead pencil making their way up stream. So strong is the instinct which impels them that they surmount obstacles apparently far more than sufficient to arrest their progress, and they are even known to perform migrations on land among moist grass towards water, when well grown, they descend to brackish or salt water because of their aversion to cold, and to perpetuate their species by spawning.

A patent was issued on Sept. 16, to our townsman, Frank G. Farshaw, for an attachment to pool and billiard bridges. It can be attached to any ordinary bridge in a minute's time. It is strong and serviceable and made of sheet steel, heavily nickelled. When necessary to use it can be elevated so a player can reach over a number of balls and reach the cue ball without following or losing his stroke. It is certainly a novel device and should be an adjunct of every pool table in the United States.

Several of the Wayne county acid factories have resumed manufacturing, and others will follow about Oct. 1st.

—Perhaps nothing is so exasperating to the progressive farmer as to find himself deceived in the seed which he has been induced through specious advertising or other false inducements to substitute for the old stand-bys, with whose merits and demerits he is at least familiar, and knows how best to cultivate, or most profitably to overcome. To see a field of grain prove practically barren and worthless, from which he has expected a phenomenal yield with corresponding profits, and upon which he has expended extraordinary cost and trouble, would have proven the last straw for the proverbial patience of Job, and very probably have elicited the harsh language in which the patriarch's friends advised him to indulge. Here is the new fangled, high priced, much advertised Alaska wheat, for instance, which an Idaho man is offering for sale. A special agent of the Government Department of Agriculture was recently sent to investigate the merits of the grain, and this is his report: "The Alaska wheat is yielding an average of 10 bushels to the acre, instead of the 200 as advertised, and it is badly mixed. The grain is inferior; the quality being soft and white. Ordinary wheat is yielding fully as much and the best varieties far more." Thus is another seed fake exploded.

—The August crop report issued by the Government at Washington is not very encouraging. The condition of corn was the lowest in five years, and wheat the lowest in 17 months. The August estimate, the probable yield for this year being now about the actual harvest of 1907. For spring wheat the report indicated the loss of nearly 9,000,000 bushels during August, leaving the crop still, however, above last year; but for the report showed a further heavy loss last month, so that this year's yield will be far from the bumper crop looked for at the opening of the summer. The probable harvest is set at 249,500,000 bushels. The average condition of the crop when harvested was 76.8 last month; 65.5 in 1907, and 81.9 in 1906. In Pennsylvania the average condition was 81, against a ten year average of 83. By applying to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., you can have your name placed on the list of those receiving the monthly announcement of the government publications that are ready for distribution. From this list you can select and write for any publication which you desire.

—It is a freak of geography that the Democrats should disfranchise the negro to the South and be tenderly solicitous about the vote of the colored brother in the North.

—Forest VanWert, who has been connected with the Aldenville Cement Co. since its inception, has resigned his position, and entered the employ of the Wayne Cut Glass Co. He is now, as traveling salesman. The latter plant is working to the full capacity of its factory. The company will soon remove to their new three story brick building, at the foot of 12th street, on Industry Point, and increase their force to seventy employees.

—The Farview hospital building commission met in Philadelphia on the 3rd inst., and opened the bids for the construction of the first two buildings. It is understood that the only bid from Honesdale was submitted by contractor Richard H. Brown, who is now engaged in the erection of the Honesdale High School building and Texas No. 4 Fire Engine House. The Farview contract was awarded to George A. Glenn & Co. of Philadelphia. The specifications call for constructing the building of Nag Air stone, Pennsylvania marble or Honesdale stone. It is said that the bid of Glenn & Co. was the lowest tendered by several thousands of dollars, amounting to $118,000 for the erection of the two buildings. It is expected that the commission will visit Farview within a few days, and that preliminary work will be soon started.

—A rare treat for the people of Honesdale. The John Griffith Co. will present "Othello" at the Lyric, Oct. 6th.

—N. R. Baller, of the Pleasant Mount fish hatchery, is at once to make a great improvement to it, being a large pond, covering some three acres, to be used for supplying water to the house used for pickering hatching.

—Mrs. Edna Kennedy, of Wilmington, Del., committed suicide, Aug. 30th, by drinking lead acetate and carbolic acid. She died in a brief period after taking the poison. Her husband died some three years ago. Mrs. Kennedy was 33 years old. There is no known cause for her committing the rash act. She was a daughter of W. O. Curtis, of Surman, this county.

—"Gay Toll," a trotter owned by F. J. Crockerback, of Waymart, was entered in the 220 class at the Green, N. Y., fair last week, and came in second in three heats.

—Mrs. E. H. Clark, of North Main street, has sold her property in that location, comprising a modern two story dwelling, barn and nearly six acres of land, to her son-in-law, Clinton F. Hullock. Consideration in the deed, $1,000.

—Dan's warts the water. Many companies have already shut off the supply from manufacturing plants, street sprinkling, garden hydrants, etc. In this respect Honesdale has been highly favored. Economize in the use of water as far as possible.

—The Honesdale public schools open Monday morning with an attendance of 215 boys and 253 girls, a total of 468, a more to come. Last year at the end of the first month, there were enrolled 468 scholars.

—The soldiers' monument at Winchelsea, Va., will be unveiled on Saturday, Sept. 19th, the 44th anniversary of the battle. Among the soldiers from Wayne who took part in the battle, and have received invitations to attend the unveiling, are J. E. Elliott, P. R. Collins, and E. E. Belknap, who served in Company M, 17th Pa. Cavalry.

—To the soft melody of certain music and the rippling of fountain water, the certain ripples on Mildred Holland's great success, "The Lily and the Prince," at the Lyric Theatre, on Tuesday, Sept. 22d.

—A very commodious and handsome Colonial portico has been added to the front of the spacious dwelling of George M. Gearing, on Court street. The improvement affords a fine view of nearly the whole of Central Park.

—The residents of Bethany are suffering severely from a scarcity of water, most of the wells having ceased to supply them.

—From all accounts the main streams of this section of the country, as well as the smaller sources of water supply were never so low as at present. It is not only the fact that the brooks, wells and springs have practically run dry that excites apprehension, but that principal rivers, like the Delaware and Susquehanna, have at many points reached record low water. All along the Wayne county border we are told that the Delaware is unprecedentedly low, and substantially the same story comes from Port Jervis, Stroudsburg, Exton and all other places near tide water. "At Port Jervis," says the Boston Herald, "the river is the lowest in 17 years." The Sparrowhawk correspondent of the same paper says: "People are driving miles to gaze upon the Delaware at its lowest recorded notch. One 80-year-old man, who has known the river for 70 years, saw it yesterday. As he looked at it he smiled and showed his teeth and said: 'The old river's got me beat.' Zedek Decker, of Stroudsburg, who has spent the greater part of his life along the Delaware river, says that the stream is two inches lower now than he has ever seen it. Reports from places up the river and from Belvidere and below are all to the same effect. A short distance above Harrisburg the Susquehanna river is slightly below the lowest mark, which was out in a rock in 1870. Some distance below, in York county, the river is a little above the mark of 1873—the lowest on record. At places the river can be waded, or even crossed on the rocks, some of which, it is said, have not been exposed for a century. At many points here in Wayne county it is necessary to carry water for stock where there has heretofore always been an abundant supply, and some of what have been regarded as perennial springs about Honesdale, from which pure drinking water for town use has been obtained for the past year or two, have either absolutely given out or are showing signs of early exhaustion.

—There will be a chicken pie supper in the M. E. church parlors, on Thursday, Sept. 24th. First table at 5:30 P. M. Tickets 35 cents.

—The Winwood high school opened on an attendance of nearly one hundred, under the principalship of J. I. Henshaw, with Charles E. Marx, vice-principal. Miss Grace Monaghan has charge of the primary department.

—According to official figures issued at the pension office, Washington, Sept. 6th, there are fewer persons on the U. S. pension rolls at present than at any time during the past fifteen years, numbering at present 951,657, and at the rate they are being reduced by death will have shrunk to 900,000 before another year. Since 1905, 600,000,000 has been paid out for pensions. This is nearly four times the amount of the interest-bearing public debt. In recent years the annual disbursement for pensions has been in the neighborhood of $140,000,000.

—The Herald has completed and is now delivering the last five books of views of "Picturesque Wayne," to the subscribers. The views are finely gotten up and are a credit to any office.

—The Carbondale Instrument Company, of Carbondale, has been awarded the contract for all of the United States gauges' testing instruments, including hydrometers, thermometers, copper caps and carrying cases required by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909. During the past year nearly 2,000 instruments were used by the department. The company has recently added a new department for the sale of chemically pure reagents for laboratory use. William Burkett, of this place, was for some time connected with this establishment, and has only good words to say of the quality of the instruments it produces, and the reliability of the scientific people who are at the head of the concern.

—D. G. Kennedy, a recent resident of Pleasant Mount, has purchased a lot in Deposit, and has mechanical erecting a dwelling on it, which he will occupy as soon as completed.

—There will be evening prayer and services in the White Mills chapel on the coming Sunday afternoon, at 8 o'clock, by Rev. A. L. Wittaker.

—Such two of us as saw "The Three of Us" at the Lyric on Monday evening last, were with few exceptions well pleased with the entertainment, such grumbling as there was mainly owing to the long waits between the acts, and an occasional difficulty in hearing the lines of the performers. The star, Miss Janet Waldor, acquitted herself most creditably throughout, and in the third act was especially worthy of commendation. The support was well above the average, and the scenery well painted and appropriate. Altogether the play was entitled to much better patronage than it received.

—We are gratified to learn that, in addition to the three surviving non-commissioned officers of Co. C, 6th Pa. Reserve (Honesdale Guards) mentioned in last week's issue, Julius C. Wright, brother of the late Capt. John R. Wright, of the same company, is also living. He is at a Soldiers' Home.

—According to the customs of fashion and taste, it is in as bad form to wear a straw hat in the north temperate zone after the 15th of September as for winter to linger in the lap of Spring. De-laying the season is quite as bad as rushing it, and in the cities those who offend must be prepared to take the consequences. Wee has befalieu the man who has had the temerity to appear in Wall street with the out-of-date hood covering since Tuesday last, and as a consequence panamas and their kindred have taken to the hat-box as their fellow-hibernators, the woodchuck and bear, will shortly seek their winter quarters. Honesdale is not so yet sufficiently up-to-date to respond as promptly to these demands of style as the metropolis, but even here those who offend are objects of wonder.

—The Taft Club will meet every Friday evening during the Presidential campaign at the club rooms, in the Allen House annex.

—The patrons of the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday evening, Sept. 22d, will have an opportunity of seeing the splendid romantic drama, "The Lily and the Prince," Mildred Holland's greatest success. This is an attraction that will please every patron, and one that has the distinction of entertaining all classes. Manager Benj. H. Dietrich is particularly anxious that every patron will see this performance, not from a motive of financial advantage to him, but because it is an attraction he knows will be a real treat to the theatrical audience. He personally guarantees it, as he is able to do, knowing the merits of the attraction as well as the management. Through a special effort on the part of the management, the following prices will prevail for the coming performance. Orchestra seats, $1.00, dress circle, 75 cents—Dress circle (last 2 rows) 50 cents; balcony (last 2 rows) 75 cents; remainder, balcony 50 cents; 25 cents.

—A final contest for a silver cup on the golf grounds will be played on Saturday afternoon, the only players remaining in the field being Frank E. Merritt and Willard S. Birdsall.

—The Waymart high school, under the principalship of J. F. Dooley, is in a most highly satisfactory and flourishing condition. The fall term opened with 133 pupils.

—Eliciting a singing robin red-breast into his home by tempting morsels, Andrew Marick, of St. Clair, captured the bird and placed it in a cage. A game warden placed Marick under arrest and he was made to pay the cost and a fine of $10. The bird has been released, which will probably go South for the winter and furnish a toothsome mouthful for some Florida epicure.
