

Louisiana Troubles.

Within the past week Louisiana troubles have broken out afresh. It is well known that a few months ago an election was held in that State for members of the Legislature and several State officers. It appears that the law of the State provides that election returns are to be subject to examination of what is called a "State Return Board." The Board in question performed the duties of the office, made out a list of the members elected to the Legislature, and presented the list to the proper officer to be presented at the convening of the Legislature.

By the report the so-called conservatives and Republicans were nearly balanced in numbers. The 4th inst. was the day fixed by law for the convening of the Legislature. Previous to that date the course of the White League was such that Governor Kellogg believed himself utterly incapable of preserving the peace of the State by the aid of State troops. In order that peace should prevail and that the law should be executed, he made a requisition on Gen. Emory, commander of United States troops at New Orleans, for troops to be stationed about the State House. General Emory sent the troops to the designated place. Meanwhile the Legislature convened, and by a process of usurpation the conservatives seized the organization, and ousted five members who had been declared by the Return Board entitled to seats, and placed five other men in their places. There was prospect of riot and bloodshed in the lobby of the House. The Speaker, who had been made such by a process that was subversive of all law, asked the General in command of the United States troops to come in and quiet the lobby. He did so. All these proceedings were reported to Governor Kellogg. He immediately issued a requisition for troops to restate the ousted members of the Legislature. The officer in command—the same who had used his power in quieting the lobby—was sent into the chamber of the House to comply with the requisition. The members were reinstated, and the soldiers withdrew.

Such is the plain statement of the case. On the night of that day General Sheridan, who had been sent south by Government, assumed command of the United States forces of the Gulf. He immediately despatched to Washington, and declared the conservatives a band of Banditti, and suggested that Congress remand them again to military rule, so that they could be treated by military commissions. He further expressed the belief that the mere passage of such an act would cause them to be respectful of law and order and cease their revolutionary work.

Sheridan's despatches so angered the conservatives—the old rebel element—that they have gone so far as to threaten his life. New York has become excited over the action and the checks of the designs of the people whom Sheridan characterizes as the Banditti of the South; but all remember that Government had to send troops into New York to quell riots in the interest of the Rebels during the war. All the clamor and trouble that is abroad in the land is raised by the people who rebelled in 1860 and in 1861, notwithstanding that they have been more leniently treated than rebels ever before were treated, and notwithstanding the fact that dozens of rebel soldiers are now in the Congress of the United States as members.

There is no need for undue excitement now. The sympathizers may make all the fuss they choose. The people will quietly look on, and when the time comes act.

A message from the President to Congress on the trouble is expected, and a report of the Congressional Committee sent to Louisiana is also expected. The two documents will give all the information required to form a correct conclusion. Till then "let us have peace."

The clerk of the Supreme Court at Washington City during the year 1874 issued 1,643 marriage licenses, and entered 70 divorces from the bonds of marriage. Truly a good place to get married, and good place to get divorced.

The New York Evening Post figures up the shrinkage in New York city and State since 1870, in railroad securities, stocks, lands and other personal property, at $50,000,000.

LEBANON county people believe that there exists certain indications of coal oil in particular parts of their county. Do strawberries ever grow on apple trees?

PRESIDENT GRANT has been threatened with assassination.

THE Pope of Rome may, or he may not, be struck hard by piety; but as it may, he has displayed the characteristic shrewdness of Popes before him, by sending his blessing to Alfonso, the young Spanish King. Religious toleration is one of the prominent questions in that country, and had a good deal to do with the revolution that drove the young King's mother from the throne six years ago. If the Pope's blessing can keep Alfonso from being tolerant, then, indeed, will the Pope and his religious adherents be the gainers, and the blessing just extended will obtain for "atheism just what His Holiness wished it to obtain.

TOO FAST is sometimes a good deal worse in the way of progress than too slow, and a case in point has just occurred in Chicago. The proprietors of the Grand Pacific Hotel in that city have failed for over two millions of dollars. This was an immense establishment, big enough, in fact, to accommodate the entire hotel business of the city, correspondingly magnificent in architecture and arrangements, and sometimes the guests were not as numerous as the servants. It is extremely doubtful if such a concern could have paid in New York or London, but in Chicago was no possibility of its doing so.—North American.

ON the 6th inst. United States Senators Edmunds, of Vermont, and Gordon, of Georgia, fell into a warm debate on the Louisiana trouble. Gordon's bearing was insulting, and frequently he used the word "irrepressible," and applied it to Senator Edmunds. On the 7th Gordon apologized for his bearing and his language. Mr. Edmunds in a most becoming manner recognized the apology, and thus ended the matter.

THE pews in Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's church were sold on the 4th inst. They sold at $550, down to $10, and aggregated $70,319. Last year they aggregated $58,346. If the sale of pews in Plymouth Church are an indication of the effect of the scandal on Mr. Beecher, he must have risen considerably in the estimation of his people.

FOUR members of the Lower House of the Legislature have died since the November election, being John D. Park, Republican, from Armstrong county; John Farrer, Republican, of Washington county; Dr. Buttorf, Democrat, of Reading; S. S. Wolf, Democrat, of Centre county.

GOVERNOR HARTRANT'S late Message speaks as follows of the State Geological Survey, and the cultivation of fish:

THE suggestions in my message of last year in reference to a geological survey of the State, were embodied in a bill that passed the Legislature of 1874. This act authorized the appointment by the Governor, of a board of ten scientific and practical gentlemen to serve gratuitously, to whom was to be entrusted the selection of a geologist, and under whose direction the survey was to be made. An annual appropriation of thirty five thousand dollars was made to defray the expenses, and the whole work is to be completed within three years.

THE reports to be published within a few weeks will embrace the results of the examinations of the iron ores and roofing slates of York, Adams, Lehigh and Northampton counties; the fossil iron ore belt of the Juniata valley; the bituminous coal basins of Clearfield and Jefferson counties, and the oil regions of Venango county. Included therein will be descriptions of other minerals, together with numerous analyses of ores, clays, coals and rocks, the whole to be accompanied and illustrated with carefully prepared maps.

The great benefits of the survey will be at once recognized in this enumeration and particularly by those who desire to develop, sell or lease their lands. A museum of minerals will be collected at Harrisburg, and when ascertained and arranged will be an invaluable contribution to the exhibition at the Centennial.

A growing interest in the cultivation of fish by artificial means is manifested throughout the country and it is a pleasure to note that our people are devoting themselves to the investigation of this novel and important subject in a manner that will establish the success or failure of the experiment in the various waters of the State. The labors of the Commissioners of Fisheries continue to afford substantial reasons for encouragement. During the past year they have placed in the various streams that empty into the sea 370,000 California and 137,000 Kennebec salmon.

These streams were selected because it is the habit of the salmon to migrate to and from the sea. If it is found that these valuable fish return to their rivers the State will be amply repaid for the entire expense incurred in aid of fish culture. Under the superintendence of the commissioners 85,000 salmon trout were distributed in different broods of water where the chances for procuring food and the indulgence of their peculiar habits were most promising. These fish are rapid in their growth, increase very fast, attain a large size, and are a delicate article of food. A general distribution was also made of a large number of black bass, a very prolific, choice and beautiful fish, that grows and multiplies with marvelous rapidity in our streams. The hatching of shad was resumed last spring, and 3,000,000 of young fish were turned into the Susquehanna. This Commonwealth appropriated a fund to be expended jointly with the fish commissioners of New Jersey in hatching shad to be placed in the Delaware.—The Legislature of New Jersey, I regret to say, failed to make a similar appropriation, and in consequence no shad were hatched for that river. There are no obstacles whatever to the ascent of shad in the Delaware, as they come in from the sea, the river is said to be particularly adapted to their wants, and with proper co-operation the supply of shad may be immeasurably increased; and I trust, therefore, that our sister State will combine with our commissioners in replenishing the river.

The success of the fish way at the Columbia dam does not correspond with the public expectation, and some fears are entertained that the dam may prove an insuperable barrier to the ascent of the shad. Alterations in the fish-way have been made with very little additional cost that will prove an effectual test of the process now on trial; and if it is discovered that the shad will not or cannot make the transit, some other channel will have to be opened to enable the fish to ascend, for now that it is demonstrated that these fish can be propagated artificially to an extent that will make them a constant and unfailing source of cheap and excellent food, every form of experiment should be exhausted before the enterprise is abandoned.

How a Large Party Came to Grief While Riding Down Hill. [From the Union Herald.] William B. Chandler, merchant, aged thirty five; Arthur Shirley, district school teacher, aged twenty-five, and John Hainer, aged forty, all residents of Whitesborough, were seriously injured last evening while coasting down the Hampton Hill road. From time immemorial this road has been the most tempting coasting route in the vicinity of Whitesborough. The length of the coasting ground is about three-quarters of a mile. The road crosses the Erie Canal over an iron bridge but a short distance from the main street of Whitesborough. The coasting vehicle is a joint stock concern, in which the old and young men of the village are equally interested. It consists of a pair of light bob sleighs connected together by a plank sixteen feet in length. The steersman of the craft lies upon the plank and directs its course by moving the forward bob with his hands. The remainder of the load sit upon the plank "spoon fashion," to the number of twenty-five or thirty, and with a load like this the Hampton Hill coasters ride over the three-quarters of a mile from the top of the route to Main street in forty seconds. Everything depends upon the steersman who handles the forward bob. Numberless accidents have occurred to persons enjoying this sport, but last night accident is the most serious upon record.

The coasting route was flooded yesterday, and its surface was like a sheet of silver. About half past six P. M. twenty-three men, nearly all over the age of thirty, got upon the bobs. W. B. Chandler was steering, and the others occupied places behind him. About half way down the hill, just when the vehicle was moving with the velocity of the wind, the kingbolt of the steering bob broke, and Chandler lost control of the sleigh. The sleigh collided with the eastern abutment of the iron bridge, and the whole load was thrown forward with tremendous force. Mr. Chandler had his collar-bone broken; his right ear was almost torn from his head, his left leg was hurt, and he is suffering from severe internal injuries. Arthur Shirley, teacher of the district school, had his left leg broken above the knee and was badly bruised. John Hainer suffered the most complicated injuries. His left leg was broken in three places, once below the knee and twice above it. Of the twenty others, William Cole and Charles Williams were bruised about the limbs, and Michael Landers suffers about the ribs. The remainder of the load narrowly escaped falling into the canal.

News Items. By the collapse of a flue in one of the boilers of Sayfact, McManus & Co.'s rolling mill in Reading, on the evening of the 6th inst., six of the employes were scalded; one of them, Henry Hangy, seriously. The building was set on fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished by the firemen. Most of the business portion of the town of Orangeburg, S. C., was destroyed by fire on the 5th inst., including the Maroney Hotel, the Orangeburg News building, and all the stores on Russell street. Total loss about $200,000, with small insurance.

Dr. Chase and Clapp have been expelled by the Massachusetts Medical Society for practicing homopathy. A cracker merchant failed on the 6th inst., in New York, with liabilities estimated at $100,000. The Civil Rights Council created by the National Convention of colored men held in Washington a year ago, have prepared a protest against the passage of any so-called civil rights bill which separates the people into two classes in the enjoyment of rights which should be secured without such distinction. The depositors in the Charleston, S. C., branch of the Freedmen's Bank, numbering over 6,000, and representing over $250,000 of deposits, have held a meeting and adopted a memorial to Congress praying for measures looking to their indemnification. General Ord has sent a letter to the Secretary of War commending the bill introduced by Senator Hitchcock for the relief of the frontier sufferers by the grasshoppers. He says the Nebraska State Aid Society is feeding about nine thousand persons at present, only enough to keep them alive, but its receipts will not hold out much longer. There is neither work nor food for them, only what is sent, and they can get no way.

Joseph B. North alias Buffalo Joe, who murdered George Jones on Christmas evening a year ago, was hanged to a telegraph pole by a mob on the night of the 20th ult., at Wallace, Kansas. The knot of the rope with which he was hanged caught under his chin and did not choke him. He hung this way for a long time talking to the mob imploring them to release him, but received only jeers in return. He did not die for over two hours, and finally froze to death. John Hughes, laborer, residing at Ogdensburg, Sussex county, N. Y., committed a brutal murder about noon on the 7th inst., by chopping his wife's head with an axe. After striking her five blows he left her dead, fired the house to cover his crime and locked the doors. Two men happening to pass a few minutes later, and seeing smoke issues from the windows broke open the door, and discovered Mrs. Hughes hanging in an arm-chair with her head banging back, and in a dying condition. Hughes was arrested and brought to Newton jail.

At Rochester, N. Y., on the evening of the 7th inst., while the family of John Kane were taking supper, Mrs. Kane reproved the younger child for refractory conduct, whereupon Kane seized the fire poker inflicting probable fatal wounds on Mrs. Kane. He surrendered himself. It is thought he is insane.
