WINTER SONG.

The winter came with chilling touch, The poplar tree is bare, No field has missed the robber clutch That took its May-garb fair ; Each blossom, blue, and red and white, The snow and ice have buried quite. Yet, lovely flowers, your vanished grace Will wring no plaint frem me ; Fresh blooming in a bonnie face Your heauty still I see-The star-gemmed eyes are brightest blue, Brow white, and lips of scarlet hue. I care not if in vale and wold No bird-songs now I hear, For Mollie trills a hundred fold More sweet and silver-clear, Her breath is like the sir of spring Where hyacinthine odors cling

When ripe lips yield their fruit most rare, Ah, then what perfect bliss ! No strawberries or cherries e'er So sweet as Mollie's kiss, Oh, May! why should I pine for thee? The charms of spring are still for me.

The Narrow Escape. A REVOLUTIONARY INCIDENT.

Upon one of the lovely farms that lie along the Delaware dwelt Israil Israel and his fair young wife, Althea. The blasts of war, which was desolating sympathy was his home music, for the stern music of the war. He served his coun-

ove. But the sounds of strife began to come nearer his district. The de-feats upon Long Island, and the dark season that followed, sent many a poor cllow back to his neighborhood, maimed or ragged, or starving, to tell how the neart of the great Washington was nigh despairing at the gloomy prospects ad, and to ask an alm of the handed farmer for God Almighty sake!

Such appeals were not suffered to fall inheeded. There was bread and to unheeded. There was bread and to spare in the buttery; there was raiment and to spare in the old clothes press; there was shelter and to spare in the
