LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Cyrus Morrison has outlived the rear part of his house. A very large assortment of White Goods selling at great prices, at Stambaugh's. Mr. Allison has put a substantial fence on two sides of his house lot.

Last Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, heavy rain deluged over the valley in which this town is built, and situated and discharged its contents in such torrents that the flood produced thereby has been upon this community within a quarter of a century.

There is not much rain south of Moyer's ridge, a little south of Perryville, and eastward the fall at Millerville was of such a character that little damage was done. From David Beahler's to Mifflintown, fences that crossed streams have, with few exceptions, been swept away.

The hills which have been ploughed this season have been deeply furrowed; tons of their best soil were swept to lower levels. Stones laid enough to use in foundation walls of houses or barns were rolled along in the flood that sped down every gully with a roar from Moyer's ridge.

The damage to fences and fields in Fermanagh township, south of Lost Creek, will amount to a good deal of money. In town the damage to property is as nothing when compared to the loss in the township. A few cellars were flooded. Mr. Logan's cellar or basement to the house in which he lives, at the west terminus of Cherry street, had a stream of water that was too voluminous to make the turn into Water street.

The flood that rolled down the stream that enters the river at the first lock north of town was exceedingly large and did considerable damage in its course. By and by the water subsided, and the people sought that interested the people of the town a little, though immediately after the rain had passed it was not so violent as to excite a remark from anybody.

The water from the hills had not yet, then, run down. However, after it commenced to rise it rose with a rapidity that astonished the beholders. In a pasture through which the run courses were six calves, that belonged to Mr. Jonathan Kaufman—farmer on the R. C. Gallagher farm—which, during the rain, stood in a group, on the bank, at the south side of the stream, at the east end of the pasture.

People who, after the rain, looked on and saw the water rise, saw it rapidly rise to the spot the calves occupied, then rise higher and higher till it swept them from their feet into the swift current, adown which they were so swiftly borne that they were washed underneath the flood-gate at the west end of the pasture without being drowned, thence into the upper basin, where they were taken out. The two remaining were swept into the lower basin, where they were kept out. There is no telling how many hundred rails and how many feet of useful lumber of different kinds went down the run.

A considerable quantity of hail accompanied the rain here, but it was not large enough to injure anything. The wind veered often, and at no time blew long from one point. The thunder was loud and the lightning was sharp.

The house in which Philo Pannebacker lives, adjoining the foundry, was struck by lightning. It did not strike the highest object on the house, which would have been the chimney top, but struck the southeast corner of the building, about the square, thence down to the kitchen stovepipe, thence out that indispensable conductor down into the stove, cracking its plate, and heaving through the kitchen wall and breaking down but not breaking, says that all the colors of the rainbow were as distinctly visible in that room as ever she saw them in a rainbow in the sky.

JUNIATA COUNTY SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The eighth annual convention of the Juniata County Sabbath School Association met in the pleasant village of McAlisterville, with its clean, broad streets, its neat and comfortable residences, its sturdy, staid, hospitable, warm-hearted people. The Convention met in the Lutheran church, and was called to order by the secretary in the absence of the President. Rev. T. J. Sherrard was elected temporary chairman, and conducted the introductory devotional exercises. After which the Rev. A. Copenhaver, on behalf of the committee of arrangements, in a few remarks extended a hearty welcome to the Convention to the hospitalities of the people.

By this time the President, Rev. G. D. Pennebacker, had arrived and in a short address struck the keynote of the Convention by calling their attention to the absolute necessity of having the presence, guidance and power of the Holy Spirit.

A committee on nominations was then appointed, as also an auditing committee, this with the exception of the report of the committee on entertainment concluded the morning session, and the Convention was in order, and in spirit for work.

AFTERNOON SESSION. The afternoon session opened with a prayer meeting of fifteen minutes. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were then received. The former setting forth in a succinct form the condition and necessities of the work in the county, and the latter showing a fair condition of the treasury.

After these reports were read the permanent organization was effected as follows: President—Rev. W. R. Whitney. Vice President—Joseph Rothrock. Secretary—Dr. Thomas A. Elder. Treasurer—Prof. D. A. Harman. Executive Committee—Rev. G. D. Pennebacker, Chairman, Rev. John C. Oliver, Rev. C. W. Marshall, Rev. H. C. Shindler, David E. Robinson, D. P. Spanogle, David Haller, H. J. Hunt, Mrs. J. W. Speddy, Mrs. Wm. Cunningham, Mrs. Angie Shaffer.

The schools represented were called upon for verbal reports. And all show a healthy and flourishing condition of affairs. At this point the Convention resolved itself into two sections, one of Superintendents and officers under the direction of Dr. Elder, and the other under the direction of President Whitney.

These sections met in separate rooms and spent three quarters of an hour in consultation upon the subjects that most interested them, as superintendents or as teachers. These were most interesting and profitable meetings and might very well have occupied two hours.

The sections then came together when their secretaries made report of what had been done in each. The President, as delegate to the last State Convention, then made his report, showing a delightfully interesting and profitable meeting. The Topic, How to secure to the children the fullest advantages of Public and Social Church Services, was introduced by Dr. D. D. Stone. It was received with interest, elicited discussion, and occupied, without being nearly exhausted, the balance of the afternoon session.

The whole session was an interesting one, the house being well filled. EVENING SESSION. In this we were not disappointed, for the utmost capacity of the church was taxed. The services were introduced by a stirring sermon by Rev. S. S. Wallen, of East Waterford, on Acts 1: 8, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me." At the close of the sermon the topic "The Church's Duty; How to Do It," was introduced by C. W. Marshall, and received a warm reception, occupying all the time allotted to it. The evening session terminated with a Praise and Promise Meeting—a fitting close to a profitable day's work. SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY MORNING. This day's proceedings opened with a full house, and a larger number of delegates were present, and schools represented, than on the previous day. The business of the session was opened with a prayer meeting of half an hour, conducted by the President, which put the convention in good spirit for the discharge of their duties. At the close of the prayer-meeting Items of Business occupied some time. Among the items transacted were, the election of J. Beidler temporary treasurer, (the regularly elected treasurer, Prof. D. A. Harman, not being present); the fixing of the assessments from the schools, at one dollar from country schools and two dollars from town schools; the election of delegates to the State Convention, to assemble at Lebanon on the 8th of June, and continue through the 9th and 10th.—Rev. G. D. Pennebacker, of Mifflintown, and Supt. Samuel Buck, of Port Royal, were elected; and the fixing of the place of holding the next convention. Academia and Mifflintown were nominated, and the vote being taken on Academia, it was fixed upon as the place. The vote stood 19 for, 15 against. "What Shall the Harvest Be?" was then sung. The business having occupied considerably more time than was allotted to it on the Programme, the next two topics, Teachers' Meetings, and Normal Classes and Institutes, Exercises, were taken up and discussed together. Prof. D. E. Robinson, who had been appointed to open the latter subject, being absent, Dr. D. D. Stone was, on motion, called to take charge of the subject. He came forward and, through answers to questions put to him, gave his ideas of the subject. The questions thus opened gave rise to an interesting and animated discussion, ventilating them in quite a thorough manner. The discussion was adjudged in by Dr. T. A. Elder, Rev. G. D. Pennebacker, Rev. L. L. Sieber, Rev. J. H. Sherrard, Rev. A. Copenhaver, Rev. T. J. Sherrard, and others, if our memory serves us.

At the close of the discussion, the chorist sang, "Revive us again," after which G. D. Pennebacker gave an interesting and instructive talk upon the important subject of Illustrative Teaching. In illustration of part of his subject he made use of an 'imaginary black-board,' no real one being attainable. He, also, at the close of his lecture, answered, in a very clear and satisfactory manner, several questions in relation to this and various other subjects which were put to him.

The morning session was closed with the Dorsology, and a benediction from Rev. M. C. Piper. AFTERNOON SESSION. In the afternoon the convention assembled as a Sabbath School, Superintended by Rev. J. H. Stewart. This school was conducted as any other school would have been, except that at the close of the lesson, the various teachers were called upon to tell how they had taught the lesson, which was the one for May 30th, "The Death of Eli." Quite a variety of methods of teaching were thus brought out, and the exercise proved to be an eminently practical and profitable one.

The topic, "How to Increase the Teaching Power of the Sunday School" was then taken up. It was introduced by Principal W. B. Beck of the Soldiers' Orphan's School. This subject was probably the first in importance on the programme, and received the attention it deserved, eliciting free and full, and able treatment at the hands of Revs. Piper, Stewart, Copenhaver, etc. The next was like unto it in importance, namely, "How to Secure More Efficient Co-operation with the Home." It was opened by Rev. A. Copenhaver in a few well-timed and excellent remarks. He was followed by others in animated discussion, in the midst of which the hour for adjournment came, and it had to be closed.

Benediction by Rev. J. H. Stewart. EVENING SESSION. The evening and closing session opened at 7:45, with a prayer meeting of a very elevated character, which continued almost or quite an hour, the main subject of which was prayer for the blessing of the Holy Spirit upon the labor of the convention,—that His influence might accompany the delegates to their various fields of labor,—especially that His blessing might descend upon the schools in the neighborhood, and upon those who had so hospitably entertained the convention, with an especial remembrance, in a prayer by the President, of the Soldiers' Orphan's of the school in McAlisterville.

At the close of the meeting the usual fee of five dollars was voted the sexton. The thanks of the convention were tendered the Lutheran congregation for the use of their church building; to the "Committee of Arrangements" for the admirable manner in which they had discharged their duties; to the citizens for their generous and warm-hearted hospitality; and to the choir for their excellent music, which lent much to the life of the convention. The subjects remaining on the programme were: "What Do I Need Most as a Teacher?" "What have I Learned at this Convention?" "What am I Resolved to do when I return to my field?" These themes having been announced by the President the convention resolved itself into a general "experience meeting" of exceeding interest, which continued without abatement until 9:40, when the President arose and announced that he could remain no longer—that it was time to bring the convention to a close. A motion was then made to adjourn sine die, which being so ordered, the President made a few very appropriate remarks; after which he announced the hymn, "Come, Christian Brethren, ere we part."

At the close of the singing, the Rev. A. Copenhaver offered a fervent closing prayer, the President pronounced the benediction, and thus closed the most interesting and successful convention we have ever had. But we cannot leave this interesting subject without first making mention of the admirable arrangements which were made for the convention; the very generous and warm-hearted hospitality of the people; and the delightful music of great variety, which was interspersed in great abundance by the choir, which was composed principally of about fifty boys and girls from the Soldiers' Orphan's School, and the children of the village, under the efficient leadership of Dr. Milton McLinn of the Orphan School; all which contributed very materially to the success of the convention.

We believe the convention was one that will long be remembered by all present, as well as by the community in which it was held. BOX OF THE CONVENTION. Ministers of the Gospel.—T. J. Sherrard, C. W. Marshall, A. Copenhaver, S. B. W.

Another fire broke out at Gardner, Phipps & Co.'s celebrated "Pine Apple" brand of Sugar Cured Hams, just received at Stambaugh's, also, choice Dried Beef constantly on hand. The Perry County Advertiser of last week says: On Thursday afternoon the barn of Mr. John Simonton, in Saville township, half a mile northeast of Lekeburg, was burned, together with the wagon shed, hog pen, and other out-buildings. About 300 bushels of corn in the crib, and 300 bushels of wheat were destroyed. Mr. Simonton also lost three head of young cattle. The family had been baking in the forenoon and had put out the fire at the bakery, as they thought, but it appears that some sparks had set fire to some wood near the oven, and the fire was communicated to the fences, and from thence to the straw in the barnyard and the barn. After dinner the farm hands had gone to the woods to peel bark, and Mr. Simonton and wife, who are aged people, were taking a nap, and therefore the fire was under full headway before it was discovered and the alarm given by a neighbor.

Sparks and burning shingles from Simonton's barn were carried by the high wind prevailing to the new barn recently erected by Mr. James Witmer on his farm—distant about three-fourths of a mile from Simonton's. This barn was soon in flames, and was burned to the ground, together with 400 bushels of wheat, 500 bushels of corn, and 80 bushels of potatoes. The potatoes were on a wagon, ready to be taken to Millerstown the next day. Mr. Wagner, the tenant of Mr. Witmer, lost three horses that were in the stable at the time, together with a mow and resper, and nearly all his farming implements. Mr. Wagner was absent at Millerstown with a load of potatoes at the time the fire occurred, and his family was not aware of the fire at the barn until a neighbor rode up and gave the alarm. Mr. Wagner's loss is estimated at over $1,000. We are informed that the wheat and corn belonged to Mr. Witmer, who resides in Houtz's Valley, Liverpool township. Mr. Witmer's loss will reach nearly $5,000. His barn was insured in the Columbia Company for $2,500.

The fire from these barns was communicated to the fences and woods in the vicinity, and burning shingles were carried over a mile to the farms of Daniel Lyons and Lewis Gingrich, but by the exertions of the people of the neighborhood the fire was extinguished before it reached other farm buildings in the neighborhood. WANTED—200,000 good chestnut oak and white oak cross-ties. J. H. M. Todd. The Huntington Journal says: A young man named Bruce Yocum, of Mapleton, was arrested the other day, and held for his appearance at the next court, to answer the charge of malicious mischief in throwing a bottle filled with oil through a window of a passing passenger train. A domestic in the employ of Rev. Jesse Akers, in West Huntington, attempted to commit suicide, on Saturday last, by severing the veins of her arm. She was prevented from the accomplishment of her purpose by the interference of Mr. Akers. She was taken to her home in Lewistown. A large quantity of supplies were shipped from this place, on Friday last, to the Occoals soldiers.

Judge Hall decided, at the recent adjourned court in Somerset county, that lead pencil signatures were not legal, and that the Court hereafter would take no cognizance of petitions, bonds or other papers, unless the signatures be made with ink. The decision will be of importance to many persons, as in a majority of cases the petitions for road or bridge votes are signed with a pencil. If you have a dull headache in the morning, bathe the forehead with Pain Cure Oil. Sold wholesale and retail by Banks & Hamilton, Mifflintown.

Attention, Farmers.—The County Horse Race has gained for itself a wide and lasting reputation and proved itself to be the victor of the race field. It is the best race ever introduced among farmers—the most simple in construction and the easiest managed, as it is self-unwinding. It is the most liable to get out of order, as the wheels are made with the best wood hubs. It does the best work with the least effort on the part of the operator, of any race ever used by the farmer. Each tooth is independent of its fellow, but all are so fastened to the axle that none can get the least out of place. From the ten thousand in use last year, we have yet to hear of the first one that showed any signs of wear. This popular race has established its own reputation in the field, and took the first award of merit at the Juniata County Agricultural Fair, 1874, a gold ribbon of these races last season, and they all gave entire satisfaction. I am also Agent for the sale of the Screw Mower, which was awarded the Prize Gold Medal in a gold medal contest at the expense of the Chester County Agricultural Society, last June. The machinery of the Mower is all enclosed, so that no dirt, wood or straw can get into it to injure or clog it. Little time is required to oil it, as by an improvement of the oil cups, once oiling is all that is needed to cut many acres of grass. The knives are run by a screw gearing; the most thorough and noiseless gearing invented. The whole machine being the most thorough and recent improvement placed in the market. I also sell the Keystone Reaper and Mower combined, with the improved Johnson Self-Rake. This machine is extensively in use among farmers in the eastern part of the State; and wherever it has been introduced it has so excelled its work that there is a constantly increasing demand for it. Give my machines a careful inspection before purchasing elsewhere. I know you will decide in favor of them if you are in need of an improvement of the kind. D. M. JAMISON, Agent. For the Sentinel and Republican. The Penitent Backslider. And am I not a wretch undone? Must I be the Devil's slave? Oh! will my God be never gone, With all his power to save? His mercies long to me were shown, He cared for, pitied, loved; Yet thou like arrows to the winds I've strown, I've sinned, insulted, roved. And yet it was not always so, His once to me was done; When in my grief, affliction, woe, 'Twas He who then was near. I loved to seek His face in prayer; His voice to me so sweet, Poured words of comfort in my ear Whilst kneeling at His feet. But now, oh, God! what can I do? I've sinned Him, grieved Him sore; Oh! can it be, can this be true, That He has shut the door? Oh! Father, no, it cannot be, Thou art a loving Friend; I know, I feel Thou pitiest me, God help me now to mend.
