LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Fourth of July comes on Sunday. The Park is a favorite place for driving. There was a slight frost on Monday morning.

Some days ago the residence of R. F. Wallace, about midway between McConnellsburg and East Waterford, took fire and was entirely destroyed. The fire took place in the afternoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wallace were at the time.

THE June number of THE REPUBLICAN Magazine, published at Washington, D. C., at $2.00 per year, is one of the best yet published. The spy article on "Society in the South," the one on "Romish Designs in America," "Tammany," "Building Associations," "Elements of Wealth in the South," "The Civil Service Experiment," and "Joshua R. Giddings," make the June number alone worth a year's subscription.

A YOUNG lad who resides in Grafton, this county, recently attempted to frighten a man named Lacey, who had been sojourning in that place, until the citizens became tired of him. The lad referred to procured a gun, and after having loaded it with powder and a towad, he pointed it in a menacing manner at Lacey. Not appreciating this kind of sport, the old man turned on the lad, when the latter resolved to make a practical use of the weapon, and discharged the contents of it in Lacey's leg. The injury inflicted by this cruel sport is quite painful, although not dangerous.—Huntingdon Monitor.

THE Huntingdon Journal of last week tells the latest bear story in this way: On Wednesday night of week before last a bear visited the residence of John Nightwine, in Henderson twp., and sought to interview one of his pigs. The old sow put in a demurrer and the dogs took up the case and brunt beat a retreat, after a vigorous fight with the canines, in which they pulled not a little of the wool off him. Mr. Nightwine was several times within a few feet of the infuriated bear, but brum was too much occupied with the dogs to notice him. It would be well if some of our hunters would bear down that way, and draw a fire sight on that "baste."

ERRORS in type-setting are annoying and laughable often. Telegraphic errors are common, too. This is the latest one reported: Not long since a graduate from one of Eastern theological schools was called to the pastoral charge of a church in the extreme Southwest. When about to start for his new parish he was unexpectedly detained by the incapacity of his Presbytery to ordain him. In order to explain his non-arrival at the appointed time, he sent the following telegram to the deacon of the church: "Presbytery lacked a quorum to ordain." In the course of its journey the message got metamorphosed, and fetched the astonished deacons in this shape: "Presbytery lacked a worm on its Adam." The sober church officers were greatly discomfited and mystified.

Jacob Snyder, a Bedford county man who moved to Colorado, and there acquired quite a fortune, was murdered in his adopted home several days ago. The murderer's name is Bishop. The trouble that resulted in Snyder's death grew out of a mining claim. Snyder's remains were brought to Saxton, this State, for interment. After the murder Bishop fled. Ten thousand dollars have been offered for his arrest.

LAST Sabbath morning Rev. John Laird preached in the Presbyterian church in this place. The text of the sermon may be found in the 29th verse of the last chapter of St. John. The verse reads: "The next day John saith unto Jesus coming into him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." The theme or field of discourse deduced from the text was, Christ the Lamb of God. By a style of oratory, and by language eloquent far beyond that with which most men are gifted, Mr. Laird drew and carried the attention of the congregation to the practical lessons of the sermon with deepening interest to the end.

The introductory described St. John, how that he was a remarkable man among the worthy men of the past, and how his coming had been foretold by an angel, his mission, his meeting with Jesus, the baptism of Jesus by John, and how Jesus was thus inducted into the office of the Savior and became Christ; how John was affected by the meeting and ceremony, and led under inspiration to exclaim, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world!" was beautifully and impressively told.

In the language of St. John the word Lamb signified patience, innocence and purity. 1st. Christ was styled a Lamb because he was patient. Under this division the life of the Savior was vividly described, delineated, so that the patient, even, forgiving, God-like qualities of the Redeemer presented themselves in "bold relief" to the minds of the congregation. His patient bearing under accusation, and during the trial before Pontius Pilate, and the Roman Governor and politician, who sent him to Herod, who remanded him to Pilate, who believed him guiltless of the charges preferred against him, but who yielded to popular clamor, outraged his own judgment, and signed the conviction for his execution on the cross; the derisive shouts, the scoffing laughter, the deafening jeers of the multitude that arose on the announcement of the result of the trial, and the gambling that followed for the vesture of the Son of God; and how patient he was under all the outrages, his patience on the cross, his pardon of the thief while undergoing the dissolution of soul and body, was told in a manner, and gift of speech that few men can hope to approach. How unlike man to suffer so, when but to will was to change from life to death, and from death to life. The earth at his will would have dissolved into fragments, into atoms, and the sinful rascal would have sunk into the lost and under world of perdition. Christ's power was without limit, and yet he did not use it. He came not to destroy—but to save. How God-like, "Behold the Lamb of God!"

2nd. Christ was styled the Lamb of God because he was innocent. He was pure as the unsullied snow. Under this head or division Mr. Laird displayed the innocence of Jesus, and thence proceeded to the third division of the sermon. On last Monday morning Dennis, who is almost twenty eight years of age, was engaged with the old gentleman in sorting potatoes, in a yard near the dwelling, when he suddenly grabbed an old-fashioned pitch-fork lying on the ground and struck his father a terrific blow on the head. The skull of the unfortunate man was crushed in by the blow, and death ensued within a few moments.

The victim of this terrible occurrence was about 70 years of age, a native of Cork, Ireland, but for 40 years past a resident of Washington township. He had been very industrious, and accumulated considerable property. On a previous occasion the life of the old man was attempted by the son, but for some time previous to this tragedy he had been comparatively docile. An inquest was held and a verdict in accordance with the facts was rendered. The homicide was taken into custody, and will be tried for murder, but in view of all the circumstances he will be acquitted on the ground of insanity, and ordered to be confined in some asylum where it will be impossible for him to do further injury.—Johnstown Tribune, last week.

PORT ROYAL ITEMS.—Junata Encampment. L. O. F. of O. F. will hereafter meet in the O. G. Fellows' Hall of this place. The location being more central, will be more convenient for the members of the order. Dr. J. P. Sterrett takes possession of the store room under the Odd Fellows' Hall during the present week. The room is a fine one, and the Doctor intends to make it the drug store of the county. A great many changes are taking place in our town this spring. Many of our citizens are remodeling their homes, and the town begins to present a beautiful appearance. The Port Royal Cornet Band has reorganized, with fifteen members, and promises to do a great deal better than of old. A fire company is talked of with that, and a first-class Ice Cream Garden (when we get it) we will get along.

CARD OF THANKS.—I hereby desire to return thanks to David Smith, John D. Auker, Catharine Kurtz and Lydia Guyer, for the generous donation of choice timber, amounting to about $200.00, with which to rebuild my barn, destroyed by fire last winter.—God loves a cheerful giver. GEO. W. SMITH.

DIED: TEMPLE.—On the 9th inst., in Liverpool township, Perry county, Benjamin Temple, aged 63 years, 7 months and 27 days.

WANTED, AGENTS, male and female, to sell tickets, everywhere. Fourteen thousand retained by one. Another writes: "I can make more money at this business than I can on a $40,000 farm, all mixed with wind and hail, not enough of the latter to do damage to vegetation. Years, &c. WILL SPICE.

THE West Chester Republican last week published the following:—On Sunday last, that portion of the borough lying to the north-west, within the neighborhood of Wayne, New and Bridge streets, was wrought into a state of great excitement over the appearance of a mad dog, which bit two women, three children, and a whole regiment of dogs. The rabid cur was owned by Mr. Chas. Walters, and was of the Scotch terrier breed. It was not known that he was mad, until he attacked Mr. Walters' wife, and who narrowly escaped the teeth of the brute, her dress being badly torn. Two children of Mrs. Walters were badly bitten. The dog then started down the street, biting every canine with which he came in contact. Mrs. Cochlin, residing at the corner of Chestnut and New streets, was attacked and bitten, and also a child of George Brown. In both these cases the blood flowed freely from the wounds. This made in all five persons who had fallen victims to the rabid animal. Continuing on his way he bit a number of dogs. By this time an excited crowd had collected and a number of persons gave chase to the animal. Joseph Malton succeeded in shooting him at the corner of Biddle and Darlington streets; and it now remains for the proper authorities to see that the bitten canines are despatched at once. We would advise our citizens to keep a sharp lookout for mad dogs. We trust that the unfortunate people who have been bitten may recover from their wounds, and escape the terrible sufferings of hydrophobia, for the successful treatment of which disease medical science has thus far failed to find any cordial.

THIS, from the Reading Eagle, is the latest on the question of base ball.—Some days since that paper published a letter from a correspondent, who spoke of a lady base ballist in Reading, and challenging Miss Emma Brinton, better known as the "Girl of the Period," to answer to this challenge, Miss Brinton writes as follows:—"To the Editor of the Eagle.—I read in your city paper a challenge to play a game of throw and catch with a base ball. I will accept any challenge from her she may make: to play for fun, or if that is not satisfactory, for any sum not exceeding $300. What will she say to this? It will hardly pay me to come to Reading for nothing, but if she would rather play in Reading, why all right. Such things never did or never can frighten me. I want you to announce that I will play the lady for not less than fifty dollars a side, or all over that amount she may desire. If she accepts this she may look for me sure." (Signed) EMMA R. BRINTON.

ATTENTION, FARMERS.—The County Horse Race has gained for itself a wide and lasting reputation and proved itself to be the victor of the race field. It is the best stake ever introduced among farmers—the most simple in construction and the easiest managed, as it is self-acting. It is the best made with the best wood labor. It does the best work with the least effort on the part of the operator, of any race ever used by the farmer. Each toy is independent of its fellow, but all are so fastened to the axle that none can get the lead out of place. From the ten thousand in use last year, we have yet to hear of the first one that showed the least imperfection. This invention has established its own reputation in the U. S. and took the first prize of merit at the Junata County Agricultural Fair, 1874. I sold fifteen of these Races last season, and they all gave entire satisfaction.

I am also Agent for the sale of the Safety Razor, which was awarded the First Gold Medal in a field contest under the auspices of the Chester County Agricultural Society, last June. The machinery of the razor is all enclosed, so that no dirt, sand or straw can get into it to injure or clog it. Little time is required to oil it, as by an improvement of the oil cups, once oiled is all that is needed to run many acres of razors. The knives are run by a screw gear, the most thorough and noiseless bearing invented. The whole machine being in one piece, and without any adjustment, it is the best of its kind.

I also sell the Keystone Reaper and Mower combined, with the improved Johnson Self-Rake. This machine is extensively in use among farmers in the eastern part of the State; and wherever it has been introduced it has exceeded its work that there is a constantly increasing demand for it. Give my machines a careful inspection before purchasing elsewhere. I know you will decide in favor of them if you are in need of an implement of the kind. D. M. JAMISON, Jr., Agent, McConnellsburg, Junata Co., Pa., May 20-31.

LOST OR STOLEN.—A common promissory Note for one thousand dollars, payable to Michael Muser. Note dated April 1st, 1874, payable one year after date, and signed by W. H. Kurtz and David Meist. All persons are hereby notified not to purchase or bargain for said note, as it has been paid in full. W. H. KURTZ, June 9-31.
