LEGISLATION AGAINST HIGH SALARIES.

has not yet set in down in Connecticut, as may be learned from the action of the Legislature of that State. That body, on the 15th inst., increased the Governor's salary from $2000 to $4000.

WHERE are the bowing Democrats?

This should pronounce that a piece of high extravagance.

LOADER and Price have been indicted for perjury in the Beecher and Tilton case. The tables are turning—

There is a lawyer or two in the case that should have even-handed justice meted out to them before another year passes by.

DEMOCRATIC short-comings are never noticed by that party. The late treasurer of that party in the State of Ohio was a defaulter in State funds to the amount of $650,000. They and the Independents never say a word about it.

THE Beecher-Tilton issue was a great one, and it is by no means certain that the end has yet come. The newest phase to it has been given by one of the jurors nominating one of the lawyers in the case—Mr. Everts—for the Presidency.

MR. JAMES T. SANPLE, of Pittsburg, lost a suit or case in court against certain parties for selling liquor. Refusing to pay the costs, he was sent to jail last week for ninety days.

THE latest practical illustration of how Catholics enforce freedom of thought and action was rendered at Lawrence, Mass., on the 12th inst. See particulars among news items.

MOODY AND SANKY will sail for this country in August.

NEWS ITEMS.

A young man named Radcliffe, of Morristown, N. J., crazed by the death of his wife, has made two attempts to commit suicide. Against that happy union, Philadelphia last week chronicles the arrest of three husbands for attempting to take the lives of their wives. Fortunately they all failed.

A most inhuman murder, committed near Raleigh, N. C., in March last, has just come to light. Scott Partin, a white man, cut his wife's throat, then cut her head off, unpinned her at every joint, then cut the flesh off her bones, and attempted to burn her body up, but did not succeed. Then he murdered his little boy, a child eight months old, in the same manner, and buried the two bodies in a marsh, where they were found last week by infuriated neighbors. Partin has not been arrested.

Governor Brogden has offered $400 reward for him. Circumstances show that Partin's father and brothers were accessory to the murder. If caught Judge Lynch will be invoked. Great excitement prevails in the community. No motive for the murder is known, except that Partin was tired of his wife and child. The past history of crime in the State fails to furnish any parallel case.

The battle of the Boyne was celebrated in cities by Orangemen on the 12th inst. It was the 155th anniversary. The following is the manner in which Catholics in Lawrence, Massachusetts, received a party of Orangemen who had been celebrating the day beyond the city limits: About a dozen Orangemen, with ladies and children, disembarked at 8 P. M. at the steamer landing on Water street, and started to walk up town. A crowd of several hundred Irish were at the landing and followed them, shouting and jeering. When they arrived in front of the Pacific Mills the crowd commenced throwing stones, one of the ladies being struck three times and badly hurt. All the party were more or less injured by missiles thrown at them during their half-mile walk to the police station, whither they went for protection. Four of the men had on regalia, which particularly incensed the mob. One of the men was severely hurt about the head, and had his ash torn from him. On their arrival at the police station a woman was sent to the mayor, who soon arrived at the scene, and undertook to disperse the mob of men and boys, but without avail. The cries and jeers of the mob drowned his voice. The Mayor, with a squad of police, then started to take the party through the crowd to their homes. Essex street, through which they had to pass, was at this time filled for half a mile with the mob. Showers of stones, bricks and other missiles were hurled at the party as soon as it appeared on the street. With the exception of the Mayor, every one of the party was hurt, every one was knocked down and badly hurt. James Spinlow, who was endeavoring to protect his brother's wife, was knocked down, receiving a terrible wound on the head from a brick. At the corner of Union and Spring streets the mob made a furious onslaught on the party, when nearly all the police and Orangemen were knocked down. The latter then, in self-defense, drew their revolvers and began firing on the mob, who were shouting "Kill the ——— Orangemen!" The firing quickly dispersed the mob, who scattered in all directions. It is impossible to learn the accurate result of the shooting. So far as known no one was killed outright. Two men, one woman and a boy twelve years old were wounded; none seriously. Of the Orangemen, twelve were wounded by stones and bricks, some of them quite seriously, and four policemen were more or less hurt. The riot lasted two hours and a half and extended over a route of a mile through the most thickly settled portion of the city. It is the most serious affair of the kind that has occurred here since 1852, and is condemned on every hand as most unprovoked.

A son of Moses L. Miller, of Upper Bern township, Berks county, undertook to ride a steer, and was carried off by the animal and was killed. The amount in the pocket book was about four dollars and fifty cents. That and the watch make the net result about $300. Mr. Pritchard had several thousand dollars in the house, which the rascals might have secured if they had not been frightened by the hired man's escape. That money no doubt caused the attack.—

The leading villain was about six feet in height, with burnside whiskers and dark clothes. The other two were about five feet seven or eight inches, dark clothes, stout built; one with a goatee and chin whiskers and the other a mustache. They were all of very dark complexion, perhaps colored for the occasion. In their hurried departure they left a valise containing some scraps of victuals, matches, scissors and a comb. There was also a letter in the valise, addressed "Shreeves, Millers-town." Its contents were: "I have seen Jim and Andy. Martin will tell you the night we have sat." The letter was dated March 25, 1875, and signed "B. Riley." It is hoped these soundrels may be caught and that a healthy example may be made of them.

A large grain farm failed in Milwaukee, because of its inability to fill a promised order of 240,000 bushels of wheat.

A young girl named Giles, residing at Mill Creek station, near Pottsville, who has been for several years subject to epileptic fits, while washing a floor on the 14th inst., had an attack, and falling forward with her head into a pail of water, was drowned before assistance could be rendered her.

Pittsburg was visited by a heavy rain on the night of the 15th inst. On East street the water ran three feet deep. The calamity last year in that city, being fresh in the minds of the people, created alarm among people who lived in houses on low ground. Many of the inmates of such houses took refuge on the hillside, and for a time the air was rent with screams of women and children. Fortunately the flood soon subsided and no serious damage was done.

There is a daring band of horse thieves, numbering a hundred or more, operating in Arkansas Valley and along the Kansas borders of the Indian Territory. The band is thoroughly organized, one of its leaders being a noted frontier robber named Barnett. Ten of the band were brought into Wichita by a party of soldiers, they having been arrested about eighty miles west of the City. They were taken to Dodge City where there is great excitement among the citizens, and they will undoubtedly lynch a number of outlaws.

A man was recently discharged from the Berks county prison, where he had been serving a term of thirty days for vagrancy, who is only thirty-eight years of age, and has been in twenty-seven different jails, spending twenty years of his life in and learned five trades. He seems to like that kind of life.

Many a youth, this State, is writing in the torture of a social scandal. A Mrs. Bates, a prominent lady of that town, appeared before a Justice of the Peace and induced him institute legal proceedings against Mr. Bates—her husband, for the violation of marriage vows in being too assiduous in his attentions to another woman. The peculiarity of the case is this: Mr. Bates did not anger in the least; he did not attack his wife, but immediately hastened to the office of a Justice and instituted proceedings against Ann Wanch, the woman his wife charged him with being too intimate with. The unlawful lovers have been bound over for trial.

A woman's love when turned away ruthlessly ofttimes turns into deep hatred. A despatch from Springfield, Mass., under date of the 16th inst., illustrates by stating that on the preceding day Mrs. Aurora K. Dinnoek attempted to take the life of Dr. A. W. Thompson, with a revolver, at Northampton, because he had failed to keep his promise to marry her. She failed, and Dr. Thompson has since taken steps for her confinement as a lunatic. Her friends, however, claim that she is not insane, and there is much excitement in the town over the affair.

China will be represented at the Centennial celebration next year.

The search for the body of Mr. Henry Lauder, of Palmyra, who, it is believed, was murdered and buried in a certain locality in Lancaster county, is still going on.

The Legislature of Connecticut has a bill before it that provides for the conferring of the right to vote on women.

One day last week a Grand Trunk, Canada, freight train was detained for an hour by grasshoppers. They were over an inch thick on the rails.

A Montreal woman forty-seven years of age, and who has been married twenty-two years and had nine children, has just discovered that she has no affinity for her husband, and eloped with a boy not yet nineteen. She carried away property belonging to her husband to the amount of over $7,000.

One hundred and fifty "picked Welsh singers" are organizing an expedition to attend the Centennial.

This is the way Barton Coffman, an old farmer near Indianapolis, Indiana, was swindled out of $1,800 some days ago: Mr. Coffman has four sons in business at Carthage, Ill. A swindler posted himself on their family affairs and came to Indianapolis, visiting Coffman, and representing himself as Thos. Graham, a partner of the Coffmans at Carthage. Graham came to the city and purchased horses of Gates & Bray and others, agreeing to pay for them as soon as he could cash a draft on a Carthage (Ill.) bank. He went to Fletcher & Sharp's bank, drew a check on the Hancock County National Bank at Carthage, Ill. The bank refused to cash it without identification and endorsement. Graham referred the bank to Mr. Coffman, who afterwards endorsed the draft. Graham secured the money and left. He is described as tall, of plausible appearance, dark hair, good complexion, right eye blind or contracted, and of good conversational powers.

The Pittsburg Gazette relates the following: Mr. S. S. Bellows, a wool dealer for New York, and who is purchasing agent for the manufacturing firm of Slater's Sons, Webster, Mass., was robbed of $5,000 last week, according to reports. He had drawn the money at Cadis, Ohio, where he had his headquarters, and started on the train to New Alexandria to pay for some wool. He got off at New Alexandria Roads station and started up the hill toward the town, which is about a mile from the station. He says he had got probably half way when, just as he was passing a large oak tree by the roadside, two men jumped out from behind it and grasped him, one on each side, and hurried him off the road and down into a deep hollow, put a rope around his neck, all the time indicating by the pressing of two ugly looking revolvers, which they displayed, that they were terribly in earnest. The victim of all this attention came to the conclusion that all was up with him, and gave expression to his fear by a sharp cry, which, however, was effectually stopped by means of a large, red handkerchief being thrust into his mouth. They then proceeded to search his pockets for the key to his valise, which in the meantime they had taken possession of, but at first not succeeding in finding the key, one of them suggested that they cut the valise open, to which, however, his partner objected, and ere long produced the key, with which they opened the valise, took out the money, inclosed, amounting to $5,000, locked the valise again and restored it and the key to Mr. Bellows, after carefully stowing the money away on their own persons. They then searched him further, taking his pocket book, which contained $25,00, but gave it back again by reason of the small amount therein. They overlooked $500, however, which was stowed away in the pistol pocket of his pants. After they had committed the robbery they remained in the hollow with Mr. Bellows about an hour and a half as he thinks, during which time they threatened him with death at every motion, and finally left him, going in the direction of the station, about the time that the west-bound train (No. 2) was due at Alexandria Roads, telling him that if he made any noise or moved while they were in hearing or seeing distance it would not be well for him. He waited until they got out of sight, and then made the best of his way to his friends in New Alexandria, where he arrived in a very demoralized condition. He says that the men were large—be being quite a small man—and were also armed with revolvers, which were made very ugly against him. They had on false whiskers, he noticed the strings by which they were fastened. They told him that they had spotted him more than a week before, and had been following him up ever since. There is no clue to the robbers.

Hon. Wm. A. Porter, Chief Justice of the Circuit Court of New Hampshire, while riding in a Pullman car from Boston to Concord, on Friday evening, was shot in the right arm through an open window as the train was passing Merrimac station. The shot was doubtless fired by a tramp in revenge for being put off the cars the night before.

A Syracuse, N. Y., lawyer, aged 42 years, committed suicide on Friday last. He left a letter for his friends, saying that he was tired of life and unable to procure work.

A cargo of seven hundred and forty Mormons landed at New York last week on their way to Salt Lake city.

The wife and daughter of Wm. C. Derr were drowned in the canal near their residence below New Buffalo, Perry county, Pa., on the 16th inst. They attempted to cross the canal in a small boat, which upset, throwing them into the water, and before assistance could be rendered they were both drowned.

A few cases of yellow fever were reported at Norfolk, Va.
