FOR TREASURER, HENRY A. STAMBAUGH, OF MILLINTOWN.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY, LOUIS E. ATKINSON, OF MILLINTOWN.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONERS, WILLIAM H. GRONINGER, OF MILLFORD TOWNSHIP.

FOR COUNTY CLERK, GEORGE W. SMITH, OF MILLINTOWN.

FOR COUNTY SHERIFF, FERDINAND F. ROHM, OF PATTERSON.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE, Capt. LOUIS DEGAN, OF FAYETTE TOWNSHIP.

The Convention of Return Judges on Monday did their work expeditiously, thoroughly and satisfactorily.

Last Thursday evening about 7 o'clock, three gentlemen appeared on the platform in Graybill's Hall, before the audience assembled there.

These were Dr. Thomas Elder, the active head of the Temperance movement in this County, in company with Hon. James Black, of Lancaster city, and a Reverend Gentleman whose name we have forgotten.

Dr. Elder introduced them. Mr. Black appeared to make a speech, the Reverend gentleman accompanied him to open the meeting by hymn and prayer, which he did by announcing the hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," in the singing of which a number of the audience of both sexes joined, on the conclusion of the singing of the hymn, the preacher offered a prayer on benediction to the throne of Grace.

The religious preliminary exercises being concluded, Mr. Black came to the front of the platform and delivered a speech in advocacy of the recent Politico Temperance movement.

He opened by dwelling on the superiority of the system of government of the United States, in that it tolerates the advocacy of a cause. In the countries of the old world, there were few places that allowed people to assemble, as his audience assembled to consider matter of politics or State affairs and thence he drifted from the ecology on the rights of "the freedom of thought" to the temperance question and the temperance movement.

He considered the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drink a sin against God, and in its relation to man a crime. The position of the Church on the question was stated, Dr. Rush was quoted, and the dates of the several notable temperance movements in this country given. There were temperance epochs in this country, advances and declines on the question. Mr. Black did not, but he could consistently have deduced from his line of argument, that the cause of the decline in interest in the Temperance cause at stated intervals in the past was purely owing to the efforts to organize it as a Political party, and that declension would have been followed by another natural one, that if political manipulation ruined or caused it to backslide in the past, the present movement will result in the same end. Viewed from a legal standpoint liquor has been a subject for legislative action for many years. It is perfectly consistent he argued to establish or enact a law for its prohibition. He would not deny the personal rights to drink. The legal right to prohibit the traffic could not be denied. The country had recognized the right by allowing legislation in the past on the question. The enactment of the license law itself was a recognition of the right to pass laws in regard to it. But after awhile Mr. Black got away from the general advocacy of the question, purely as a moral and religious issue with sin, and notwithstanding the silent but powerful remonstrance there is continually coming up from the decline of the question at stated times in the history of the movement, which he referred to by epochs, he would organize it now into a political party.

He declared that the question before the people of this country is Ban.

He declared that the Republican party had no issues. He declared that its work was done, that it is a sum party. It was a series of wild declarations and an entire ignoring of the general workings of questions and state policies. The charge adds nothing to Mr. Black as fully comprehending the great issues that have been wrought out in this country by the instrumentality of the Republican party. The very great privilege that Mr. Black spoke so highly of in the opening of his speech has only been secured to the people of this country within the past twelve years, for in one half of this country within the time stated laws were in force that denied the right to discuss all questions, moral, religious and political, whenever people chose to assemble for that purpose. Nearly one-half of this country was opposed to free thought, free speech, free religion, and that portion was a constant menace to the other part, and until the questions were definitely settled by the triumph of one, or the other, no man could tell how it would end. Providence in his wisdom ruled that the system that gives man the right to govern themselves should prevail, and for the first time in the history of the world a free government had been established. Nearly six thousand years have been spent in establishing this government for the people. Nearly eighteen hundred generations of men have passed away in the struggle. It has come in our day and generation. Within the past twelve years, and now we are met by the new heresy that the old troubles among men are all over, there is nothing more to do, all is safe, tear up the organization that was the instrument that Providence employed to advance good among men, the work of 6000 years will not be undone by men who by their own folly were whipped into the recognition of the rights of all men.—The saying that there could be no effort to restore the old order of affairs and go still further back, to older and more rigidly aristocratic systems is itself a criticism on the discernment of the man who makes it. The history of the past disproves it. Take for illustration the Catholic religion, but a few centuries ago it was all powerful. Of governments it was up or pulled down, whomsoever or whatsoever it pleased. Its power has been broken, but there are thousands of learned and intelligent men who seriously insist that it is the determined purpose of that sect to restate itself if it can, with infallibility and indulgence as fully in operation as they were in its best past days.—If the power of Catholicism that has been born, reared and declined within the past 1800 years, is to be feared, but much more should be feared a system of Caste that has been in force from the earliest days of man's occupancy of the earth, and is yet in full force in some form or other in almost every part of the globe, excepting the United States, and here it has been got rid of within a dozen years only.

That part of Mr. Black's speech was a fine illustration of the clap-trap element that the Politico-temperance people have on hand for use. There is another point or two in Mr. Black's speech to which we may direct attention next week, not having the space to devote to it this issue.

The County Republican Convention of Return Judges.

The return judges who were elected on Saturday, the 25th, inst., to hold the Republican Primary election, under the provisions of the Crawford county system, assembled in the Court House in this place, at 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon, to count the votes cast for the respective candidates on Saturday, and to transact such other business as becomes them under the system, which governs the primary working of the party in this county.

At half-past 1 o'clock, Mr. George Smith, chairman of the outgoing committee, called the meeting to order.

On motion, J. T. Nourse, of Acadinia, was chosen chairman, without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Nourse took the chair, and delivered a short and finely timed speech, asking the convention to elect two secretaries.

Stewart Wharton, of Spruce Hill, and W. W. Fuller, of Delaware were nominated. Mr. Fuller, declined the nomination, whereupon John N. Moore, was put in nomination. Without a dissenting voice, Mr. Wharton and Col. Moore, were chosen secretaries, of the convention.

Mr. Lyons suggested that the roll of townships be called, with the object of receiving the names of the return judges.

A motion to the effect was put and unanimously carried.

The Chair ordered the roll to be called, which was done by the secretaries with the following result:

Fayette—W. W. Sharon. Fernanagh—J. W. Wagner. Greenwood—Mildred Woodward.

Susquehanna—No judge, no return, but a letter to the chairman—Geo. W. Smith, of the old County Committee, asking the convention to appoint the committee for the township.

Delaware—W. W. Fuller. Thompson—Thaddeus Zimmerman. Walker—John N. Moore. Port Royal—Samuel Cooper. Turbot—W. W. Landis. Spruce Hill—S. P. Wharton. Lack—No judge, no return. Black Log—J. Lane. Deale—J. T. Nourse. Milford—W. N. Sterrett. Patterson—D. F. Stevens. Millintown—J. Lyons. Tuscarora—R. M. Millie. Monroe—B. F. Mattis—Mr. Mattis was not elected return judge. He had come to the convention as a substitute for H. G. Schellenberger. Mr. Lyons stated that the system under which the Republican party in this County receives returns by the convention of return judges, requires that the return judge himself, or a secretary represent the district in the convention of return judges. He believed that Mr. Mattis had not acted in either the capacity of Return Judge or Secretary. Mr. Mattis said he had not been at the election, but he had been requested to bring the returns by the elected judge—Mr. Schellenberger. Mr. Lyons continued, that the statement of so that a precedent for future irregularities should not be made of it. Mr. Landis moved that the return papers from Monroe township be received by the convention. Mr. Fuller, seconded the motion. It was put by the Chair, and carried without a dissenting voice. Mr. Cooper of Port Royal moved to admit Mr. Mattis to a seat in the Convention, the motion prevailed unanimously and Mr. Mattis became a member of the Convention.

The Chair announced that the counting and announcing of the vote, the next business in order. The judges returned the following vote:

The coast of Texas has been devastated by storm that blew in from the sea and raised the water. It commenced on the night of the 16th and lasted until the night of the 17th.—Telegraphic communication was so broken that for some days the news could not be sent. The town of Indianola was almost entirely destroyed. Indianola is a post village of Calhoun county, Texas, on the west shore of Matagorda Bay. It had in 1870 a population of 1,150, which has probably since considerably increased. There is a line of steamboats between the port and Galveston. A descriptive despatch says: On Thursday the wind blew steadily and strongly. By evening the situation became alarming, and that night became terrific. On Friday morning the water was six feet deep in the streets. Friday night was one of agony. The broad daylight of Saturday revealed a dreadful condition. The town could not be recognized as the Indiana of the day previous. The ruin was total—ruin was everywhere. The people were seen walking and jumping over one gully and another; neighbor met neighbor, and told of the troubles and tribulations of the previous night.—Death and destruction were all around us. Houses were crushed to the ground, others swayed round and were leaning over. The wind was dying out, and the water was disappearing from the streets. Those that could sallied out to learn the news. Bodies of men, women, and children were found in all directions. Police and guards were organized, and search was made for missing relatives and friends. How many have lost their lives in this fearful storm it is impossible to learn. Up to this time sixty or seventy bodies have been found and buried. Men and women were found who had floated off on doors or any thing they could get hold of. Some were beneath the roofs and had been carried away long distances. The escape of so many of the citizens is almost marvellous. The number of human beings drowned will never be known, as there were a large number of strangers in town. The number of lives lost is estimated at one hundred and fifty. A number of persons were out on rafts for hours, but in many cases were not saved. Wm. Taylor, on trial for the Sutton murder, was let out of jail to prevent his being drowned, and he made his escape. All the churches in the town are swept away. The court house is safe. Great destruction prevails. The town of Saline Pass was also submerged, and considerable damage was done to the wharves and buildings by the terrific storm.—Much loss of stock is reported, and the crops in the surrounding country have been considerably injured. No loss of life, happily, has been so far reported. The town of Matagorda was swept. Only two houses were left standing.—The town of Cedar Lake was also washed away. Twenty-five of its inhabitants were drowned.

Later despatches say the loss of life at Indianola, Texas by the recent cyclone, is estimated at fully four hundred persons. The stench from the putrifying bodies buried beneath the ruins of the town is described as horrible.

The explosion of a threshing machine boiler, near Defiance, Ohio, killed three men, mortally wounded one, and severely wounding two others.

A young lady stopped at the Lebanon Valley House, Lebanon, Pa., on Monday a week, and registered the name of Miss Luella Greene, of Philadelphia. At noon she started to walk down the track of the Lebanon Valley Railroad. When about two miles from the town she met a freight train, when she wrapped her shawl around her and deliberately threw herself upon the track. Her head was severed from the body. A slip of paper was found in her pocket upon which was written the name of Martha Nelson. The young lady has been identified as Miss Mary A. Showalter, of Spring City, Chester county, by her parents, and the body was taken to that place for interment.

Mrs. White, of Marlboro, N. H., a widow lady, while temporarily insane, on the evening of the 22nd inst., cut the throat of Mrs. Gerand, a lady visiting her, and afterwards cut her own throat with a scythe. Neither is expected to recover.

Queen Victoria is credited with having fired the first shot at Wimbledon, when the range was opened, and with having hit the bull's eye, but the fact that her rifle was aimed, and that she stood in a vice, sixty yards from the spot in which she handled the silver cord that pulled the trigger, is usually omitted from the narrative.
