B. F. SCHWEIER.

BY JEAN INGELOW. When I hear the waters fretting When I see the chestnut letting All her lovely blossom faiter down, I this "Alas the day!" Once, with magical sweet singing That awakes no more while April ho

Sweet as air, and all beguiling; And there hung a mist of bluebells slope and down the dell ; And we talked of joy and splendo That the years unborn would render And the blackbirds helped us with the sto for they knew it well--Piping, fluting, "Bees are humming

April's here, and Summer's coming Don't forget us when you walk, a man men, in pride and joy; Think on us in alleys shady When you step a graceful lady ; For no fairer days have we to hope for, li girl and boy.

Laugh and play, O lisping waters Lull our downy sons and daughters; Come, O wind, and rock their leafy cradle thy wanderings coy; When they wake we'll end the me With a wild sweet cry of pleasure, And a 'Hey down derry, let's be merry, little girl and boy !"

At North Conway.

THE MISTAKE OF AN EVENING.

"I think you said-" There was which she had received, "Miss Sylvester

"I beg your pardon," said Philip Van Dorne, coming back to the contempla-tion of his supper with a sudden start, and blushing like a school boy as he became conscious of his mistake; and then, as the relieved damsel sped away, her evident fears as to his lapse from sanity being quieted by a less difficult order, he gianced again at the distant he set himself resolutely to the table where sat the three personages walking off the new depression and un-whose advent had so surprised, and, as

Two ladies and a gentleman;—one lady tall, pale and dark-eyed, with a way from them;" and, pursuant to wonderful crown of pale gold hair; the various this plan, he was one of the latest arbitrary and the proper table, and at the support table, and at in the support table, and at the support table, and at in the support table, a round, piquant, peach-blossom face, wide blue eyes, and fair hair, cut close babyish rings; the gentleman a rather grave looking, but decidedly handsome man, with no peculiarity of look or demeanor that would justify Philip Van

He watched them furtively until they Emmie. rose to depart; but as they passed by, he was to all appearance entirely ab-heart throb strangely.

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., FEBRUARY 16, 1876.

"I beg your pardon," she said; and, looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

looking up, her eyes met his for a mo."

This would give nearly 2000 verses of pear with their hands gloved. It Homer in the space that Huet considers not always so, for in a letter dated 1625 can be made to hold 15,000. Elian re- we read: "This day my Lord Coke, with d und uncords that a Lacodemonian artist wrote in letters of gold a posy of two verses, said.

Reep Peter Bules, a celebrated and irasciPeter Bules, a celebrated and irasciother a mere child in appearance, with rivals at the supper table, and ate in leaf containing the same matter as a cred as foolish as to cat the paring page of the great Bible. The entire of an apple when one might ta book was enclosed in a walnut not fruit itself; and from kissing hands for and curling around her forehead in little broad piazza a little later, and, looking larger than a hen's egg. The British love came kissing hands for politeness man, with no peculiarity of look or the temptation to join them. "After in size, but the lines of the drawing taking, without athought of suiting the demeanor that would justify Philip Van all," he said, "it is only to-night, after are formed of very small writing, and action to the word. A story is told of Dorne in staring at him in such a de- which she will go out of my life entirely." contain the contents of a small folio an old laird, who, being presented to "Have you been dancing?" he asked. one of the smallest books ever produced is an octavo entitled, "The Bible in

In Morocco the number "five is never mentioned in the Sultan's presence, because five is the number of the fingers of the hand; and the hand, as the wielder of sceptre, sword and pen should be, is the sword and pen should be. day anywa, and if I go it will book as vivid blank sweeping across her have though"—as though he had not forgotten old times quite so completely as desired in the rwide eyes. The staked and laughed with is mine, and the word of the hand; and the hand, as the will be taked and laughed with is mine, and the staked and laughed with it hem; but the pale face opposite grew interested as an appreciative.

After breakfast they strolled around after the usual fashion of North Conway visifants, and Philip, having nothing, and appreciative.

After breakfast they strolled around after the usual fashion of North Conway visifants, and Philip, having nothing, and gladly returned to Emmie for relief. She, at least, was unchanged, and gladly returned to Emmie for relief. She, at least, was unchanged, to find the pale and the world of the hand of the mine that churchman, he declined the favor with disdain, declaring he was accustomed to make free with the lips of the greatest Queen in the world, and was not going to do less by a dirty little duchess; then seizing the astonished lady by the waist, the bold Cardinal, spite of struggles and perturbations, kissed her thrice upon the mouth. With equal disregard for etiquette, but with more simplicity, did the country dames, to whom Charles II. presented his hand, put up their lips for the king to kiss, a breach of custom the Merry Monarch readily forgave; forgave, we may be sure, with more sincerity than James I. forgave Sir Henry Yelverton for speaking disrespectfully of his countrymen when, in token of pardon, he allowed the indiscret orator to kiss his royal hand thrice are be left the present Kissers in the will do well to push on to the second cataract, and tarry in Nubia as long as the weather will permit. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February, and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the wint. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February, and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the wint. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February, and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the sing to the caterior. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the sing to the water will permit. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the sing to the caterior. He was the water will permit. He may return to Assowan toward the end of February and bask for a few days among the sunny creeks of the rapids, where he will enjoy the sing to the caterior. He was the may can the first caterior to the second caterior, and tarry in to the exertion of the rapids, where he will enjoy the sing to the caterior to the sec tains twenty letters to the linear inch. and she put 17 lines into an inch. This would give nearly 2000 verses of Speculative Values Alnaschar; how he invested a few coppers in a basket of crockery and imagined rapid sales and high profits reinvested, and prosperity and wealth flowing in upon him, until he was in a position to marry a princess. While gloating over his imagined good fortune, in that insolence of false pride which is too apt to accompany sudden wealth, Alnaschar spurns his princess, and suiting the action to the thought, kicks down the basket and smaskes the crockers.

seeks in a cipy. The his See, framed at Fully, which the large frame continued and the back power of t

"Yes," replied Alexander, "follow us; we are just going there." The stranger thanked him, and the Carbonized apples of small size, identical with those growing wild in the woods of Switzerland, have been found abundantly in lake bottoms and in a tolerable state of preservation. Mr. Messikommer discovered on one occasion more than three hundred of them lying together. They are often cut in halves, more rarely in three or four parts, and were evidently dried for consumption during winter. Whether sion more than three hundred of them lying together. They are often cut in halves, more rarely in three or four parts, and were evidently dried for consumption during winter. Whether was much hurt, and the family were a larger kind of apples found at Robena larger kind of apples found at Robenhausen was cultivated, or a wild-growing species, remains undecided. Prof. Oswald Heer, of Zurich, who has published an interesting work on lacustrine services entitled him; and when she vegetable remains, inclines to the for-regetable remains, inclines to the for-mer view. Wild pears were treated in mer view. Wild pears were treated in spouse. "He does everything for you," mer view. Wild pears were treated in the same manner; but they are far less common than apples, which must have formed a much-sought article of diet. Among other vegetable remains accumulated in the lake mud may be mentioned hazel-nuts and beech-nuts, which doubtless both grew in great plenty; also water-chestnuts, which doubtless were collected and eaten by the lake-men, as the child would say to this lady; "he earns money, and buys you all that you have; he shovels your paths for you", this being perhaps on a snowy morning when that process was audible—"and yet you do not remember all his kindness." The whole assumed recollected and eaten by the lake-men, as the control of the control an old laird, who, being presented to George the Fourth at a levee, in his ignoreance and anxiety to get through the business, ignored the hand extended to him, and, with a hasty blow, edged to-ward the door with all speed. Brought ward the door with all speed. Brought ward the door with all speed. Brought was the said of the ward the door with all speed. Brought whispered reminder to be restricted to a tarn in the whole of a New England winter.

Now it must, however, be said of the canton of Lucerne. There have further the stones of the ston

He was a first and a section of the section of the Joseph's Wife.—The fame of Joseph, the son of Jacob, and the great minister and servant of Pharaoh, is not by any means confined to the present readers of the Bible. In Egypt he is still remembered, although they don't think so much of him as we do, while the Mahommedans have, or pretend to have, his full history.

It may not be out of place to give their story of his marriage. They say that one day, when he was in the full tide of power, he went out driving, and by the roadside an old woman stopped the horses of his chariot and begged for alms. As he lookest at her, Joseph by the roadside an old woman stopped the horses of his chariot and begged for alms. As he looked at her, Joseph thought he had never seen so very ugive a woman, and as he was rather plain spoken in those days, he told her so. The old woman told him as his God answered all his prayers, he should pray that she might be made young again, promising him that then she would not be so ugly. Joseph at once lifted up his hands and voice, and prayed God to make her young and beautiful, and when he turned again to look at her, she was so young and so the gentlemen who have been so exceedingly kind to me?"

"I befleve you have already heard of me," replied Alexander. "I am the emperor of Russia."

"A capital joke," exclaimed the Gascon; "the emperor of Russia?" "And you," he asked, of the second, "who are you either, as I am the king of Prussia."

"I suppose I am not entirely unknown to you either, as I am the king of Prussia."

"Better and better," replied the Gascon. "And you?" he said, turning to the third.

"I am emperor of Austria."

The Gascon burst into a fit of laughter. Alexander then said to him:

"I suppose you will tell us now likewise with whom we have the honor of speaking?"

"Certainly," replied the Gascon,

"Certainly," replied the Gascon,

"Certainly," replied the Gascon,

"Certainly," replied the Gascon,

"And when he turned again to look at her, she was so young and so lovely, that he fell in love with her and married her. She long outlived him, and died very old, becoming the only old woman in Heaven, because, according to the Moslem or Mohammedan belief, all women are made young in Heaven, but only once, and Joseph wife had already been changed, so she must remain in Heaven forever as an old woman.

Such is the Moslem story, and there are several morals in it, which you can hunt up if you will, and while you are looking them out, let those who know the meaning of the word "usurer" and "usury," try to think how and where Joseph became the first usurer in history, and what were the consequences of his usury; and as I may as well tell you that we ravens don't like Joseph, are if you can the third.

"The Gascon burst into a fit of laughter. Alexander then said to him:

"I suppose you will tell us now like-wise with whom we have the honor of speaking?"

"Certainly," replied the Gascon,

you that we ravens don't like Joseph, see if you can tell the reason why?

one of them with a paper doll, gorge-ously arrayed. She named it the Mar-versation?

I give his remark entire.

"We all know," said he, raising his eyebrows, "that rivers in time will carry land from one place and deposit it in another. Perhaps the best illustration of this fact is lower Egypt, which Herodotus said the Egyptian priests average annual message of the President.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

-Twelve thousand dollars worth of dried fish are every month sent from -The property and franchises of the New York Central Underground rail--At Milwaukee a new telegraphic

-There are fourteen pairs of living twins in New Hanover township, Hunterdon county (N. J.,) according to the assessors' returns.

-An Iowa Colonel who has survived four wives, and is only ninety-two years old, is about to wed a young lady of sixty-seven Summers.

-Senator Oglesby, of Illinois had his infant son baptized, recently in water which the Senator brought from the river Jordan twenty-years ago. -The total number of hogs slaughtered in Cincinnati this season is 398,-789. The number slaughtered at the

-An extensive petrified forest has been discovered in the desert of Northwestern Humboldt, west of the Black

Rock range of mountains, in Nevada. -A New York lady has a punch-A Child's Fancy.—I knew a little girl who spent a winter with two maiden ladies, and who had been presented by dead these eighteen hundred years and

> -During the first three weeks of an Iowa saving bank the deposits amounted got disgusted, stole that, and is now far away. -Missouri has "farmed out" its Pen> itentiary leasing it to a party who agrees to manage and maintain it, and to pay to the State $112.50 a year for the privilege. -Out west, in the great grain-grow> ing regions, they use straw for fuel to drive their steam threshing-machines, and it is so managed that it answers -A California inventor has natented contrivance for driving sewing-machines, which does away with the treadle. It is driven by and runs like elockwork. -The Independent, published at Bry-ant, Fulton County, Ill., is the smallest paper in America. It is published onthly, and the subscription price is 15 cents a year.

THE MUSIC OF CHILDHOOD.

self" over another man's wife. "Better face it out," he thought. "It's only today anyway, and if I go it will look as though"—as though he had not forgotten old times quite so completely as desirable. "Better crown of Kearsarge; but as he spoke the last word, she turned quickly, a vivid blush sweeping across her face, and looked up at him with a great wonderment in her wide eyes.

themselves away.

would Rose mind?" No, Rose wouldn't; and before Philip realized it had been written on a piece of parchament, so small as to be enclosed in a nutshell. Huet, although skeptical, and once, as the carriage swayed heavily, her gloved hand rested on his arm with a wife light transport which conducted him that it was possible, although others may still doubt. He tells us that a a swift, light pressure, which made his may still doubt. He tells us that a startled look on the pleasant face of the ment—only a moment; but as she possible to write in a single line thirty turned away a sudden wave of crimson verses of the Iliad, and to squeeze 250 swept over her face.

"She has not forgotten, then," he and dipped toast," was rather a novel one. "I don't think I understand you, sir."

She has not lorgoren, then, thought grimly, glancing at the two opposite.

Roger Colchester was, to all appearance, unconscious of the little by-play; but Emmie's blue eyes were a trifle wider than usual, and she was looking > osity on her face. All that afternoon Philip was invisible, Taking a full eigar-case as a companion, > at Rose with a sudden surprised curistately solitude. When, however, he went out on the

"I won't see her again," cidedly vindictive and unprepossessing So he sauntered in, in his lazily graceful way, and took the vacant seat beside verses of the Iliad, and to squeeze 250 lines in a single page. The two sides of the leaf would hold the 15,000 verses of Homer's poem. A line of Iliad contains about thirty letters, hence 900 letters would have to be written in every line, which, if not beyond the bounds

Paris in 1815, the emperor of Russia, who resided at Talleyrand's palace, was his two allies, and the three sovereign were going together to the Rue S Florentine, when they were met by man who, in all probability, had arrive "Gentlemen," said he to the allied princes, "can you tell me where I can find the Tulleries?"

conversation was continued. A few minutes after they reached the palace, and, as their paths separated, they took leave of one another. "One word more," added the stranger, wise with whom we have the honor of speaking?"

"Certainly," replied the Gascon, drawing himself up to his full height and walking majestically; "I am the Great Mogul."

The Emperor Alexander often related this amusing episode to his friends.

Fruit in Prehistoric Times.

There is a homely proverb which warns us against counting our chickens before they are hatched. A beautiful