

Government by Detectives.

Under the above heading the New York Daily Graphic writes that the Democrats in the House have made an important innovation in our political system. Once government by the people was the Democratic watchword. It was under its magic spell that the Democracy rose to power under Jefferson and governed the country for a quarter of a century. Then they gave us the Jacksonian programme of government by party. Under his energetic leadership they inaugurated the "spoils" system, which has demoralized our civil service and had such a disastrous effect on politics generally. Now they have introduced a still more questionable device, which may be called government by detectives. The system is ingenious and unique. The Democratic House of Representatives has virtually resolved that it is Congress, and that Congress is the supreme power in the land. It has resolved each of its committees into a board of investigation for the discovery of charges against Republican officers and the destruction of the Republican party. To carry out the system a great body of detectives, of all grades, but most of them of the worst reputation, has been set to work to discover or manufacture or surmise facts and suspicions against prominent Republicans in office and out of it. A set of "jobs" and "strikes" and "dead beats" have been drafted into a secret spy service and let loose upon the country to hunt down reputations, damage characters, besmirch the Administration, and kill off every dangerous candidate for the Presidency.

It is a new method of governing a great nation, and it does not work well. The machinery is not adjusted to the power, and the hands do not know how to work it. At first the plan succeeded admirably. Getting wind of a quarrel between two women, the detective police succeeded in finding facts enough to proceed against Secretary Belknap, though most of the charges were old. But the rifle that brought down Belknap, like the double-barrel gun in the hands of the cross-eyed man, did more execution than they intended, and killed off Pendleton beyond the possibility of a resurrection. The attack on Blaine has resulted in an unexpected and powerful rebound. The attempt to damage Bristow has raised him in public estimation. The effort to prove that the President had used the public money to secure his own re-election in 1872 turned out the most ridiculous and damaging failure, and had an appropriate finale in the solemn testimony of a witness who had run away from a lunatic asylum. The character of the witness brought forward in the safe-burgary affair, and the fact that they now contradict what they formerly testified under oath, throw a profound distrust on all their declarations. Nothing is gained by this indefatigable boring for snuff. The clumsy methods adopted by the investigators, the transparency of their purpose, the reign of terror they produced by letting loose a regiment of unprincipled spies, some of whom have given out that they were to be paid $20,000 for working a clear case against an honorable Administration officer, and the disgust of all parties at the whole business, have brought discredit on the system. Plainly, government by detectives is a failure.

The Democratic operators of the new system have got more than their hands full. They find the secret detectives they set on the track of Republican officials and candidates have no prejudices to overcome and no scruples to contend against. They are on the make, like their masters, and do not see why they should bag a little game on their own account when they get a chance. They pick up information and work up hints against whomsoever they think it safe to "strike." It is said that they have already intimidated rich Democrats that unless they "come down handsomely" it will go hard with them. Democratic candidates shake in their shoes at possible revelations, and the Whisky Ring thieves, who supposed their Democratic allies would protect them, now suspect they have been bled only to be betrayed. It is general defamiation and blackmail. No wonder that Democrats protest against more investigations, and the honorable leaders of the party implore its representatives in Congress to stop playing the part of inquisitors and go about their legitimate business. The new system is novel, but it bids fair to exterminate its operators as well as its objects, and is hardly likely to immortalize its inventors. If Congress cannot give the country a little old-fashioned legislation, the sooner it adjourns the better for its reputation.

The Republican programme for May is out. It is replete with valuable material, especially in relation to the policy of "peace and retrenchment." There are four articles which themselves are worth a year's subscription—"Crippling the National Government," a review of the pending appropriation bill, "The Effect of Disorganizing the Department Service," "The Civil Service Force in the Employment of the Government," an analytical statement of the civil officials in the service of the Republic, (this is a paper of considerable value), "Our Currency—Banks and Banking," an historical paper, and "Labor and Wages in the United States." All politicians, editors, and others interested in public affairs need this magazine. Send $2 for a year's subscription to the Republican Publishing Company, Washington, D. C.

A tragedy was enacted in Paint township, Somerset county, on the 19th ult. John J. Sease struck Jacob Rose a fatal blow across the head, with a piece of lath, about four feet long and three inches wide, which fractured the latter's skull, causing death in a few hours. After the injury had been inflicted on him, Rose went before a Justice of the Peace for the purpose of making information against Sease, but before he had finished his statement, he became so ill that he was unable to conclude it. Both of the parties to this unfortunate occurrence were about fifty years of age, and were the owners of adjoining farms in Somerset county. It is said that they had been on bad terms for a considerable time previous to the date of the quarrel which resulted in the death of R. Se.

A Jersey farmer, residing in Trenton, came to the Centennial City the other day, and wandered on until he came to Eighteenth and Locust streets, where he met some confidence men, who, after talking to him very politely, asked him where he hailed from. On being told Trenton, one of them remarked that he lived in Paterson and would go up on the train with him, and said to another that he did not care about carrying all this gold around (displaying it at the same time), as it was too heavy.

The farmer, on seeing the glittering coin, thought it was a good time to begin the resumption of specie payment, and said eagerly, "I will give you greenbacks for it." The man hesitated a few moments and began to count it out to the amount of eighty dollars.

The farmer gave him in return the same sum in currency. A short time after the confidence men mysteriously disappeared. When the former saw that his friends were gone he suspected that he had been swindled, and, examining the coin, found that it was bogus. Sadly he wended his way to the Kensington depot to return home, moneyless, but perhaps a wiser man. While on his way to Trenton on the 8.20 P. M. train his mind wandered back into the afternoon when misfortune overtook him, and when the train stopped at the Frankford junction he thought he saw a face which he had seen before, but was not positive. The man came on board, and on seeing the farmer he ran through the train, which was going at a rapid speed, and jumped off above the Tullytown station. The swindler was picked up by Officers Mertz and Taiman, and taken to the station-house, where they found in his possession some of the same coin which he had given to the farmer. On being taken down on the train to St. Mary's Hospital he said that he was from Baltimore, and that his family lived in Paterson, New Jersey. On being examined by the doctor, two scamp wounds were found, one on the back of the head and another on the forehead.

The above two names, Aaron Paxton and Lewis Paxton, and his age was 49 years. He is a stout man, light complexion, with sandy mustache, and very powerful.—Forry's Press.

BROTHER JONATHAN CHIDES HIS SISTER, PUBLIC OPINION.

BROTHER JONATHAN—Sister Public Opinion, my heart aches when I see the result of your wayward course in the election of the Democratic Lower House of Legislature in Pennsylvania. "Reform! Reform!" you cried. See, see! how they misled, and how they lied. Their promised reform is but a pile of logs and a boom, that has boomed a long loud scandal on the State, that will require years of cruel penance to wipe out. For three and four hundred dollars per head they voted to and fro on the question of the log. Be warned in time, Miss Public Opinion, and at the next election do not favor the same old party. If you do, they will do worse in the Nation than they did in the State on the log.

PUBLIC OPINION—Nay, nay! Dear Brother Jonathan, chide me not so; I, too, am heart-sick at the bad end of my work, and when the idea of next November comes, you will see that Public Opinion has acted nobly once again, and declared the Democratic House has boomed its doom, and in this State is entirely undone.

HEALTH AND ITS PLEASURES, OR Disease with its Agonies: CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Nervous Disorders. What is more fearful than a breaking down of the nervous system? It is excruciating or nearly so in a small degree, most distressing, for where can a remedy be found? There is one—drink but little wine, beer, or spirits, or fat better, none; take no coffee,—eat less being preferable; get all the fresh air you can; take three or four Pills every night; eat plenty of solids, avoiding the use of salts; and if these golden rules are followed, you will be happy in mind and strong in body, and forget you have any nerves.

Others and Daughters. If there is one thing more than another for which these PILLS are so famous, it is their purifying properties, especially their power of cleansing the blood from all impurities, and removing dangerous and suspended secretions. Universally adopted as the one grand remedy for female complaints, they never fail, never weaken the system, and always bring about what is required.

Sick Headaches and Want of Appetite. These fevers which soadden us, most frequently arise from annoyances or trouble, from obstructed perspiration, or from eating or drinking what is unfit for us, thus disordering the liver and stomach. These organs must be regulated if you wish to be well. The Pills, if taken according to the printed instructions, will quickly restore a healthy action to both liver and stomach, whence follow, as a natural consequence, a good appetite and a clear head. In the East and West Indies scarcely any other medicine is ever used for these disorders.

How to be Strong. Never let the bowels be either confined or unduly acted upon. If they appear singularly torpid, Holloway's Pills should be resorted to for a run upon the bowels, many persons supposing that they would increase relaxation. This is a great mistake, however; for these Pills will immediately correct the liver and stop every kind of bowel complaint. In warm climates thousands of lives have been saved by the use of this medicine, which in all cases gives tone and vigor to the whole organic system, however deranged,—health and strength following as a matter of course. The appetite, too, is wonderfully increased by the use of these Pills, combined in the use of solid in preference to fluid diet. Animal food is better than broths and stews. By removing acids, fermenting and other impurities, which are the cause of dyspepsia, diarrhoea, and other bowel complaints, is expelled. The result is, that the disturbed and irritable action of the bowels becomes regular. Nothing will stop the relaxation of the bowels so quickly as this fine correcting medicine.

Disorders of the Kidneys. In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water; or whether the secretion is thick, or stone or gravel, or with aches and pains settled in the loins over the regions of the kidneys, these Pills should be taken according to the printed instructions, which will give almost immediate relief when all other means have failed.

For Stomachs out of Order. No medicine will so effectually improve the tone of the stomach as these Pills; they remove all acidity, occasioned either by intemperance or improper diet. They reach the liver and reduce it to a healthy action; they are wonderfully efficacious in cases of spasms—in fact they never fail in curing all disorders of the liver and stomach.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases: Ague, Intermittent, Jaundice, Bilious Complaints, Liver Complaints, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Constipation, Sciatica, Debility, Stone and Gravel, Secondary Sympptoms, Female Irregularities, Tumors, Pains of all kinds, Ulcers, Headache, Weakness from any Indigestion, &c., &c.

CAUTION!—None are genuine unless the signature of J. H. HOLLOWAY, as agent for the United States, surmounts each box of Pills and Ointment. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.
