South Carolina has unmistakably gone for Hayes and Hampton. The count of the vote by the State Board is accepted by all parties in that Commonwealth as correct.

The reunion of the 49th Regiment, Pa. Vol., was held at Huntingdon on the 14th inst. Mifflintown has been selected as the place for the Reunion to be held at next year.

Joseph Altland, aged seventy years, carried the election returns on the morning of the 8th, from Jackson township, York county, to York borough, a distance of eleven miles, on foot.

The Philadelphia Herald scored a double victory, when a State goes for Hayes it is a fraud.

The largest fish caught in this county, as far as known, was caught by Mr. David S. Lantz, of Patterson, in Licking Creek, a few days ago. It was a pike. Its length was nearly 26 inches, and its weight was almost five pounds.

At Altoona, last week, a man named Lantz killed a man named Hayes by striking him on the head with a wooden nail. They were both employees of Allegheny Furnace. Following the killing, Dr. Hayes, Dr. Shoemaker, and a number of local celebrities.

A few days ago a number of tramps took possession of a freight car that was attached to a train west of this place.

"Inspecting trains have passed over the Pennsylvania Railroad to ascertain the condition of the track. In front of the locomotives of the different trains respectively were 'goddola' cars, which sloped down like the tank of a shifting engine, and from these the officials of the road had a clear and unobstructed view in front of them. The trains were run at the rate of from twelve to fifteen miles per hour."

Mr. KEATING, of California, thus wrote to a friend: "Merit in the morning when I lay awake in the morning and think of thee, I fancy I see the canopy of heaven open and a bright vision of an angelic girl. She weighs 180 pounds and has sued him for breach of promise."

ONE of the singular characteristics of the closing hours of the late Presidential campaign, is the fact that on the evening of election day, before the polls were closed, Democrats began to declare that Tilden had been elected, and if any other result than that was reached it must be a fraudulent result. They kept repeating that continually until by midnight and 1 o'clock on the morning of the day after the election they believed the story themselves, and commenced to talk about a great jubilee in honor of the event, the principal features of which were ox roasts and attending luxuries.

The sum of money "bet" on Hayes and Tilden in New York is estimated at one hundred and fifty millions of dollars, and a proportionate amount in all large towns and cities. That amount of money at stake among gamblers is sufficient to get up a great excitement wherever they frequent. The gamblers and other bad people are the only classes that talk of a civil war following the announcement of the election of Hayes or Tilden. The great mass of the people of both parties will have no war over a question that can be settled without it, and they are determined that the gamblers, bummers, loafers and other useless men shall not bring about a war. The very men who so flippantly talk about war are the people who in the end would come out the losers. It is the duty of all good citizens to set themselves against such people; they are bad people.

On Saturday a week, about 3 o'clock afternoon, Amos Hehrlich, aged about 14 years, left his father's house in Herford township, Berks county, and went to a strip of woods to gather chicken grapes. He climbed a tree for that purpose, got fast in the forks of two limbs, and was not found till on the following Monday morning about seven o'clock. He was entirely unconscious, and remained so until on Wednesday, when he revived and was strong enough to tell his fearful adventure. He said he had climbed up a tree about thirty feet after some chicken grapes, on Saturday afternoon about three o'clock. The limb was slippery and he lost his foothold and fell toward the ground. In his descent he was caught in the fork of the branches, where he was so tightly wedged that he could not possibly free himself. He was bruised and very weak. He screamed at the top of his voice, but was not heard. That night he thought he would die. All day Sunday and Sunday night he was delirious, and toward Monday morning he became unconscious, and remained so until found.

All the bachelor editors, and all the sour, married, widower editors, who have had as many wives as they could get, and are still hoping for other instalments, are publishing the following item in their papers:

"To get up a handkerchief flirration, get two handkerchiefs, and two towels, and the rules of flirration."

An exchange, out of pity for the editors who published the above scurrilous notice on handkerchief flirration, has published the rules. They are as follows:

Drawing the handkerchief across the lips, means, I desire an acquaintance.

Letting it rest on the cheek—Yes, letting it rest on the left cheek—No.

Folding it—I wish to speak with you.

Dropping it—I wish to be friends.

Opposite corners in both hands—Do wait for me.

Taking it by the center—You are almost too willing.

Drawing it across the cheek—I am sorry.

Twisting it in the right hand—I love another.

Twisting it in both hands—Indifference.

Drawing it around the fore finger—I am engaged.

Placing it over the right ear—How you have changed.

Over the shoulder—Follow me.

Drawing it across the forehead—Look, we are watched.

Putting it in the pocket—No more love at present.

JUDGE JUNKIN lately rendered an important opinion affecting Road Supervisors. It appears William Leedy and Robert C. Grady, Supervisors of Penn township, Perry county, were allowed by the Auditors 5 per cent. on both duplicates, which together aggregate $2,153.89. After all expenses were deducted, $2,153.89 taxes in the duplicates, $1,651.93 was paid in labor, and the balance, $501.96, was collected by the supervisors in cash. Notwithstanding this small amount collected in cash, the supervisors charged 5 per cent. on the full amount of both duplicates, and the Auditors allowed it. Judge Junkin decides that the supervisors can only charge the 5 per cent. on what they actually collected in cash, and nothing on that part of the taxes paid in labor. In fact, he says it is questionable whether they have a right to charge any per cent. for money they collect, as they are not collectors, and are paid by the day for their labor. The law provides that they shall appoint a suitable person to collect the taxes, and that such person shall be allowed 5 per cent.; but only for what he actually collects in cash. The law also requires that supervisors shall give public notice of a fixed time and place to meet all tax-payers, when and where the amount to be worked out by each taxpayer who wants to work shall be agreed upon.

WEEK OF PRAYER.—The first week in January having been for a long time very generally observed by Christians in many lands, as a week of prayer, the British organization of the Evangelical Alliance has prepared and published the following programme, which is commended as a basis of subjects, to be modified as may be more acceptable to Christians in the several countries:

Sunday, Jan. 7.—Sermon.—Christian fellowship. 1 John i. 7.

Monday, Jan. 8.—Thanksgiving and Confession—in the review of the past year.

Tuesday, Jan. 9.—Prayer: For the Holy Spirit on the Universal Church; Joel ii. 28—for its deliverance from error and corruption, and for its faith, activity, holiness, and Christian charity.

Wednesday, Jan. 10.—Prayer for families—for the unconverted; for sons and daughters at school and college, and for those abroad; for any in sickness, trouble, or temptation; and for those who have been recently "added to the church."

Thursday, Jan. 11.—Prayer for nations—for rulers, magistrates and statesmen; for philanthropists and benevolent institutions; for a pure literature, and the spread of sound education among the people, and the maintenance of peace.

Friday, Jan. 12.—Prayer for Christian missions to the Jews and Gentiles. Luke xxiv. 47; for Sunday schools; and for the conversion of the world to Christ.

Saturday, Jan. 13.—Prayer for the observance of the Christian Sabbath; for the promotion of temperance, and for the safety of those who go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters.

Sunday, Jan. 14.—Sermons:—One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all. Eph. iv. 5, 6.

A DETROIT boy, after finishing the last chapter of a book called "The Pleasures of the Deep," pleaded with his father to let him ship aboard a lake schooner. The old man smiled a grim smile, took the case under consideration, and in a few days the boy was on the rolling deep, having shipped as a greenhorn on a vessel in the lumber trade. He sailed to Saginaw, came down and crossed to Toledo, and next day he appeared in Detroit, lame and stiff, with his throat sore, one eye nearly shut, and a feeling of humbleness running all through him. "What 'back again?" cried the old man, as the boy entered the house. "Yes, father, I want to saw all the wood for winter, bring in all the coal, clean out the cellar and paint the barn, and you needn't but give me but two meals a day."

"Don't you like sailing?" "Father, you don't begin to realize anything about it. The captain sailed right along on Sunday, the same as any other day, and I believe he swore even harder. He wouldn't give me an umbrella when it rained, he made me sit up most all night, and two or three times he called me up at midnight and made me haul on ropes and drag old sails around. There wasn't a single night when all of us got off to bed at 9 o'clock, and there wasn't a day that he didn't boss us around and break in on us every time we got to reading anything good! I like land, father, and I wish you owned a farm."

A FATAL LOVE.—At a late meeting of the Board of Health of Reading, Pa., the following statement was made of the manner in which a young man succumbed on the street in the evening, and accompanied her home. On the front door was a red patch, but she said nothing about any member of the family having the small-pox. She concealed the fact from her lover, and conducted him into the house by a side door so that he should not see the red patch on the front door. He caught the small-pox from the infected house, and was the means of communicating the disease to his father, who died.

ATTENTION! JUNIATA SCOUTS! You are hereby ordered to meet in Mifflintown on Saturday, November 25th, at 10 o'clock A. M., for drill and inspection. By order of J. K. ROBISON, Captain Commanding Company.

MATTHEW ROGERS, O. S.

"UP SALT RIVER"—The explanation of the Political Slang Term.

The origin of the expression "up Salt River," as applied to a defeated political party, was as follows:

Davy Crockett, the famous Kentucky Congressman, while a Whig candidate, was challenged by his Democratic opponent to meet him on the stump in joint session. Crockett accepted, and the day and place were fixed, but Crockett did not appear, and the people, thinking him afraid to do so, rallied for his opponent and elected him. It afterwards turned out that Crockett, who had started for the place in a canoe propelled by a negro, had been landed in the forest at the head waters of Salt River, by his treacherous guide, who then swiftly paddled off down the stream.

Crockett was too good a hunter, or too brave in the wilderness, but he was totally unable to reach the appointed place in time, and gave it up, and with it his chances of election. Hence the phrase "Up Salt River!"—meaning that a party is hopelessly defeated.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Consumption, &c.

Among the great discoveries of modern medicine, none has done more to relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs, than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A vast number of our best citizens, of all classes, establish the fact, that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will not only relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs, but also the most dangerous affections of the Lungs, such as Consumption, and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so that it is hardly necessary to say, that it is not a mere humbug, but a medicine of the most reliable character. It is a remedy that is adequate, on the whole, to the most serious cases of the Throat and Lungs, and is a medicine that is not only a relief, but a cure. It is a medicine that is not only a relief, but a cure. It is a medicine that is not only a relief, but a cure.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or pains were spared in making every bottle of the most perfect medicine. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues of the best medicine, and capable of producing cures as remarkable as the greatest has ever effected.
