Memorial Meeting of the Juniata Valley Medical Association.

A special Memorial Meeting of the Juniata Valley Medical Association, composed physicians of the counties of Perry, Mifflin, Juniata, Huntingdon, Blair and Bedford, was convened in honor of the memory of Dr. P. L. GREENLEAF, in the Court House in Mifflintown, Juniata county, Pa., December 21, 1876, with Vice President of the country by the 14th of February, have a grand opportunity to display their honorable intentions and integrity of purpose. The country expects them to look at the situation from the standpoint of statesmen and not from the standpoint of squabbling politicians.

On motion of Dr. S. M. Ross, of Altoona, the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with.

The Secretary read the call for this special meeting, after which Dr. L. Banks, of Mifflintown, delivered a memorial address on the death of Dr. P. L. GREENLEAF, the late lamented President of the Association, as follows:

Fellow members of the Juniata Valley Medical Association—We are assembled today for the first time since our organization, to pay our respects to the memory of a golden son who will ever linger around that summit, whom you listened to the introductory address of him whose voice is now forever hushed in eternal silence; and there most of us clasped hands with him for the last time, and said to him this Association will be the means of your success and we are all, his friendly intercourse and wise counsels are ended.

This sad lesson reminds us that Death, the great despiser, is at work, and demands of all things a timely recognition. Truly, we could not have been more fortunate in our association since we were enjoying the imposing scenes of nature's life to which we have referred—now the cold winds howl through the naked forest and winter falls like a pall upon the deserted fields. But we know the bright rays of the sun are still upon us, and when the ice of death has stilled the thrush pulse and cooled the fevered breath of one of our profession's brightest lights.

"Our esteemed friend and worthy President, Dr. P. L. GREENLEAF, is dead.

He was the first of our Association called to pass through the portals of death; the poor human heart of our number over whose strong the cold finger of death has gripped—the first whose warm, bounding life was chilled by its icy touch; nor was one who had the frost of years upon his head, when he died, so young as he, who perished by the weight of declining age.

He was first called to pass through the dark valley and shadow of death, but one engaged in an active professional field of labor, and through whose veins the life of death did not flow.

He was a man of pre-eminent professional merit, genious, widely known and respected in life, and is alike lamented in death.

On the occasion in question they again asked for a little tobacco. The boy, in walking out to comply with the request, failed to lock the door of the prisoners' room. They took advantage of his confidence, and while he was getting the tobacco they quietly stole away.

The fact of the escape was imparted to Deputy Sheriff Moyer, who at once hired one of Shulon's fleet horses and gave pursuit. The prisoners had quite a start, and the officer was a good deal baffled in keeping up the pursuit in the road, until they left the road, which was done at a point in Walker township, near the Philip Rank farm, where they started across the fields to gain the more obscure travel afforded by the ridge that runs parallel to the picket line, the left hand side as one proceeds from Mexico to Thompsonstown; but the trail was a clear one in the snow for the officer, who followed them over ditches, fences, fields, rocks and through woods, until he overtaken them in a piece of wood about eight miles from this place. To his order to surrender they gave themselves up, and with him returned their steps jailward, four miles on their runaway trail to a farmhouse, where Officer Moyer obtained a wagon and had them hauled the balance of the way to jail, they being ready ready to drop to the ground with exhaustion. The officer had no assistance in the capture.

LITERARY NOTICE.—The Third Annual Convention of Literary Societies of Juniata county will be held in Port Royal, January 30th and 31st, 1877. Opening session, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The public are invited. Address communications to EDGAR A. TENNIS, President, Thompsonston, Pa., or, Miss NELLIE E. FUNK, Secretary, Mexico, Pa., Jan. 1, 1877.

The Pennsylvania Central Musical Association, comprising thirteen counties, will hold its Fourth Annual musical convention in the Musical College, Freeburg, Snyder County, Pa., commencing on Monday, January 22, 1877, and to continue one week.

A suitable programme and an Address of welcome will be delivered by the Board of Instructors.

Course of Study.—Daily—morning, afternoon and evening: Harmony and Theory of Music, Chorus and proper rendering of Church Music, Vocal Instruction in Public Schools, General Musical Instruction, Questions and Answers on Musical Topics, Piano Forte, Organ or Vocal Concerts and Recitals.

Lectures upon miscellaneous topics will be given by eminent persons of the profession during the session. May every church, for the improvement of its singing, send a part or all the members of the choir to this convention.

Grand Concerts will be given on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

The musical public and others are duly invited to attend, to meet the very best of society, and a well paying compensation will follow. A brilliant musical jubilee is expected.

At the last annual meeting of our Association, on the 7th of July, he was selected from a large assembly of physicians as our worthy President. We were met at Loydville, Cambria county, the terminus of the Bell's Gap Railroad, on what I believe is said to be one of the highest and most rugged mountains. The members (who were present) remember the merry jests and friendly contresses of that day, and how we enjoyed the cool, refreshing retreats and gorgous mountain scenery. It was mid-summer. The forests were clothed with richest life and variegated beauty, and the air was bracing and invigorating to the lungs.
