AT THE WINDOW.

FROM THE BOBINIAN OF PICES . ST R. H. STODDARD.

I saw him through the window-The new moon was in sight-Come stealing down the garden,

One bilmy summer night. He tagged upon the window; " Give me a kiss." he said :

And straightway I was hidden, Like a little mouse, in bed. One eve above the bod-clothes

Was-oh, so fast asleep-But the other beneath-'twas lucky He was not there to peop!

He called again, as eager As the stag for cooling brooks, Or the bee that in the blies For colden honey looks

The silence of my chamber-It almost made me start-For nothing there betrayed me But the beating of my heart ! He knocked and called, and called me, And his voice, so clear and sweet. It pulled away the bed-clothes,

And stood me on my feet! It drew me to the window ; "ife must be gone." I thought ; I raised the window softly,

And, peeping out, was caught! Was caught, and showered with kisses How many did he get? As many as my blushes,

For I am blushing vot! - Serilmer's Monthly.
