LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Blue birds and robins last week. Good horse blankets at Todd's for $1.25.

An adjourned court will convene on the 6th of March. Cattle bringing encouraging prices at public sale this spring.

See Prof. Stone's school advertisement in another column. John Keiser's famous coon dog has been found in Chester county.

A debating question, "Which is the bottom of a buckwheat cake?" Singular coincidence—Hayes a No. 8 and Tilden a No. 7 boot.

Will Representative Garman accept our thanks for public declinements? $1.50 will buy a pair of good Ladies' Leather Shoes at J. B. M. Todd's.

Fox's Theatre in Philadelphia was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning. Offshoots think the pretty women of this country require much praying for.

Tuscarora Valley, that is the upper end, is again interested in the railroad problem. Philadelphia markets.—Wheat 41c, Oats 30c, Corn 50c, Cattle 40c, Sheep 40c.

For full interpretation of cipher dispatches, address No. 15 Gramercy Park, New York city. An appeal for the borough of Milliflinton will be held in the Commissioners' office tomorrow (Thursday).

Stand up and answer. What did Tilden want with a vote in Oregon if he was elected by other States? Philadelphians are beginning to talk of their Great Exhibition, to be held in the Main Centennial building.

J. B. M. Todd has received his Spring stock of shoes. Ladies' fine Slipper Gaiter of latest style, &c. A great revival of religion is in progress in Johnston, Canada county, under the preaching of James H. Conway and Mr. Stone.

The Pittsburg Commercial has been merged into the Gazette, and now the Gazette is called the Pittsburg Gazette-Commercial. A Detroit restaurateur hangs out a sign of "free champagne" and when the old loafers come around he shows them an axe and a woodpile.

Mr. Schlegel's store at East Salem, this county, was broken into by thieves, on one night last week, and robbed of boots, shoes and other goods. By recent election Durbin of the Huntington Journal is a director of the Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia Press Association.

Cronin—An attempt to get Mr. Tilden into the Presidential chair by emptying a position of a barrel of money in Oregon on a boat named Cronin and friends. Hassler, cashier of a Carle bank committed suicide a day or two ago, in the same garret that the cashier of the same bank committed suicide in a few years ago.

A New Englander wants to know whether he should drink out of a blue glass bottle which he has just bought, or a glass of sunshine through blue glass. J. B. M. Todd has one of the finest Singer Family Sewing Machine for sale. Worth $80; will take $40 for it. Also all other kinds of machines at the same rate.

Counterfeit ten cent pieces are in circulation. They are made of lead, and, although pretty well executed, can be easily detected by the ring. They are dated 1877. David Haller keeps store down in the Crystal Palace building. Groceries, fresh vegetables, and many other articles used in the family may be found on his shelves. Give him a call.

Blue glass cure, simply means to allow the sun to shine on you through blue glass. It is said to cure a long list of ailments, and demand for such colored glass has put the price up considerably.

Mr. Hewitt, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, testified before a Congressional committee that he knew nothing about the Oregon dispatches, and then a piece further on in the testimony said he had a key to the dispatches. Brough, Howly Father!

Charcoal has been discovered to be a sure cure for burn. By laying a small piece of cold charcoal on the burn the pain subsides immediately. By leaving the charcoal on for one hour the wound is healed, as has been demonstrated on several occasions.

The Lewistown Gazette says: "Two lady operatives boarded an engine attached to an eastward bound train at the junction on Monday last, and ran the machine" as far as Bialer's, returning on the local in the afternoon, one acting as fireman and the other as engineer."

A three-year-old little girl at Rochester, N. Y., was taught to conclude the evening prayer, during the temporary absence of her father, with a glad waltz over my papa. It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amusement may be imagined when she added, "and you'd better keep an eye on mamma, too."

Mr. Tilden is out in a statement, saying that Congress is welcome to examine his private bank account, to learn from it as to whether he sent the money to Oregon. If his private bank account does not show the transaction, certainly nothing concerning the sending of the money can be learned from it.

Some accidental Congressman proposes to impeach Judge Brady, for, says he, Mr. Brady took a gift. A friend gave him a silk gown to wear while sitting on a Supreme Bench. The best thing to do with the said gown is to give it to a poor woman, or to burn it.

When Samuel Randall and a number of other Congressmen from Pennsylvania come again before the people for re-election, they will learn that their revolutionary proposals in Congress have been measured at their true value, and they will be elected to stay at home by overwhelming majorities. The business of the country will not overlook the revolutionists when the time comes.

Relay from Altoona was one of the chief objections to J. D. Morrill as an elector from this State. Mr. Morrill did not meet with the electoral college of this State; he had resigned, and the vacancy was regularly filled under State laws; but Rely's objection was to kill time and delay the result, a method of procedure that the Democratic members in Congress have been pursuing. The constituents of the Milliflinton will not forget their stippled Congressman.

The man who argues that parents should contract debts pursue the same line of argument that Cook & Co. pursued after they issued a pamphlet to the country that a "National Debt is a National Blessing." That Company's career has demonstrated that they are unfit to give wholesome advice. The safe rule as to debt is, contract no debts that you have not the resources to pay, without injury to yourself or those with whom you are connected, or who are dependent on you.

From the mouth of the Juniata Valley to the Allegheny mountains, with the exception of a very small strip of territory, the country is represented by Mr. Stenger and Mr. Rely in Congress. These gentlemen have taken to filibustering, with others in Congress, so as to prevent or delay the official announcement of President until the 4th of March. Of course their efforts will prove futile, but it is a most baneful recent to have such small politicians.

The "Orange at Atlantic, Crawford county, is putting up a building 50 by 50 feet, two stories high, the lower rooms to be used as a cheese factory and the second story for a hall."

A fire, originating in the cellar of the Juniata Valley hotel in Milliflinton, Perry county, on Sunday evening, was extinguished after damage to the amount of $2,600 had been done. An exchange utters this solemn fact: "It is true of newspapers as of churches, that those who contribute the least to their support, criticize and find the most fault with their management."

David Forney, who was run over and killed by a train of cars at Middletown on the morning of the 22nd inst., an account of when may be found in another column, was an uncle to Mr. H. A. Stambaugh of this place. Judge James Sterrett, of Pittsburg, has been appointed to the position on the Supreme Bench, made vacant by the death of Judge Williams. The Judge is a Junia county man. Junia people endorse the appointment unanimously.

"Cronin" is a word derived from Cronin in Oregon, and signifies that when you wish to accomplish a purpose that is not effected by any one but yourself, declare a strategy and cast the votes of all the opposites in favor of yourself.

FIGHTING TRAMPS.—The Lewistown Gazette of last week writes up the unlawful work of a party of tramps at Lewistown, as follows: Since January, a number of tramps have found comfortable entertainment around its general fires and sleeping-berths over its heated boilers. The other evening the usual of the night trick were stolen by them, the food eaten and the buckets thrown in an adjoining field.

Col. Willis, the Superintendent, came to the conclusion that hereafter these American Arabs could not be allowed to harbor around the works. Accordingly, on Monday after dinner he repaired to the furnace and ordered a party of twenty-seven away, all of whom reluctantly obeyed but one, who not only remained inside but showed fight when the Colonel endeavored to put him out, striking the superintendent dead in the face. The Colonel thereupon ejected the man by force, who returned, and seizing a bar of iron about two feet long, attacked the Colonel, who defended himself with a large bar standing near. The tramp aimed a blow at the superintendent's head, which lodged against the back of his neck with an unpleasant force. The tramp then retreated, when three of his companions, who were still lingering near, came to his rescue, all of them attacking the door, which the Colonel had locked, breaking it in and falling upon him in a desperate manner. He retreated, a ter a short scuffle. By this time a couple of the hands saw that something was up. The tramps—twenty-seven in number, now appeared in a body with the evident intention of clearing out the furnace, and there being but thirteen of the workmen present, it looked as if their intention would be carried out, for they found they were called to face twice their number of desperate men. The furnace hands rallied promptly, and the conflict became a hand to hand struggle for the supremacy. Crow-bars, tongs, lumps of cinder and lime stones, cudgels and iron bars were freely used. Men were bleeding on both sides. The tramps were finally forced to yield, feeling no doubt that law and order were against their case.

The whole fight probably lasted twenty minutes. Of the furnace men the following were injured: Col. Willis, Supt., cut on right temple and stroke on back of neck; Gabriel Carpenter, cinder hauler, four inch cut, into the bone, on forehead; Lewis Riden, engineer, severe cut on cheek, eye hurt, and bruised in body; Jos. H. Alter, carpenter, struck in the eye; others slight scratches or bruises. Two of the tramp were badly hurt and five others more or less cut or bruised. After they had driven off, the tramps scattered, but Garrett and Clum, with assistants, were so promptly on their track that before night twenty-four out of twenty-seven were lodged in jail. Most of them were caught on the hills across the river. At half past six the same evening they had a bearing before Esquire Baker and were remanded to jail, as Carpenter was unable to appear to identify the one that struck him and others. Some of them had shaved their beards and mustaches off to avoid being known.

During the month of September last Peter Tippery, of Morris township, missed one of his fattening hogs, and then coming winter, and after a fruitless search about the adjoining farms, it was given up as lost. About the time the hog was missed Mr. T. had been engaged in threshing wheat for seed. Time wore away until the 16th of the present month, when the straw in the yard was being removed, it was discovered that the hog had been covered under the straw pile, where he had lain for five long months. Of course it could not be supposed that it was in a fit condition for the pork barrel or lard can, but was the merest skeleton of a hog that ever cast a shadow; but after careful nursing it commenced to gather strength, and doubtless will recover. Although this story seems incredible, yet it is nevertheless true, and is vouch for by Mr. Tippery and his farmer neighbors.—Huntingdon Journal.
