When we were young, and life meant long Bright days of summer weather, My dear, there was a preity song Wo used to sing together. There's many a lad can sing it still, With Kitty, Bens, or Molly ; It ends, begin it as you will, In Folly, Folly, Folly!

FOLLY.

Now we are old, and life means long Dark days of winter weather, My dear, we've learnt some other song We do not sine together Yet still both must have often thought. It comewhat melancholy, So sweet a song should end in naught But Folly, Folly, Folly!

How it feels to be Guillotined.

We know how it feels to be poisoned. to be hanged and to be drowned, but it has been reserved for M. Mondate, an Italian gentleman, to let the world know how it feels to be guillotined. He was in 1873 condemned to death for a crime of which he was innocent. The blade of the guillotine fell, but the wood in the grooves of which it ran had swollen slightly, and the knife stopped barely two centimetres from his neck. While they were repairing his orchard, and treat it fairly, will had swollen slightly, and the knife his orchard, and treat it fairly, will this defect a reprieve arrived—the true murderer had been found and had confessed his crime. "It was at 8 A. M., August 17, 1873," says M. Mondate, "that my confessor, l'Abbe Fernia, en-tered my cell to announce to me that I must die. When at the touch of his hand upon my shoulders I awakened, 1 compre-hended at once the nature of his er-rand, and despite my confidence it

By a supreme effort I succeeded in gasping. It is not true!' The priest answered 1 know not what. I only heard a con-fused buzzing. Then a sudden thrill should be used, and that to prevent deterioration of the product these should be planted whole and about three feet of pride shot through me. For some minutes 1 felt no fear ; I stood erect ; I apart in the row; the main advocate of said to myself that if I must die I should this theory was a dealer in seed pota-toes, and of kinds which then comshow them that an innocent man died with courage. I spoke with great rapid-ity; I was horribly afraid to be silent were in the habit of attributing his theory to a desire to effect a sale, as it or to be interrupted : I thanked the was found that the practice involved a Governor of the prison, and asked for Governor of the prison, and asked for something to eat. They brought me a used. We think it may be set down as cup of chocolate, but I refused it. Again I had become fully possessed with the horrors of my situation; I had visions whatof the scaffold would be like, and mechanically asked the attendants and mechanically asked the attendants, 'Does it hurt much? Not a bit," answered somebody, and I saw before of the whole tuber or of the piece atme a new person in a gown of black tached to the eye is to nourish the shoot woolen-the executioner. AGRUTULTURAL. THINNING FRUIT.—Any one who will take a walk through our fruit markets in the fall will not be surprised at the low prices which usually prevail; if one half of the fruit was kept back, and only the best and most perfect specimens sent, they would command as much as is usually obtained for the whole and a saving in freight be effected. We find the following good advice in the Ameri-can Agriculturist: "That this severe thinning will change the bearing year there is sufficient testimony, but there is one point on which we lack evidence —will it pay? If any of our friends have tried thinning to induce annual bearing, or to reverse the bearing year on full-grown trees, we ask in behalf of many inquirers that they will give their results. With young orchards, just oming into bearing, the case is very different, and whoever will take the pains, and give the young trees the needed care, can make their orchard bear annually. The education of the primes will be orther will the first froit."

placed and kept over a quick hre the abumen will coagulate, harden the meat, prevent the water from penetrat-ing it, and the osmazone from disengag-ing itself; the result will be a broth without a flavor or goodness, and a rough, dry bit of meat. Add salt in the startled look, in which amazement struggled with horror for an instant, picked up his hat and cane, and started off and the poloneeded care, can make their orchard bear annually. The education of the trees must begin with their first fruit-ing, as the first excessive crop, though small in itself, starts the tree on the wrong track. When the trees are young the quantity of fruit to be removed is small, and all within reach. Of course the cultivation of the soil must not be neglected, but a healthy growth main-tained. Whoever will start right with ing itself; the result will be a broth without a flavor or goodness, and a rough, dry bit of meat. Add salt in the proportion of half an ounce to the quart, throw in three or four turnips, as many carrots, half a head of celery, two or three lecks, one onion stuck with some cloves, a teaspoonful of pepper corns, and a bunch of savory herbs. It corns, and a bunch of savory h Completely closing them. Coloring Matter in Toys.-The Sani-tary inspector of Glasgow, Scotland, has found that the yellow toy balloons shellac makes the boots or shoes almost sold to children are poisonous—that is, the coloring matter consists of one part of chromate of lead and three parts of entirely water-proof. Camphor dis-solved in alcohol, added to the blacking, makes the leather more pliable and keeps it from cracking. This is sold at 50 cents for a small bottle. By making it yourself, $1 will buy materials for a carbonate of lime; and consequently children being in the habit of applying their mouths to the orifices of these balloons for the purpose of filling them with air, may readily receive a quantity of such poisonous powder into their mouths. These balloons, therefore, should be viewed with suspicion.
