In these days of books issued in the interest of illegitimate advertising schemes and special newspaper lists, or which have for their object the hiching of money both from advertiser and publisher, we are giad to welcome a publication which, unswerved by self interest, attempts to deal justly with all parties. Correct information in regard to the character and circulation of the numerous publications of this country is difficult to obtain, but with superior advantages and earnest labor Mr. Pettengill has produced a book that will be found of great assistance to advertisers and all who need such information Pertengill's idea to bring about an understanding between the business men of the country and the publishers; to show the advertiser that legitimate newspaper advertising was the cheapest and best way of bringing his wares before the public; and the publisher, that in all proper ways he should regard the interests of the advertiser. He thus aided both, and placed both under obligation. How successful Mr. Pettengill was is best shown by the immense business establishment he has built up, and the high esteem in which he is held both by advertisers and publishers the country over. Since he entered into the business a great many rivals have come into the field. Many have failed involving both publishers and advertisers in their disaster. Others, with youth, energy, and capital, have succeeded in establishing a more or less prosperous business; but in the esteem and confidence of both advertiser and publisher no one has ever rivaled the firm of which Mr. Pettengill is the head. His name is publisher no one has ever rivaled the firm of which Mr. Pettengill is the head. We trust that our young men beginning in the advermess will observe the great success of Mr. Pettengill, and, imitating his methods, lay the foundation on which to build a business at once profitable, permanent, and honorable.

Many an unwise parent labors hard and lives sparingly all his life for the purpose of leaving enough to give his children a start in the world, as it is children a start in the world, as it is called. Setting a young man affoat with money left him by his relations is like tying bladders under the arm of one who cannot swim; ten chances to one he will lose his bladders and go to the bottom. Teach him to swim, and he will never need the bladders. Give your child a sound education, and you have done enough for him. See to it that his morals are pure, his mind cultivated, and his whole nature made subservient to laws which govern man, and you have given him what will be of more value than the wealth.
