

B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

ENGLAND has 400,000 fighting men ready for the Turkish war, on paper.

By act of the Ohio Legislature a salute was fired on Monday at the State Capitol in honor of the passage of the silver bill.

The President sent a message to Congress vetoing the silver bill. The bill was taken hold of by both Houses immediately, and in two hours after it was announced as before Congress, it was passed by a two-thirds vote over the President's veto.

The only objection to silver that is worth a moment's thought, is its weight. The opponents of the coin are making as much out of the argument of weight as they can, and yet there is not much weight in the argument. They have figured down pretty closely on the weight of a Congressional salary. The monthly pay of a Congressman is $417.00, the weight of which is 25 pounds. It will take strong pockets in trousers to hold that weight.

It is without proper warrant to declare the silver bill a move in the direction of reparation. When the first United States bonds were issued under the necessities created by rebellion, there was one common understanding in regard to their redemption, and that was, that they were to be redeemed in United States money. The money of the United States then was of a double standard, gold and silver, and in coin of both, or either gold or silver, it was understood that the securities should be redeemed. Their redemption in gold exclusively was an after-thought awakened by the premium that it reached through the circumstances attending the war.

A WILKESBARRE MAN named Beamish after trial and conviction in court at the above named place, for crookedness in the management of the funds of the School Board, was sent to jail, last year. Not long since the friends of Beamish got out a petition asking the State authority to pardon him. Prochers and other respectable people in the community in which Beamish lived had not petitioned for his pardon he would never have been pardoned. What is right is right. Let the blame fall where it belongs. Let it lie at the door of the great first cause, and when you do that you will find that it does not lie at the door of Governor Hartman, but at the door of the people of the home of Beamish.

If congress has a lingering spark of common sense it will see the futility of attempting to pass the tariff bill and carry on the government. The internal revenue has fallen off since the meeting of Congress at the rate of eighteen millions a year, and the receipts of customs show a proportionate decrease. Until Congress adjourns no increase in the internal revenue may be expected, for every man knows that it is manufacturing at the risk of losing his entire margin of profit by changes in the law. Neither will there be any more important than is absolutely necessary until the question of the tariff is finally decided. Even then the government has got to lose two per cent. because no merchant will use gold to pay duties when silver will answer. This of itself will insure a constant demand for the new coin because there will not be sufficient for the use of importers for several months to come. In fact this demand will probably keep the new dollars a fraction above par until several millions get into circulation.—North American.

The Coming Dollar "Is only two per cent. lighter than the trade dollar, is of so nearly the same size as not to be distinguishable from it, either by size or weight. The obverse has a fine head of Liberty, with the Liberty cap and a wreath of wheat and cotton leaf, with full flowing hair falling low in the neck. The inscription over the head, "Liberty" and the fulness of the cap is new. The motto, "E Pluribus Unum," is over the head with thirteen stars arranged in the circle. The motto is pointed off with periods in the centre of the line. The date appears under the head. The head is large, the sprays of wheat extending into the motto. On the reverse is a displayed eagle with wings extending out to the milling. It is not the sitting eagle with extended wings familiar to those who see halves and quarters, but a plumed eagle ready for flight, a sunny bird. An olive branch is held in the right talon, and arrows in the left. There is a semi circular laurel wreath under this, over the head the motto "In God we Trust" in German text. Above this "United States of America," and below "One Dollar," with stars pointing off the title and the date.

Twenty seven or thirty loads of passengers arrived in Tampa, Kansas on Friday the Santa Fe railroad, mostly for settlement in the Arkansas valley. A large number also arrived on the Kansas Pacific road. It is estimated that the State will receive 2000,000 additions to its population this year.

Senator Cooper, of Delaware County, on the Political Slate of Col. A. K. McClure, as Published in the Media "American."

Men who are fond of breaking a rule, just as fond of making political mistakes, and Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, is rather one of its ornaments, and, while skilful in turning short corners, is wisely satisfied with half when a whole loaf is not within reach. With that rare skill which has always characterized his political manoeuvres, he is now, through correspondence and editorially, assailing the one whom he believes the most available candidate for the gubernatorial nomination—Colonel Henry M. Hoyt, of Luzerne—a nomination which is more seriously inquired into by McClure's state than any other. That state can not be read by careful observers. The Times is a hardy newspaper, but its editor has given greater encouragement to the Greenback Labor organization than any other man in the State. He has pointed the way for successful political action, and given aid and encouragement to all who would abandon it as useless—this without committing himself, indeed, while antagonizing its principles—and the probably never McClure can do two such things at the same moment is not conversant with his powers. The object in thus encouraging the Greenback movement is to secure a balance of power in the Legislature—for this purpose further on. So far the state was working well, but the candidacy of Hoyt for Governor threatened it, since his personal strength in Luzerne and Schuylkill would give those Democratic strongholds to the Republicans—reversing about six thousand votes and probably prevent the election of four from fifteen to twenty Greenback Representatives. McClure meets the new danger in two ways—first by pushing Andrew G. Curtis to the front of Frank Hughes as a Greenbacker, and covering the rear of both with Armstrong, of Lycoming. All of these are now to be candidates for the Greenback nomination for Governor and are all to be whipped in the convention save Curtis, provided no offense is given to the victors, for a general in the ranks of a third and minority party will be victorious. McClure will use any of these gentlemen to the best advantage—the final object being the election of Curtis to the United States Senate. He thinks a balance of power once obtained can compel this at the hands of the Democratic party, and once in position will bid Randall, Buckalew, Black and other Bourbons to stand aside, in consideration for his support of Dil. McClure's friends for Curtis will never die. As a politician he is capable of warmer friendships, deeper gratitude, and at the same time more lively hatreds than most men. He deceives an enemy, but never abandons a friend, and he has shown the industry of a beaver in building and rebuilding, so that his old associates may yet have a political home in which to dwell with satisfaction and honor. If once given the opportunity to play his hand, McClure will command the situation, but unfortunately it is becoming known, and Democratic abuse of Hoyt in advance of the convention will but convince Republicans of his strength and availability. We are interested observers of the situation, but will not venture too deep in philosophy at this time, our object being more to discover to others that which we believe we have discovered ourselves, and to let all know the shape of Colonel McClure's "slate."

STATE ITEMS. The sheriff of Lehigh and Northampton counties are to be removed from office and prosecuted for perjury, because of their manoeuvrings before election. The mortality among Pittsburg infants is becoming terrible. A watchman near Lancaster was beaten by a gang of tramps because he pulled the iron of the railroad track to save their lives. A fire occurred in the house of Mrs. James Kendrick, Pittsburg, yesterday frightening her so badly as to cause instant death. Several hat factories in Reading are not running, owing to the depressed condition of the trade. A respectable young lady of Lancaster has eloped with a one-legged peasant vendor of bad reputation. Sarah May, the last of the famous family from which Cape May was named, is dead. A fatal disease, which attacks the respiratory organs, has appeared among the different parts of Franklin county. It cost Blair county within the last four years $12,000 for scalps. Miss Sarah J. Rhodes, of Clapperton, Blair county, received last month a legacy of $90,000 from a lady whom she met on the cars in December, 1873. The lady was sick and Miss Rhodes befriended her during the journey, and at its close, as Miss Rhodes was leaving the cars, the lady said, "You will be paid some day." And the lady did come.

Ammon L. Boyer and Cyrenus Sellers, proprietors of the suspended Dime Savings Bank, Reading, were arrested on Friday on a charge of fraud, brought by Amos B. Yeager, a depositor to the extent of $4029. The accused entered bail in $8000 for their appearance for a hearing early in April. Thousands of muskrats, driven from their beds by the high tides along the Delaware have been killed for their hides. An epidemic, resembling chicken cholera, is raging among the crows in West Earl township, Lancaster county. The tipping over of a cart load of cinders into a snow bank at the Pine Point works, in Montgomery county, recently, resulting in a fearful explosion, the shock of which shook houses 100 yards away. Several persons were severely cut by flying cinders. According to the Reading Times there has been an over-issue of the stock of the Williamsport Gas Company, amounting to $325,000, and it has been placed in banks outside Williamsport as collaterals to secure loans to Peter Herder.

All attention is being given to the moving for a grand tariff demonstration. The next session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Church will meet at Glen Rock, York county, Pa., on the 7th of March, tomorrow. A one-legged Pittsburg has been arrested for kicking a boy.

DISPATCHES. PITTSBURG, Feb. 26.—Determined efforts are being made to break up the recently discovered gang of Mollie Maguire at Irwin's Station, Westmoreland county, and charges have been made against Harry Day, George P. Harfitt, Pat Dougherty and others. Robert Whiteley is charged with setting fire to the Bald Eagle Works, Tipton, Cheek County, Pa., Patrick Doyle, who is known to have been a ringleader, was drowned in the Youghiogheny river last fall. Davis who corroborated Parfitt's testimony remained in Greensburg until Sunday, when he suddenly disappeared. Prior to leaving he communicated with the parties against whom information had been made, and on Monday they commenced leaving Murray's and Dougherty's taverns at whose houses the meetings of the organization were held. Parfitt states that when young Carroll was killed he kept the watchman on the railroad engaged in conversation until the fatal blow had passed the point where the body was to be placed on the track. Whiteley is the only one under arrest, and the evidence against him for arson is very strong.

MONTEPULICHO, Feb. 27.—G. W. Stranahan, Jr., of Waterbury, Vt., last evening attempted to shoot Miss Denman, of that place, firing three shots at her, one ball striking her belt and glancing off. She escaped by fleeing into a closet, through the door of which two of the shots were fired. Stranahan then shot himself, but the wound is not dangerous. Jealousy is alleged to have been the cause of the shooting. Stranahan is under arrest. CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—This afternoon the wife of J. H. A. Bone committed suicide by drowning in Lake Erie. She has been for years subject to occasional fits of melancholy, when she imagined herself a burden to her family and friends. She left home for a walk, and her bonnet was seen on the lake shore by a passer, who suspected suicide, and on examination saw her body in the water a few feet from the shore. A considerable amount of money in the defunct Reading Savings Bank when it closed its doors, and this loss so preyed upon his mind as to lead him, in all probability, to commit the deed. Marquet was fifty years old, and a member of the Methodist Church.

KENNET SQUARE, Pa., Feb. 27.—Bayard Taylor, the newly appointed Minister to Germany, arrived here this evening, with his wife and daughter, on a visit to his parents. At the station he was met by a committee who invited him to a welcome in the Borough Hall, which was filled to overflowing with the people of the surrounding neighborhood. After the most hearty speeches of welcome and congratulations, to which Mr. Taylor responded, there was a banquet, in which one hundred people participated.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 28.—A. J. Bin, of Berlin, was bitten five weeks ago by a dog, from the effects of which he died last night in great agony. The doctors pronounce it a case of hydrophobia. Seven other persons were bitten by the same dog. In the Friends' meeting house at Chesterfield, Burlington county, N. J., they are still using a cast-iron stove, put up 12th mo., 34, 172, at a cost of eight pounds, four shillings and ten pence. Four thousand nine hundred and seventy-eight new churches, costing $30,000,000, have been erected by the Methodists during the last ten years.

The First Presbyterian Church in Pekin, China, was recently dedicated. The church was built partly by native aid, and the missionaries assisted in the mason and carpenter work. The dedicatory services were wholly in the Chinese language. A full deck of cards was recently found by workmen under the pulpit of the Saybrook (Conn.) Methodist Church.

NEW YORK ITEMS. Georgia claims gold equal to California and copper equal to Tennessee. Massachusetts made tea chests are to be exported to China. The Kentucky Legislature has appropriated $10,000 for a monument to John J. Breckinridge, and yet they hesitated so long about spending $100 for a United States flag to be hoisted over the Capitol. Henry Ward Beecher having been elected chaplain of the Thirtieth regiment of the New York National Guard was introduced to his charge on Friday evening and sworn into the service. He promised in an address to accompany the regiment wherever duty called. His uniform will be gray and black with gold trimmings. Out in Cincinnati the police have declared war on retail dealers who sell oleomargarine for butter. The new silver dollars will be out in a fortnight. According to Georgia's State geologist its gold region is richer than that of California. There are 2,800 drinking saloons in Chicago, and they average in sales over 150 drinks a day. The American people use 700,000,000 postage stamps annually, an average of nearly eighteen stamps a year for each person, including untaxed Indians. The Mormons have 600 workmen employed in building a magnificent temple on the summit of a high mountain at Manti, in Utah. The edifice will be completed under four years. It is reported that the village of Isleton, on Andrews Island, in the delta of the Sacramento river, has been swept away in consequence of the pressure of cutting of the dikes on Grand Island just across the river. There are continuous reports of disaster by the flood in the Sacramento Valley, and the destruction of property from Colusa to the mouth of the river already aggregates $1,000,000. Fortunately, with but two or three exceptions no loss of life has occurred.

FOREIGN. In Prussia judges and barristers must in the future wear gowns when in the performance of their duties in the courts. Mr. Geo. H. Baker, the recently returned ex-Minister to Russia, says that in the neighborhood of the Caspian sea rivers of petroleum are running away. Yet the Russians import petroleum from America. There were twelve hundred churches in Constantinople when that city was conquered by the Mohammedans. Humbert, king of Italy, suffers from bad health. He is subject to hemorrhages of the lungs. Germany is preparing to send eight ironclads to the Mediterranean in the event of war. A private telegram from Australia states that the deficiency in the wool shipments to date is 57,000 bales. The National Zeitung, of Berlin, Germany, cordially welcomes Mr. Bayard Taylor's appointment as United States Minister to Germany as conferring honor on Germany and America alike, and calculated to strengthen the already strong ties between the two countries. "President Hayes" says the National Zeitung, "deserves Germany's sincere thanks." The Russians and Turks together have buried 300,000 men. A Turkish soldier receives less than $1.50 a month. On Sunday a weak elevator in the Grand Hotel Paris, broke, and was carried to the roof with great force, killing three persons—a Russian lady, a French gentleman and a servant. The Manchester Guardian's Rome correspondent telegraphs: "The feeling is growing here that the new pope is not so liberal as was thought. It seems certain that Cardinal Pecci and Leo XIII do not hold the same views. It is now believed that the Pope will remain secluded in the Vatican."

The Mohammedan landowners of Bosnia are petitioning for annexation to Austria. King Victor owed but $3,000,000 when he died. When the new king said he would tread in the footsteps of his father, certain tradesmen resolved: "You can't do it at my grocery."—Detroit Free Press. CHURCH. The new Lutheran church of Pickwick, Clarion county, Pa., will be dedicated on Sunday, March 10, 1878. Prof. H. L. Baugher, of Gettysburg, Pa., will preach the sermon. Boston has three hundred women preachers and lecturers. Three members of the Second Baptist church, at New York, who asserted a disbelief in the existence of a hell, have been expelled from the church. A Chinese Young Men's Christian Association, with a Chinese President, is in full and successful operation at Honolulu. Of the six millions of Roman Catholics in the United States, 1,237,000 are said to be German. It is reported that the Rev. Arthur P. Adams, of Beverly, Mass., has been suspended from the Methodist ministry for holding and teaching doctrines at variance with those of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He held that Christ's second coming is near at hand and that not until after the resurrection occurs can the redemptive scheme of Christ be complete. Rev. Father Mizdoff fell dead in the street at Basking Ridge, N. J., recently. He was pastor of St. James Roman Catholic Church in that place. The $20,000 debt of Rev. Dr. Tyng's church, Brooklyn, has been entirely met by subscriptions. In the Friends' meeting house at Chesterfield, Burlington county, N. J., they are still using a cast-iron stove, put up 12th mo., 34, 172, at a cost of eight pounds, four shillings and ten pence. Four thousand nine hundred and seventy-eight new churches, costing $30,000,000, have been erected by the Methodists during the last ten years.
