During the giorious days of the ancient empire the feast of Lupercalia was celebrated at Rome with a license and affair in comparison. Among other a division board, so as to keep up the ceremonies the young people of both necessary heat for brood-rearing on as matters that we now leave to Sentiment and other considerations, by mingling in an even and equal number youths' mined the succession of them, Corydon and Flavia were matched as lovers. From time to time the privileges appertaining to this festival caused such abuses as to shock even Roman morality, and among the modifications enforced this game of lovers was abolished. As Dost Mohammed urged him to preach a matter of course, some less objectionable custom was substituted; and through various phases it took the form of valentine gifts, where, ignoring the barbarism of choosing by lot, a natural course for election was permitted, and the dynasty of Pan was overthrown. If of the British, or at least refrained from this had been a legitimate indulgence, using it against them, save when, in the Cyprian goddess would have been 1863, he for a time checked Lord Elgin the patron saint; but aside from his rein the Umbeyla campaign by casting in gard for shepherds and their flocks, and the protection of the game-laws, Pan ever, was only temporary, for he had a reputation for depravity that preached ever afterwards that a djehad should have excluded him from respec'able society; and the fact that he was selected as patron of the Lupercal ia reconciles all well-disposed people to St. Valentine came on the scene

Ask THE OLD WOMAN.—A gentleman traveling out west relates the following:
Riding horseback just at night through the woods in Signor county, Michigan, I came into the clearing; in the middle of which stood a log house with its owner sitting in the door smoking his pipe. Stopping my horse before him, the following conversation ensued:
"Good evening."
"Can I get a glass of milk to drink?"
"Well, I don't know. Ask the old woman."

By this time his wife was standing.

Dr. Radway: That others may be benefited. I make this statement:
I have had an O. ar an Tumor in the ovaries and bowels for ten years. I tried the be t physicians of this piace and others without acy benefit. It was rowing at such rapidity that I rould not have lived much longer. A riend of mine induced me to try Radway's R medies. I had not much faith in them, but finally, after much deliberation, I tried them.
I feel perfectly well, and my heart is full of ratified to God for this belp in my deep affliction. To you, Sir, and your wonderful medicine, I feel deeply indebted, and my prayer is that it may be as much of a blessing to others as it has
