B. F. SCHWEIER.

SOMEWHERE. mewhere there blows Myrtle and Ro e And Cedar for me ; But where, no one know

Or may not disclose The secret to me. Somewhere a heart Is blooming apart For love and for me ; But where, none will tell.

Dear heart, is it well For thee or for me Somewhere a grief-

A skeleton thief-Is larking for me; But where, only One knows Somewhere from me.

Jealousy's Fearful Vengeance.

The average Frenchman is fond of the water in the summer, and from the fact that he is in the habit of surrounding it with attractive accessories he anhaelly derives more pleasure from it than Americans usually do. Saine places are also assigned at certain points for the bathing of horses, others for the washing of dogs. The doganimated sight. Delicate and fastidious too familiar attentions of the profes. that had for its end torture. sional washers; while the half-hysteric owners of some, especially if they are

July. All the baths that line the Seine itself seems to have made so pale. cream, and dark, expressive eyes-as were disfigured by the film of a cruel ret, evidently, slightly on the child- memory, and he was safe.

struggled, while his soddenly conscious that the boy repered, or, rather, hissed;

"You disagreeable boy; I hate you, tion that flashed from her eve; so with and its confusion of the brain. the instinct of a well-bred boy he con-and the episode of the dog-bath had al- distant-so formally polite? She smil- the look then compared to the glance most exhaled from the youthful mind ed on him more kindly than ever, yet now as water compares to wine. of his master, when a quick yelp be- neither her beauty nor her condescentokened too surely his favorite's pain. sion wrought the wild havoe she had poolle were behind, and the girl had She could hardly believe that his too never again see alive. But next morntruck the inoffensive terrier with her obvious indifference was real. hoop-stick. His look conveyed a mixture of anger and surprise.

"You are a cruel girl, I know that," he murmured. "Come here Dick!" "You are an impertinent monkey, and I'll hit him again," she cried; and

"Dick" bolted to the middle of the street, to terrified of his cruel pursuer to a avoid the approaching wheel of a Behind her was the portrait; before rapidly-driven vehicle. There was a her was his receding form. What had hitch in the wheel; a little appealing she gained by her experiment? He the "mills of the gods" are no distemagonizing bark, and the dog had num-turned the corner and was hid from pered dream, nor the avenging Nemesis lifted up his voice and wept.

The girl was too surprised to speak, but there was no grief in her look, simply open-eyed astonishment; but when she had fully realized the catastrophe, her glance was the glance of one who had triumpled, as the boy's understanding interpreted it. "Bathed in the helpless wrath of tears," he watched the girl's retreating form, and when she again looked round, he saw nothing of relenting nor of sympathy in her look. And he recolcted the hard look as long as he lived. For, as Jean Paul had written, "Remembrances last longer than present reality, as we may conserve blossoms many years, but never fruits."

At twenty, Ursula Heydenreich was the arbitrary mistress of large possessions. As she looked at herself in the mirror, she beheld the reflection of a large and handsome woman, with a fibre of her being. She was under the majestic shoulders. It would have of the human mind. It was a face that few young men could be a few young men could be and taking out his watch found he have looked at without misgivings that have looked at without misgiving that have looked at without misgiving that have looked at without misgiving the proval, and its love.

indecision. And yet she was only depainted. As usually regarded, if abundant means wait upon inclinations, and the gifted artist upon both, the sittings certain elaborate inquiries made known of her bread supply will regularly come may be commenced as soon as conven-ingly to honor him. That was one for three weeks till she found him. point to be kept steadfastily in mind. But then, again, she did not propose as for the unconfessed purpose of comin some slight degree been the trivial through a telescope as he sketched. cause. It had always seemed to her so exquisitely absurd to see the ltttle fellow

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, JULY 17, 1878.

Von Heydenreich to imply that she that was implanted thereon. analyzed her motives with the result just indicated. We are seldom careful sat in her little room before her wood to examine any too closely the alembic wherein the mainspring of an unworthy ing horrible spells in the flames, while action lies coiled; another motive-power gibbering goblins seemed haunting the more in consonance with our egotism, Not is it a French instinct to act self- always lies just a little further away rose and sobbed without, and in its ship in this matter. All along the and may conveniently be pressed into wail she seemed to hear the lament of service to gild and varnish the occasion. her own soul over its destiny. She Hence, while Ursula persistently deluded herself that she was about to wash is frequently an amusing and an patronize and honor Eugene Raymond, not. That would depend upon circumshe was in reality actively preparing stances. pers noisily and pathetically resent the to submit him to an inquisitorial ordeal quisite?

Well, the sittings began, and the cosspinsters, cannot be torn apart from pared for it showed her to be a daughter gloom. Alone among the mountain their trembling poodles, but preside at of Circe. The room and its inmate the operation and try to console them formed an arsenal of seductiveness. with expressions of the most ridiculous She was in the subtle glow of health, She had never revealed herself to which in her case took that low cream- Eugene. Her pride forbade the step;

at Paris and the suburbs of the east and Yet the young artist braced himself west were in full swing-haman, equine with a thought of the past, and worked and canine were taxed to their utmost calmly, followed by the gaze which was At one of the latter, an soft and sympathetic for the woman, American boy of twelve was dividing Often stealthily he observed those eyes between the elaborate for they presented a marked contrast to sousing administered to his own Dandie | the look of hard, selfish triumph that Dimmont and the human-like yelpings the girl had photographed on his of a bedizened lap-dog that protested memory when a boy. But the man had against the cruelty of the proposed ab- seen eyes and eyes-eyes that no words ution, and whose owner in a tearful can describe and no pigments portray; voice endcavored to console and fortify eyes that flicker like the opal; eyes that yawning chasm through which clashed her pet. The elderly owner of the dog draw men's hearts to love as the magnet a silver rill, the valley became glorified apanied by her niece-a draws the needle; eyes that drive men looking young girl with mad, as magic philtres drive them mad. blonde halr, a complexion like new Ursula's eyes were glorious; but they hood's side of the promise of her teens. Lovers, it is needless to say, As the actively-perceptive eye of this Von Heydenreich had now in plenty; young girl marked how courageously yet hitherto the favorite of the hour the Dandie Dinmont took his bath, and had had but small cause to plume himhow, on the contrary, Socrates whined, self on his position. She was naturally look at her!" said she, possessed of a one of those not by any means u mon pretty women who delude them- fawn-like creature was evidently soldenly conscious that the boy re- selves with the icea that every man dreadful gaze, and she retreated a step ever since. I afterwards heard that owner was found in his garden, having old tar." air of amusement not entirely free from if the preference had not been hopeless, and averted her head. Something in this hackman was always very wicked, in his hands a bunch of keys, and a The expression of burning resent- mond to fall in love with her-into a There was a blinding rush of blood to he was a little boy; but when his In the cellar of Diomede's house, hudment that instantly transformed her love that she might tamper with and her brain, and when she became herself mother put on his cap with a tassel to dled together in one corner, crouching features was a study for a physiogno- then pitch aside like agarment. If any she was alone by the brink of the it, and gave him a cent to put in the before the awful storm, were found 18 mist; and with an impetuous stamp of one had suggested that such a proceed- chasm.

this: He noticed the strange change that might as well blame the odorous spoken; but he bowed coldly and passed people in unfortunate circumstances? mother. Some of the victims had rings came over her face and felt the indigna- absinthe for its seduction of the palate

But as day after day passed she began fined his attention to his own immediate to feel disappointed at the coldness of intuition on his. At all events, he The Dandie Dinmont left the bath, sumed perplexed her. Why was he so triumph he had seen when a boy; but > "I am so much above him," she reof hers if he were not undeceived.

Yet the portrait was painted, and he heedless of her aunt's remonstrance, ed to accept the sum she had offered beside his dead. He knew who had she rushed with uplifted arm at the over and above the covenanted price, and when she had offered her hand at parting, he had touched it with the same unchangeable, cold politeness. bered his days. The boy ran and picked her view; and then her face quivered, up his mangled pet and placed the long, her bosom heaved, and she clenched silken hair against his heart; then he both hands till the round, white arms grew hard as marble. Then she bit her lip once, savagely, and so seemed to reusual dignity of her bearing.

perennial plants of the female mind. struggled unsuccessfully to uproot it. and upon all occasions. In the moru- not articles of food.

massive white neck, deep bosom and despotic thraidom of the master-passion pounds for each person in the kingdom. a fierce dog, with the inscription, "Cave continued during the entire day; and been sadly shaken since he got his foot appointment for a first sitting was areen easy to criticise the face; and yet If men dressed in a little brief authorit was a face that few young men could ity play such fantastic tricks before or 300 pounds, of wheat or other rain cordial greeting, for upon the door sill ious insects in one day not less than five poetic skating on the part of the exposihave looked at without misgivings that have looked at without misgivings that he might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman like Ursula be might too soon learn to labor and to labor he might too soon learn to labor and to may be said of a woman learn to labor and t the mocking demon of unrequited pasthe to early to disturb a lady, and ne dehouses, show a horrible depravity in undisturbed during the season, even of up toward the Cedar Rapids depot, cided to give ten minutes' grace before Miss Von Heydenreich paced her bondeir in a state of unusual mental bondeir in a stat Miss Von Heydenreich paced her sion! Little prudence or discretion. mostly to ride on the wayes of impulse, be abnormally high in some measure. Pompeil was a very Sodom in wicked- thirty thousand larve of May-beetles, Prospect bluffs, with the other. His ten minutes pulled out his watch and bridgeroom. The latter, to make sure liberating about having her portrait and try and direct the storm from that miraculous seat.

dant means wait upon melinations, and The information that resulted from to her that Eugene Raymond had gone from foreign countries.

Hence to employ him would be exceed- muscles to the utmost, she persevered

Ah! with what different eyes she to patronize him so much for his talents She smiled on everybody and everything; yet she had not spoken a word if I am obliged to get trusted for it. I pensating him for a slight mishap which to the painter. No; at first it was bliss had befallen him, and of which she had to watch him from afar-to focus him

One eyening as she watched, a strange agony of terror came over her. As he eight years since, blubbering over his stood on the mountain-side, intent at little hairy dog! And yet the little his work, the silent peaks above him painter had grown handsome, with a had turned to pearl under the magical manly look! What sort of a heart had light of the hour, and from out of some supplianted that of the parful boy? It olive-hued foliage a female form darted might be an interesting amusement to and was straightway at his side. With probe it. The sorrow of the boy was inflamed eye, the watcher saw the face an emotional treat in its way; might alight with joyousness and mirth; her not the mature agony of the man be ex- round, childlike forehead, her little dusky, graceful head, her beaming eyes, It would be a great injustice to Miss her fresh, half-open mouth, and the kiss

When Miss Von Heydenreich again fire she beheld mocking demons weavdistant corners af the room. The wind felt there was madness within her. How or when it might work she knew

Day after day she beheld the artist and the girl together, Day after day her soul drifted more and more helptume and environment elaborately pre- lessly through the tempest of rage and solitudes she spent the long hours battling in a fashion with her evil nature. color that never flushes and that passion yet if she had known how to pray she would have prayed.

One day she was inspired with a sudden resolve to leave the place for ever and to bury her infatuation in her heart of hearts.

"Next morning," she said to her maid, "I shall leave for Geneva, I am going for a walk now."

It was the early evening hour. The sunlight grew redder and richer as she stepped along, and as she reached a with this sunset color, and a female form standing pensively on the verge seemed bathed in blood.

The eyes of Ursula flamed and became almost blind. Her kness for a brief moment shook under her. Then the demon assumed the sway, Boldly she approached the child like creature.

"I shall have one searching, close emon, and she walked quickly. The on. What tempted each of them to turn and to look? Perhaps it was a natural impulse on her part; maybe an his bearing. The proud attitude he as- again beheld the look of cold, cruel

With a sensation as if he had been ing she lay on a spotless bed, with a she resolved that it should be no fault terror and agony in her open eyes. And people came in and wept, and whispered and looked; while Eugene had made no sign. Nay, he had refus- Raymond sat like a picture of Despair murdered his poor Florence; but there was no proof, and the assassin remained unmolested.

As to the readers natural curiosity no mere mythological vision

The Food Supply of Great Britian

The gross imports of the United Kingdom for 1877 exceeded those of the gain her accustomed composure and the previous year by the sum of over $94,-000,000. Of this increase, $48,400,000 Pique of this kind is one of the hardy was for articles of food for human consumption. The total import of such For several days Miss Von Heydenreich articles for the year amounted to more than $466,000,000. This amount in-The noble and kindly bearing of the cludes live animals intended for food, artist, his respectfully attentive looks, meats of all kinds, wheat and flour, his courteousness as distinguished from Indian corn, rice, butter, lard, cheese, familiarity, the worth and gentleness eggs, fish and potatoes; and does not the kitchens was found a fowr put in the kitch

ings when she slept late she would be Thirty years ago the import of food and rapid, and Great Britain is fast

The Young Man of Means.

I arrived in New York a few days ago, and immediately took rooms at the hadn't been at the Astor House but one day when the clerk brought me my bill.

"Is it customary," said I, "topay the first day?" "It is, with men of your stamp," he replied.

"What kind of a stamp do you take me for?" said I. "You look like a two-cent slamp," he replied, very insultingly. "You either pay this bill or get out. Have you got any money?" said he.

and if you will receipt that bill, I will hand a hatchet, with which he tried to give you a check for as much time as ant his way out of the temple. In the a couple of hours for your trouble."

ferred that I wasn't a financial success. I immediately called a backman, and told him to take me to a cheap, but re- of Rome, occupied a central position in is," I added, "the more respectable I rows of columns, and long porticos, shall consider it."

grieved if he didn't speak to me about were held, when the multitudes were it, for my proud spirit sparns an obli- addressed by such great orators as wife nor none o' your children."

"But I am busted," said I. "If meet-

this kind is invaluable.

ed daggers at me. He looked a whole announcing theatrical performances are arsenal, with a back room full of bay- still seen on the walls, onets; and as he mounted his sent and Outside the "Herculaneum Gate" selves with the idea that every man startled and terrified by the other's blood to hear him, and I have felt bad "Last days of Pompeii." The supposed of course she expected Eugene RayOf course she expected Eugene RayIn the cellar of Diomede's house, but,

In the cellar of Diomede's house,

In the contribution box, would go off with skeletons, mostly females, supposed to her substantial arched foot she whis- ing was cruel, in all probability she An hour afterwards the artist met other bad boys, and kill toads. Is it a be members of the family. They were would have retorted something like Miss Von Heydenreich hurrying to- wonder that he has grown up to be a encased in hardened mud and ashes. wards her lodgings. There was a start great horrid thing, and use profane One was an infant whose little form "Let him take care of himself. You and a recognition. She would have language toward highly respectable still clung to the bony bosom of its

The streets of Pompeli are straight nd regular though exceedingly narrow, some of them being not more than eight feet wide. They are paved with humored face would intrude at all hours tom houses parlance these latter are just ready to go to the oven for the the mouths of their young as they stretch amazed to see how far away it was. It sympathizing family. family dinner; but the pig never en- their long and slender necks above the didn't seem as though he could stand on tered the oven, and the family omitted nest. If you can spare the time, place one foot and reach down to it with the lapped in delicious dreams of which he was not seriously large. In 1846 forwas the central figure. And when she eign breadstuffs were imported to the uncovered, many elegant frescoes were and count the number of times one of If his knees would only quit wobbawoke and found it was but a dream amount of only seventeen pounds per found on the walls, and beautiful moshe rose with trembling vexation. She head of the whole population of the saics on the floors. Some of these look worms to the ever hungry broad during get around with any of them. The man of Martha Washington: My father had could not crush "this madness," as she country; in 1855 it had increased to as bright and fresh as if finished 18 intermed it, under the iron heel of her seventy pounds; in 1865 to ninety-three stead of eighteen-hundred years ago. to find that they have made these trips wouldn't wobble after he got started. Mrs. Washington in Philadelphia, the will; for it now thrilled through every pounds; and in the past five years the Near the threshold of the "House of the once a minute, or sixty times during the Mr. Middlerib's confidence in the general being then out of town. He average annual import has been over 180 Tragic Poet" was a mosaic representibg hour, and that these trips have been steadiness of roller-skate, however, had was obliged to go to her house, and the penter, who has been in foreign employ It is estimated that every person consumes a little more than five bushels, "House of the Vestals" you have a more have lessened the number of these nex persuasion on the part of exhibition and ing. My father arrived at the house Thouse of the Vestals you have a more have lessened the number of these nex persuasion on the part of exhibition and ing. My father arrived at the house Thouse of the Vestals you have a more have lessened the number of these nex persuasion on the part of exhibition and ing. My father arrived at the house Thouse of the Vestals you have a more have lessened the number of these nex persuasion on the part of exhibition and ing. Nevertheless the increase is uniform ness, and it is no wonder that an awful cut-worms, and other destructive in- feelings were terrible. Each foot went rang the bell. He was ushered into the baptism of fire destroyed it.

made by the wet glasses on the marble room were fire-places to keep the soups

struments; enter a third, and the stains mill, both in the same building, bave been brought to light. The mill was turned by a clumsy horse power, and in the bakery shop was found a batch of loaves which had remained in the oven ever since the 24th of August, A. D. 79. Pompeii had its temples of heather of marble, silver and gold. One, called "My estimable young friend," I re- the temple of Isis, is 84 feet long and 75 piled, "you have probably heard of Dr. feet broad. On its altar still remained Benjamin Franklin, long since deceas- the ashes of victims offered in sacrifice ed. That eminent physician was at to pagan gods; but where were the one time in the proverb line, and did a worshippers? In the temple was found very good business. He said among the skeleton of a priest, sitting at a other things that time is money. Now table on which was spread his last I haven't got any money, but as regards earthly meal. Near the door was antime, I am in affluent circumstances, other priest, holding in his skeleton you think equivalent, and throw you in "Temple of Juno," lately uncovered, 300 skeletons were found crowded to-He made no reply, but from the fact gether, and all buried beneath the burnof the porter's coming up immediately ing ashes thrown out by the volcano. after, removing my trunk to the side- In the very hour of the destruction the walk and hustling me out after it, I in- priestess was offering sacrifice to the "Queen of the Gods."

We visited the forum, which like that spectable hotel. "And the cheaper it the city. On different sides were great and I told him that if at any time I the pedestals on which stood famous land." could do him a favor, I should feel statues. In the forum public meetings Cicero. In fact, a notice of a public "If you don't fork over them fifty meeting for the very night on which cents," said he, "there'll be a funeral the storm of ashes began is shown the forever.

This ancient city of pleasure seekers I will not say that this backman look- as they were 18 centuries ago. Placards drove away, the air was fairly blue with a large dwelling said to belong to one his curses. He got off string after string Diomede, because a tomb inscribed with without a single mistake, and he must that name was found near by. This at his villa has been admirable de ongue's end. It fairly curdled my the English novelist Bulwer in his and bracelets encircling their skeleton fingers and wrists, and gold ornaments on their necks.

large flat stones or blocks of lava, in the season almost entirely on insects. remembrances of the tight boots of his and had smashed into about the middle which may be seen the deep ruts made Many of them-robins, chipping birds, callow days, by wearing the largest and of the first half of the first squeeze, tation of the punishment of the wicked suddenly stricken with palsy. Eugene by Roman chariot wheels eighteen cen- wrens and swallows, as if knowing softest socks and the roomiest boots when bossy's night hand foot suddenly after death according to the Buddhist tokened too surely his involue's pain. sion wrought the wild have she had suddenly stricken with palsy, Eugene that they were the husbandman's best that they were the husbandman's best that they were the husbandman's best that could be had for money. Conse-swung out, and doubled that tin milk theory, which he witnessed in the sub-face of the sub-fa lings, are large stepping stones for the accommodation of pedestrians, to keep accommodation of pedestrians accommodation accommodation accommodation rose on her heart, stiff and stark, a their feet out of the mud, similar to their young. They do this as if hoping skids. But they found a pair that could from his three-legged stool and sat Horrors." This is a horrible placeflected. "He dare not presume;" and wound in her forehead, and a look of those used in this day. As we he would appreciate their services and be persuaded to do, and, although Mr. down foreibly on his shoulders. walked those deserted and desolate give them his protecting care, and Middlerib could not see them when "Consarn your picter," said the Dea- intention is to represent what a bad streets, so silent and death like, it seem- guard them against their enemies. they were on his feet, he accepted the con, in short, emphatic tones, starting man would suffer after death. It is ed as if we must meet some of the for- Many do give them their watchful care statement of the artist that they were up and firing his stool, hitting the side composed of ten different groups of mer inhabitants. But there were no so long as the parent birds are feeding just a snug fit, and stood up-tem- of the barn about three feet from the statuary, made of clay, and many of faces at the windows, nor human forms their young in the nest, but as soon as porarily. in the doorways, no cry of street ped- the young birds leave their nest to try He had fallen with such amazing The culprit, filled with a lively sense first group represents the trial of a dlers, nor shouting of boys, nor rolling their wings, they are seized by the fam celerity and promptness that he of her depravity, was, by this time, pi- man; he is surrounded by his family of wheels over the pavements, nor busi- ily favorite cat and thus their existence couldn't for the life of him see that it roueting around the inner perimeter of and friends, who are trying to defend ness in the market places. We were ends. In this way a large proportion changed the slippery skate of his boy the stable with considerable alacrity. him; the second, where he is conrespecting Ursula Von Heydenfeich's reminded of the words of Jeremiah: of young robins, chipping birds, wrens hood a particle to take off the blade and "I'll larn yer!" again ejaculated the demned and given over to the execurespecting Ursula Von Heydenfeich's demned and given over to the execuultimate fate, let him be assured that "How doth the city sit solitary that was and blue birds, that place themselves put on wheels. He felt around for his Deacon, clenching his teeth, doubling tioner; in the third he is unnergoing a under the watchful care of the husband- hat which had joited up off his head his fists and darting forward, and plant- semi-transformation from the man to The dwellings, built of stone and man are disposed of. This favorite cat, like a rocket and lodged in the chande ing his right big toe solidly against the the brute; the fourth is where he is The dwellings, built of stone and brick and plastered on the outside with in her rambles over the fields in search lier; and, when they had fished it down bones just back of Brindle's shoulder. put into a mill, with his head downmortar, are generally small and mostly of game, finds many birds ere they learn and handed it to him, he felt around for Then, if a professor of the higher wards, and is being ground up; his of one story. They are built in oriental to use their wings, or that danger is his head, which seemed to have gone a Christian life had been present, he dog is by the side of the mill licking up style, with an open court in the centre, near. Now let use see what these birds story and a half higher than the hat, would have seen Deacon Hiram eager- his blood. In the fifth scene he is beand the different rooms of the house ar. have done while rearing their young in But it was in its vsual place, and he ly grab that toe with his hands, and beranged around and opening into this protecting the husbandman's crops, to tenderly covered it with his hat, pul- gin hopping around the stable on one being sawed down lengthwise; sixth, court. The roofs are mostly destroyed, meet this ruthless treatment at his ling the head piece clear down over his foot, exclaiming: having been crushed down by the hands. Let us watch the movements of ears, to avoid the danger of jolting it up "Ow-ow-oo-oo! Jiminy to blazes! until the concussion kills him; sevweight of the ashes, leaving the walls a single pair of robins that have built through the ventilator in the ceiling. O-o-o-o!! Ugh!" standing. Entering the houses we their nest, as if on purpose, in a maple Then he got up very slowly and with And then he would have seen him and two men are paddling him with found various spartments. In the din- right at our door. They fear no dan- alarming caution. He held on to a post mournfully lean up against the man- large, wooden paddles; eighth, he is ing room are tables of stone covered ger, not being conscious of having done with one hand and a man with the ger, cautiously work that big toe with upon a rack, and the executioners are with petrified food. In the sleeping us any harm. During the period of inrooms are beds and couches. In one of cubation one of the faithful pair is con- as a boy hiding behind the wood pile out of joint, and then, utterly ignoring with his in a cauldron of boiling the kitchens was found a fowl put in stantly at its trust. As soon as the little rises to see if his father is coming. the presence of the cow, go limping off lead; the tenth scene represents him counter, as well as the stone liquor jars bridge at Olcott, watching Ed. Martin, the crash which accompanied his arrival behind it, tell you plainly you are in a as he took his evening fish. Martin looked upon the sunrise next morning. Astor House. I have always made it a She smiled on everybody and every-rule to get the best of everything, even lately discovered, with its meats and delicacies on the counter. In the same the day can be found a row boat creek and messes warm. A bakery and a grist there, there appeared upon the landing rink that if Mr. Middlerib fell again he worship, within which were found dols party was at once directed with an ex- thought he would now do very well. until they were surprised by informa-

a dozen comfortably. ing with the fishing-line.

on the creek alone?"

pleases.' "How old is he?" "Five years old."

ver he chooses?" "Yes, he goes on the lake alone fre-

"Are you not afraid to have the little chick do so?" was now handling the oars, that he knew what he was about. He sped up in your family, and it won't be your traveler, but the meeting was postponed the creek like an arrow, and had just ng houses were selling two for a cent, had their great amphitheatre. It is There was some surprise felt by the I couldn't buy the handle of a contri- outside the present excavations, full lady witnesses that the father could brakes, and on being informed that her sentimental folly, and wished to half a mile away, and is quite perfect in allow so diminutive a piece of human-there were none in the market, he said see him no more. Astounded at this He swore at me awfully, and said he preservation. It is a large stone buildwould have it out of my trunk, so he ing 430 feet long and 335 feet wide, alone. But they forgot, perhaps, that ioned, hand brakes, and when he found impugned its truth. Would he be genburst it onen. But the contents of that shaped like the coliseum at Rome, and he was born a sailor and moreover, that there were no skates with those appendered to the contents of that shaped like the coliseum at Rome, and he was born a sailor and moreover, that trunk are far from valuable, for I carry was used for ginditorial shows. On its a child is no more helpless—in ordinary dages, he solemnly said, if he had asked, if she herself assured him of her it filled with sawdust. It looks just as stone steps once sat 15,000 spectators. times just as powerful, as a strong man known that, he would not have de- desire to that effect? Chivalrously, respectable, and in an emergency of The pillars, doors, seats, entrances and on the fickle waves. It was faith, you caves for the wild beasts, are as perfect remember, that in those old times did wonders on the deep.

> As the party were leaving the place, remarking upon what they had seen and heard, a man who stood near trying to catch the attention of some threepounders with a spoon hook, gave his head an expressive shake and said:
>
> when it was time to assume the dignity of manhood, and the pleasant reserve of hastly summoned from this city for the

> "That boy is safer than many men on upon the lake, sailing over the white his part he could not countenance such present, with a friend for a witness, to caps as self-possessed and brave as any

> with block-houses, high chairs and foolish and wicked.
>
> with block-houses, high chairs and foolish and wicked.
>
> deceived husband begged her to go with him. "I wish to remain with my mork."

Mr. Middlerib Tries the Skates.

There was some little difficulty exnecessary paraphernalis in finding a pair zero. His feet were clad in a light, orite dog that accompanied him leaped of skates that would accommodate him. close-fitting pair of moccasins. He has been afflicted for years past with tender feet, and has dealt most tenderly posture. He "hysted" her; seated with the active reminiscences of youth-Birds subsist during the fore part of ful corns and bunions, and the distorted usual, energetic, triangular fashion, sects. This is the work of one pair of further than the other, and gained in parlor and Mrs. Washington accosted brother, who is at least ten years youn-In the streets of this buried city are many shops with the signs still over the doorways. Enter one, and there is mar doorways. Enter one, and there is mar of a single robin. It is said that a further and feater and in more widely further and feater than the other, and gained in parlor and Mrs. Washington accosted him, drew out her watch, and said she wheels. If Mr. Middlerib's legs had been found in the crop for him and given her orders for the day, had heard her daughter take her lessons on he Little Sallor of Olcott.

feet struck a bench, and the other a We were leaning over the Creek good but prostrate young man, who worthy or lake worthy. As we stood had just informed the proprietor of the at the boat house a little fellow, "knee would raise the rent. Mr. Middlerib cemetery her body now rests, she came high to a grasshopper" who wanted to signed heavily, and said it was a dread- to New York in the bloom and vivacity know-in a voice worthy of a larger ful feeling to feel yours-if seceding- of a youth just conscious of its own man-which boat he should take. As fairly disintergrating, as it were-and power, to visit the friendly household the younster was just about tall enough no constitutional obstructions to check of one of our first merchants. A proto see comfertably all over the top of the proceeding. He had, however, he longation of her sojourn here did not an ordinary table, every eye in the said, rather got the hang of it, and excite the remonstrance of her parents pression of mingled wonderment and if the man, he said, would only give tion that her delay was possibly occaamusement at the speaker. He was him a helping shove and started him, sloned by the frequent calls of a gentleburthened with little more than panta- And now Mr. Middlerib started off man, a lieutenant of the British navy, loons, shirt, and slouched sailor cap. down the rink like a landslide on legs. whose attentions seemed ominously The question as to which boat he should He had not got twenty feet away from serious, when her mother took the take was put to Mr. Martin, his father, the man before he made the appalling family carriage precipitately for the city

we believe, a graceful shell, large ward at a much greater rate than his damsel. Upon arraignment before the enough to hold a party of four or half body. He thought that maybe he was maternal bar the young lady did not As the little boatman stepped into the he shut off and held his feet close to- suitor, whom her New York friends 'Lena," a series of questions were put gether, but they held the start they had had seen no reason to interfere with; to his natural protector, who was play- gained, and even kept on increasing it. indeed, upon stepping into the carriage "Why, does that little fellow go out last long; he knew the matters would Railroad then), she said quite coolly: "O, yes; he goes wherever he saw disaster staring him in that face if I am married. he didn't manage to catch up with his Such, indeed, was the startling fact.

> sayed to dig his heels in the floor. lieved he had all of the fruit he cared she would prove true to him. about. There were men, he confiden-

The Deacon and his Cow.

Deacon Hiram Jones, of St. Paul, tenant bowed to parents and child, and went out to milk his cow the other at once withdrew with his friend from perienced when Mr. Middlerib presen- morning, while the mercury was nest- the room and the house. On his way ted himself at the rink and called for the ling down among the twenties below back to New York by steamboat a fav-

The cow stood in a cold, hunched-up over to the rescue, was drowned.

animal's back.

Punctuality of Martha Washington

lent. But other considerations entered the embryonic purpose of the heiress. The artist whom she thought of employing was not esteemed highly gifted.

The artist whom she thought of employing was not esteemed highly gifted.

But other considerations entered to Switzerland, painting of collections and carried off his prize. We are told further and faster, and in more widely the harpsichord, had read all the his arms until she is seventeen years and you find medicines and surgical inhere take her lessons on further and faster, and in more widely the harpsichord, had read all the his arms until she is seventeen years and you find medicines and surgical inhere take her lessons on further and faster, and in more widely the harpsichord, had read all the his arms until she is seventeen years and you find medicines and surgical inhere take her lessons on further and faster, and in more widely the harpsichord, had read all the his arms until she is seventeen years and you find medicines and surgical inhere take her lessons on further and faster, and in more widely the harpsichord, had read all the harpsichord, had read all the diverging directions. As it was just before he tore himself in two, one of his been waiting for him ten minutes.

A Clandestine Marriage.

NO. 29.

Recently were borne from a sumptu ous house high up on Fifth avenue. New York, for interment in a Connecticut town on the New Haven road, the remains of a revered wife and mother. Half a century ago, when she was the only unmarried daughter of an old and wealthy family of the town in whose who directed him to the little "Lena," discovery that his feet were moving for- to convey back forthwith the giddy making steam too fast, and accordingly deny the frequent visits of the alleged Mr. Middlerib knew that this could not to go home (there was no New Haven be brought to a crises very soon; and he "It's useless to find fault now, ma, for feet very immediately. He remembered After a short and only finally suspected how he used to stop himself when he summer's courtship, she and the lieu-"Do you let him take the boat when- was a boy, and raising his toes, he es- tenant had been claudestinely married, and before the horrified mother and He came a great deal nearer, so the romantic daughter had been in their quently with the sail boat. He takes people said who saw him go down, dig- Connecticut home twenty-four hours, He drove me to the Excelsior Hotel, the noted place. Here and there were parties out sailing, miles away from the ging his toes into the ceiling. But he the bold young sailor was there too, to dug something into the floor with suf- claim his wife! But he found her a ficient vehemence to enable him to prisoner, locked in her own room, and "slow up" before he went through the both parents met his appeals with steady end of the building. He said, when refusal to acknowledge his authority. It was very evident from the way he they set him up and let him lean up The girl was but a child, they said, not against the perforated end of the arnica conscious of her own mind, and they bottle, that the ice of his childhood, as should resist with every possible form he remembered it, was less addicted to of law any attempt to remove her from the stroke that one might imagine the slivers than the rink surface, and when their custody. The husband, urging a man fell on it, he slid far enough to that they loved each other, was told experienced man-of-war's man to have. break the force of the fail. He then, that she whom he had made his wife, asked for a pair of skates with air in name only, now bitterly regretted pended on them and need not have though too rashly perhaps, he agreed fallen. And he said, too, that he be so to do, confident, undoubtedly, that

And then came the most extraordi tially informed the attendant who un- nary scene of the little drama. A marharnessed his feet, who never knew ried sister strikingly resembling the age, whose gray hairs were a constant purpose, and, artfully dressed to intenimbecile follies and longings, but for the room where the Lientenant was degenerate manhood. He loved to wit- learn his fate, and, with simulated sobs ness the sports of youth, but he did not bastily hid her face on her mother's er!" was the apparently tearful answer. without so much as a glance for him: and, without another word, the Lieuoverboard, and he, plunging instantly that is, the scenes are hideous, them are crumbling to pieces. he is under a large bell, which is rung the skillet 1800 years ago, and a stew part of the latest for worms to fill down at the floor Mr. Middlerib was and relate the circumstances to his cess of roasting. In all these scenes his family are present; also large figures who represents the judge, executioners, little demons, and various instruments of torture.

Chinese social life may interest and Though 38 years of age his choice fell $250 was asked as a dowry. Before the