HAVE HAD AN OVARIAN TUMOR IN THE OVARIES AND BOWELS FOR OVER TEN YEARS.

ANN ARBOR, Dec. 27, 1875.

Dr. RADWAY: That others may be benefited I make this statement.

I have had an Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels for ten years. I tried the best physicians in Ann Arbor, Mich., but without benefit. It was growing with such rapidity that I could not get on my feet. I was so weak that I could not walk. I was so thin that I could not see my face. I was so weak that I could not see my face. I was so weak that I could not see my face.

I feel perfectly well, and my heart is full of gratitude to God for his mercies. I feel that I have been restored to health by your medicines. I feel that I have been restored to health by your medicines. I feel that I have been restored to health by your medicines.

The prompt reform of these bodily evils, enfeebled digestion, incomplete assimilation, inactivity of the liver, kidneys and bladder, as well as of the nervous system which these elements are especially prone to be affected by, is accomplished by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine accredited by physicians, pronounced pure by analysts, and entirely wholesome and agreeable. Sorely such a restorative is preferable to unpalatable and indigestible mineral drugs, and is especially tonic to the system at large, and to the stomach in particular. It is a demand now supplemented by immense orders for it received from the British and Spanish Colonies, and the United States, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians. Both at home and abroad it is recognized as a standard remedy and preventing the decrepitude of its effects.

Headland's German Bitters. During the warm season the nerves become enfeebled and the whole system debilitated. The stomach loses its power of digestion, the liver becomes congested and sluggish, causing constipation or diarrhea, dysentery and cholera morbus; and the prevalence of more or less malaria at this season, especially among bilious or typhoid fevers, often of serious import. To avoid these consequences, it is necessary to take a tablespoonful of Headland's German Bitters; it is a splendid tonic for the system, and builds up the whole system to withstand the summer heat and all the baneful influences.

A Little Prince. I want to tell you about a prince I once saw, a real prince. Do you know what he was wearing? He was wearing a crown and a sword, and he was riding a white horse. He was so handsome that I could not take my eyes off him. He was so kind that I could not help but love him. He was so brave that I could not help but admire him. He was so good that I could not help but respect him.

THEY are eaten and enjoyed by a great many people, notwithstanding their deleterious effect upon health and digestion. It will be hard to persuade old women to do away with pie, they are joined to their idols; but we can at least make the effort. In summer time, pies are an unnecessary extravagance. When fruit can be had for the picking, or at very low prices, when you can sugar down for dessert, golden or red, or black raspberries, or blackberries, when you can pile up a beautiful, artistic pyramid of pears, peaches and grapes, for a centerpiece for your table, and can flank it by plates of sliced melons and rosy apples, what more could a king ask? Doesn't it seem half as good to eat a pie as to eat a whole one? Making it of a fruit paste between two layers of pie-crust? Do believe for once the "best way is as good as any," and let the fruit come on the table in all its freshness and beauty and wholesomeness, rather than waste health and strength and labor in concocting digestion slaying pies.

IMPORTANCE OF A CLEAN SKIN.—Most of our invalids are clean, and millions of our healthy people will become invalids for the want of paying the ordinary attention to the cleanliness of the skin. That membrane is too often regarded as a covering only. Instead of a complicated piece of machinery, scarcely second in its texture to the sensitive membrane of the eye. Many treat it with as little reference to its proper functions as if there were nothing more than a bag for their bones. It is this inconsideration for the skin that is the cause of a very large proportion of diseases in the world. If, as claimed by some scientists, four-fifths, in bulk, of all we eat and drink is absorbed through the skin or is turned back on the system as a poison, and that life depends as much upon these exhalations through the skin as upon the breath that is pure air through the lungs, it must be of the most vital importance to keep that channel free.

CORN BRAN.—Two heaping cups of corn bran, one cup of flour, four eggs, two and a half cups of sweet milk, two tablespoonfuls of lard, two tablespoonfuls of white sugar, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, beat the eggs thoroughly, yolks and whites separately; melt the lard; sift soda and salt into the flour, add the molasses and the white dry, and stir in lard; then beat it very thoroughly; bake quickly in a buttered mold; less than one-half hour will usually suffice.

BROOMSTICK.—After a broomstick has outlived its usefulness as part of a carpet cleaner, it may be made to minister to one's health by cutting off the broom and using it as a gymnasium. Bend it into a hook, and use it as a broom. Spend five minutes each night and morning in lifting the wand high over the head in both hands, palms forward, and then drawing the elbows sharply down, until the stick falls behind the shoulders. The most obstinate case of crookedness will yield to this remedy, unless the deformity has extended to the spine.

NUMEROUS foreign governments, as Russia, Cuba, Siam, Japan, &c., have adopted the Fairbanks' Standard Scale for their government use, and in the last four years only, our own Government, in the Postoffice Department, the War Department and Treasury Department, have bought over 11,000 of them.

GREEN CORN CHIFFON CAKES.—One pint of grated sweet corn; one teaspoonful of salt; one beaten egg; one large spoonful of sweet milk; two large spoonfuls of melted butter; one large spoonful of pepper. Add a large spoonful of melted butter, and mix well with a spoon. Drop on a hot, buttered griddle, and fry until brown on both sides. Shape the cakes so as to resemble oysters, which they are like in taste. Nice with meats for dinner, if served very hot.

SILVER CLOTHES.—Housekeepers some times wish to give silver a little brightening without going through all the ceremonies of a formal cleaning, and this can be done by the use of a silver cloth. Take two ounces of powdered harts horn and boil in a pint of water. Dip small squares of cloth into the liquor, and hang them up to dry without wringing.

COFFEE STARCH.—The mildest manner man will scold when he finds a patch of white starch on a yellow linen duster, but his wife may easily prevent the occurrence of such an accident by mixing the starch with strong coffee, instead of water. Weak coffee makes good starch for Snyrna lace and for linen neckties.

Babies are the institution and should be guarded from attacks of Colic, Flatulence, &c., by Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price 25 cents a bottle.

LIMA BEANS.—After shelling, let them lie in cold water for an hour; drain, and add enough boiling water to just cover; cook until tender, or until the beans are soft, and then add pepper and salt. Add a teaspoonful of milk, and a bit of butter and let the beans boil up once before serving.

GREEN CORN PUDDING.—Cut the corn from the cobs, as previously directed, and mix with it a pint of sweet milk; add a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, half as much pepper, and a cup of melted butter, and four eggs beaten separately. Beat the mixture well, and bake until firm in the center and serve hot.

CLOTHES LINE.—A new clothes line is in vogue, and is called the "Kink." It is made of a material that is not affected by the sun, and is not liable to rot. It is made of a material that is not affected by the sun, and is not liable to rot. It is made of a material that is not affected by the sun, and is not liable to rot.

APPLE SHORTCAKE.—Season apple with butter, sugar, and nutmeg; make a nice shortcake as follows: Take the whites, bake until firm in the center and serve hot.

In a Refrigerator. Chris Larsen's little son was playing around a refrigerator, the other day, and got into it for fun, when the door swung shut and the fun was over. The boy could not get out, for the lock has the knob on the outside, and the best thing to do was to shout for help, which the little fellow did with all his might. But no help came, and after calling and crying until he was tired out, he laid down in the ice-box for a while, and thought he would call no more. Still, no one came, and the time seemed long, and the cold was growing more severe. At last the child believed he should die unless he soon had help, and he thought the only thing he could do was to pray for help to come. So he managed to get upon his knees, and after saying the Lord's Prayer, he prayed that some one would let him out right away. After praying, he began to call and cry again, and a lady going by there heard him, and rescued him from what was fast becoming a perilous position.

Whoever thinks of life as something that can be without religion is yet in delusion. Life and religion are one, or neither is anything.

STUCCESSFUL DRAINING.—Hon. George Geddes, of Fairmount, New York, recently showed us on his farm a field of twelve acres or more which formerly was a cedar swamp, and before draining could not be traversed without laying a board plank or board to walk on. The drains were cut in the first place by means of a plank to support the ditchers until the water was sufficiently discharged to give them a more solid footing. The descent is considerably less than one foot in a hundred. The main channels are made of six-inch pipe tiles, the smaller drains are two rods apart. We drove over this field in a carriage, and found it covered with a luxuriant growth of grass of several species, the smaller drains are two rods apart. THE American Dairyman states that there are four modes of making butter in Brazil. The first is by putting the milk in a wooden tub, and stirring it with a spoon as you would an egg; the second, by pouring the milk into a bottle and shaking it till the butter appears, when it is removed by pouring off the top of the bottle, as bottles are valuable in that part of South America on account of the vast number imported with foreign milk; the third, where the dairy is more extensive, is performed by filling a hide with milk, which is justly shaken by an athletic native at one end until the butter is produced; the fourth, indicating vast progress over and beyond any of the preceding methods, consists in dragging the hide or leather over the ground after a galloping horse until it is supposed the butter is formed. The milk is never strained and the butter never washed.

PARTIDES AND CORN.—To show how useful the beautiful and harmless parasite is, it is said that a flock of these was seen running along the rows of corn just sprouting, and seeing them engaged at something which was believed to be the removal of the weeds, the corn plants, one of them was killed and its "crop" examined, which was found to contain one cut-worm, twenty-one striped bugs, one hundred and thirty chinch-bugs. Another man says that he has adopted measures to protect the bird, and that they have become so numerous and so tame that hundreds of them are usually about, while in the barnyard with his fowls when they are fed. As a result of their presence upon his premises, his wheat crops are unusually abundant, while in many other places not far off the chinch-bug and other insects had destroyed half the crop.

SAVE THE FRUIT.—Now, while revealing in pe
