THE Western elections have turned out a great deal better than was expected.

The National and Greenback heresy had got such a hold upon the people that it was feared nothing would be left of old landmarks; but as the people got to understand the division and snare that is in it they turned from it, and if the election had been held later, one of the greatest Republican achievements would have been secured, but as it stands it is a confusing mass of returns for both the National-Greenback and Democrats.

Last year Ohio was Democratic by 20,000 majority; this year all that majority has been overcome, and the Republican State ticket is elected by a handsome majority. The Democracy had the Legislature last year, and so divided the Congressional district that the Republicans should have only six of the twenty Congressional delegation. It was a disappointment to the Republicans that returns revealed that instead of the Republicans getting only six they got nine.

Of course Indiana must needs be Democratic. The new Congressional delegation stands six Republicans, six Democrats and one Greenbacker.

West Virginia, as usual, elected her three Democratic delegation.

On the Congressional vote, the Republicans have lost eleven Congressmen. The loss may be all made up by a united effort on the 5th of next November.

The National and Greenback tide has not been so heavy; they gained two Congressmen in Maine, one in Iowa, one in Indiana. It has spent its force, apparently, and the wholesome reaction is setting in. If they continue to elect as they declined since the Maine election, they will be greatly reduced by November.

The following table shows the complexion of the new House as far as elected, compared with the membership of the present Congress.

Now for Pennsylvania.

McCLURE'S TIMES on Monday contained a long communication from Pittsburgh, that charges that the Republicans bought the Mollie Maguire vote for Hartraut in 1875, through Jack Kehoe, and the reason that Kehoe is not in it is because of said service to the Governor. It is an ugly article; an ugly charge, and to the untrained reader is calculated to do harm. Indeed, but for one thing in it, it might influence numbers. That part of the article that stamps the whole of it as the height of improbability is that now the same influences are said to be brought to bear on the Mollie Maguires. They are now urged to vote for the Greenback candidates, to save Jack Kehoe from being hung, and yet, the article says, will vote the Greenback ticket to save him.

First, it says that Kehoe is safe, and that neither Hartraut or Hoyt dare hang him.

Second, it says that in order to save him the Mollies will vote for the Greenbackers.

The intention is evidently to create the impression that if Hoyt can be elected Kehoe is safe, and if it had charged that the Mollies will vote the Republican ticket, then the tale would be consistent; but it becomes wonderfully inconsistent to tell that to save Kehoe they will vote for the Greenback ticket. If Hoyt dare not hang Kehoe, if he stands so close to them that he is to be the savior of their leader, it is but natural to suppose that he is the man for whom they would not need to be asked to vote. To be consistent, to save Kehoe, the thing to do would be to vote for Hoyt; but as they are declared ready to vote the Greenback ticket, that destroys the force of the article.

How a solemn man can get such a couple of inconsistencies together to harmonize, is referred to McClure's Times for solution.

The tidal wave of Greenbackism that was expected to sweep everything before it in the West last week, did not amount to a great deal. They got a couple of Congressmen. Here after the West will grow stronger than ever in favor of honest money.

REFORM!

The Spectator, and Tribune Conference, and the Tribune Conference—What Mr. Magee says.

The Tribune complains that the Sentinel and Republican wronged its candidate for Congress. It says that we charged him with using money to buy a conference away from Mr. Magee. The Tribune did not have its specks on it when it read our brief article relative to the Democratic Congressional Conference. We did not charge that Mr. Stinger bought a conference, but we did publish a report that was current on the streets of this town when the conference was in session here, which was, that a Snyder county conferee had told that he had been offered money, to leave Magee, and vote for Stinger, and that we were brought to face the report he denied. But afterwards he had told it in a jest or joke. Such was the common report, and at the time it was made we treated it as a street report and published nothing regarding it, but when the result of the Conference was reached, which was many days after the report had got out, and it was clearly revealed that the man that was pointed out 10 days before as weak in fealty to his instructions, had actually yielded to certain influences, just as report pointed out he would, the conferee only took rank among the remarkable cases or coincidences that always arouse the closest attention and become subjects for newspaper articles, and records.

At the time of the first report it did not seem as a "coming event that cast its shadow before," but such it was. The Tribune can readily see both the shadow and substance, now that the result of the conference has been reached. It can readily see the remarkable coincidence, and the report and the result, and it can see the force of the joke, as it was called, on Mr. Magee.

Remarkable coincidences have all ways been considered proper subjects for newspaper articles, and that is why the Sentinel and Republican published the reform performances of Mr. Stinger's conference. The work of the reformers worked like a charm on the Snyder county delegation.

History reveals many strange coincidences. It reveals many events that are not expected, but which, of course, it is not to be expected that the reform gentlemen of the Tribune will call on us for such historical data, as they are well versed in matters of such profane record, of the past and modern times, but least an important foreboding, as recorded in the Sacred Book, has escaped their memory, we beg leave to refresh their minds with an illustration of how events were foreshadowed among the chosen people. See Matt. XXVth chapter, 23rd verse, which reads:

"He that diggeth his land with me in the dust, the same shall betray me."

If the gentlemen of the Tribune reform organ of Hon. Milton Stinger, back salary grabber to the amount of nearly two thousand dollars, and three teen Congressman Hon. W. S. Steger, read on, they may learn that the quotation just used, foreshadowed the betrayal, just as the report about the conference foreshadowed what the certain Snyder man would do.

The man referred to in the quotation, who dipped his hand in the dish, was holding consultations with certain men high in authority in the organization of the orthodox church of the Jews 1800 years ago, and the Snyder county man was holding consultations with certain men high in authority in the Democratic party.

It was referred to what Mr. Magee said in the Perry county Democrat last week. Mr. Magee published a "History of the Conference" in last week's Perry county Democrat, and on the very point that the Reform Spectator-Tribune seeks to condemn the Sentinel and Republican, says:

"We then deemed it to be our duty before leaving the room, to say to the conferees that we had learned that one of their number had said that he could get $500 for his vote. This raised a storm and Mr. McKibben, of Franklin became much excited and demands were loudly made to name the man, give our author, &c. We frankly stated that no conferee had made such admission to us. But that one of their number had said, in the presence of three or four reputable gentlemen, whom we would bring forward at the conference would permit. But Mr. Parker, of Fulton, protested against bearing any 'outside testimony' and insisted that we must name the conferee who had said he was offered, or he could get $500 for his vote. Again and again we proposed to furnish the proof of such assertion having been made by a conferee, but the friends of Mr. Stinger refused to let us do so. We were then obliged to ask them whether we were to have the Electoral Commission business repeated here? At length the old man Swineford rose and said that some such talk about him had been heard and asked us whether he desired it to be distinctly understood that we brought no such charge against him or any other conferee, but that he was the man so charged. He appealed to Heaven to bear him witness that he had not that effect. We then turned to Dr. Arnold, who then came forward and addressing Mr. Swineford as 'our worthy President,' said, whatever the motive, whether thoughtless or sportive, he Mr. Swineford, had said, the evening before, in the presence of two or three other gentlemen, that he could get $500 for his vote. The Doctor then reminded him, in truly eloquent language, of what one of the others present had said in regard to Fraud and Corruption having crept into a Democratic conference, and how he, the old gentleman, who had been speaking of grace that would surely fall upon himself and his family were he to listen to such a proposal. When the Doctor had concluded Mr. Swineford replied: 'Well, I will not deny I said so but no money was offered me,' or words to that effect.

CERTAIN parties are traveling around the county bidding for the County Treasury.

The fixing of the salary, or salary of the County Treasurer, belongs to the Commissioners and the Auditors. If the voters of this county will elect the right kind of men to the office of Commissioner and Auditor, there will be no mistake about the pay, for the right kind of men will put the pay at such figures as will do justice to all. Vote for Lemon, McKeen, Wilson, Deagan and Cooper, and the question of salary will be correctly adjusted. They are practical everyday men, in whose hands the interests of the county will not suffer.

THE constitutionality of the National and greenback currency as a matter of necessity during the rebellion was only maintained by one of a majority in the Supreme Court, so that the cause of Northern civilization was as nearly as lost in the highest court of the land as it was on the field of battle, and now that a Supreme Judge is to be elected, it is necessary that a man fully in accord with the civilization of the North, or the civilization that triumphed in the war, be put on the bench, for it looks as if in the years to come, questions that will affect the present system of civilization, directly and indirectly, will be brought up to the higher courts, and if the wrong kind of judges sit there, there is no telling what the result may be. Can you, reader, realize what the result would have been if the National bank system and the greenback currency had been declared unconstitutional as a war measure? So now it behooves all who favor the present system of civilization to see to it that they do not vote wrong. Vote for Judge Sterrett for Supreme Judge; he is not a partisan Judge, but he is in close accord with the Northern civilization, and will be governed righteously from that stand-point.

POLITICAL NOTES.

FROM EXCHANGES.

Ohio has done nobly. Let the Republicans of Pennsylvania pull off their coats and go to work in earnest cheer and encouraged by the result in the Buckeye State, and a "grand victory" will be ours.

Texas Republicans are true-blue Hard money, and for honest payment of obligations. Texas no doubt remembers its practical experience with "flat absolute" money.

An experienced Massachusetts bell-founder has estimated that Butler cranes brass enough around his face to supply every church in the United States with a full chime of bells.—Albany Evening Journal. Let's have the bells cast and have his knell tolled on the 6th of November.

Heaven forbid! The Socialists of Germany are advised by their journals to emigrate to the United States of America, and to settle in Bismarck in the struggle over the anti-Socialists bill.

The latest advice is that the 150,000 Greenback voters in Ohio were too late for the train.

That great Greenback highway in Ohio has finally divided into a squirrel-track and run up a tree.

Noble Ohio! always true in great emergencies.

The Recent Railway Horror.

BOSTON Oct. 10.—The lamentable accident on the Old Colony railroad to the excursion train returning from the boat race on Tuesday resulted in killing 19 others, and maiming and bruising 130 others. It was attributed to the engine derailing, but the cause was the loss of rail or a displaced switch, but the engineer denies this. Another statement is that the train collided with a freight car on a side track, is not credible, unless there was a misplaced switch. A large number of roughs were on the train, and they took advantage of the calamity by robbing the bodies of the dead. Dr. Morrison while examining the bodies in the baggage room found $1,700 in the pockets of Michael Cliffe, one of the victims. The friends of Cliffe required him to count the money in their presence, and while doing so he was robbed of his watch.
