A beautiful custom prevails in Lehigh, Berks, Lebanon, and Lancaster counties of offering up thanks in the churches for the harvest.

In every church from the largest to the smallest sermons are preached upon this subject, and the greatest skill is used by the ladies in ornamentation of the building, who, with sheaves of wheat, work out some beautiful designs.

William Logan is the name of a farmer living about seven miles beyond Allegheny City. On Wednesday morning a week two of his children, Rebecca, aged four years, and Thomas, aged two, wandered into the fields, where they both ate a lot of toad stools. They thought they were eating mushrooms. Both children were soon taken sick, and notwithstanding the efforts of the physician they died from the effects of the poison on the afternoon of the same day on which they ate it.

At Wilkesbarre, on the 11th inst., the six-year old daughter of Edward Ryan endeavored to cross the railroad bridge by crawling under a freight train. Her nurse Cassie Laffin, aged eighteen years started to bring her back, when the train started up and both girls were run over and killed.

Harry Strook, an eight-year-old boy with a big dog attachment, recently entered Samuel Keim's house at Harmonyville, Warwick township, Chester county, while the family were away fishing. He broke about two dozen eggs and fed them to his dog, ate all of the sugar he could find, and then broke into a couple of chairs, ate two pies and filled his pockets with the children's playthings. Then he marched to the spring house and broke the water pipe, and poured several quarts of milk away; then to the barn, where he destroyed all the hens' nests, broke the wheelbarrow and then looked himself in, seeing the Keims were coming home. Miss Keim broke open the barn door and found the festive small boy's jacket for him, then looked him up, and subsequently gave him another flogging. He is now a sadder, a wiser and a better boy.

Up in McKean county, where everybody keeps pistols and fists ready for use, it is said that a white man accidentally, while in summer garden, saw some froth from a glass of beer into a woman's hair. It was but a moment's work for her to draw from the mysterious folds of her bustle an old navy revolver, that carried a ball about the size of a plum. This she thrust under his nose and said: "You po' miserable white trash, jes' you blow dat off'n dat glass once more." He did not blow it.

A dispatch says: Quite a sensation was created at Allentown on the 21st, over the confession of Henry Gang were, who set fire to the heavy stable, carriage house and other buildings of Snyder & Sons on the night of August 30th, and for which he was committed to jail in default of bail. For several days past Gang were has been threatened to tell on certain parties who were with him in the job, and on the 19th inst. he carried his threat into execution. He implicates Emanuel Krauss, known by his "spia" as "Giam," who has already been behind the bars for arson. He says that he, with Krauss and several others, were out in the Jordan meadows, when they, for the want of something to do, concluded to break into a certain dwelling house, but subsequently gave up the idea for want of tools. The night before the fire Krauss proposed that they "set something on fire," and having an old grudge against the Snyders they set fire to their stable, Krauss and himself plied up the cushions, etc., while he himself applied the match. After the fire the confession of Snyder made oath against Krauss, who was shortly after arrested. At the hearing several witnesses were called, after which the accused was committed to jail in default of one thousand dollars.

GENERAL ITEMS.

John A. Rockefeller writes from Arizona to a friend in Syracuse, New York, an account of a very amusing adventure which he recently had with a cinnamon bear.

The letter is a very ugly customer to close with, but our friend was delivered in the most unexpected manner, as will be seen by the following: "Last night I was coming up from Santa Cruz valley, a burro (jacks), but on coming to a very steep hill dismounted and was slowly walking up, when I came on an immense cinnamon bear, less than twenty feet away. Of course, to run was out of the question, so I stood and eyed the old fellow and he stood and eyed me as I slowly pulled out a cinnamon with a rifle carrying less than seventy grains of powder, and then gave him a dead shot, as the cinnamon was worse than the grizzlies. I didn't have any rifle with me, and as my six-shooter only I concluded five grains of powder I concluded I was not looking for a fight unless the bear was. What his intentions were I don't know, but my burro (jacks), who was some distance ahead, just then, caught sight of him and, instead of running, he stood before him expect, started for Mr. Bruin with tail and ears erect, and to cap the climax commenced to bray. This was too much, and the old bear started as if he was shot out of a gun. He just tore up the ground, and when he couldn't run fast enough he rolled down the mountain side. Old Bruin has a good trick before you get up to a deer, and I have always pounded him, but last night I concluded I would give him a leather meal."
