To love me? echoed the fair young creature, as her pretty head just outside the door of our tent. About ten o'clock I fell asleep and shortly after was awakened by a pecutiar whirtness own and only—" "Hush!" she interpring noise. I found that Creft and Dickison were both asleep, and as the noise still continued I seized my gun and pulled aside the tent door-flap. The sight that met my eyes fairly paralyzed me. The fire which still burned brightly was surrounded by rattlesnakes in every conceivable position. I quickly aroused Croft and Dickison and, armed with our stout ash Alpine-stocks, we stepped outside and began to slaughter the reptiles. We had already killed six, and as I was striking at the seventh Salton, bathing off the shore near Cherbourg and with the water up to his chin: "What are these things I feel part of the hand, near the wrist. I part of the hand, near the wrist. I immediately threw down my stick and serious! An inventor is only trying ran into the tent. Then I took a razor and cut an incision in the flesh directly across the wound, applied my lips to the cut and sucked from it the blood and poison, I then bathed the wound with brandy and drank a large quantity of whisky. Croft and Dickison had in the meanwhile dispatched the remain. asked the auctioneer if he had "any der of the reptiles. In the morning we measured the snakes killed, and their aggregate length was sixty-one said the old lady; "and so he's really feet, three and a half inches. There gone at last! Ninety-eight, was he? were thirteen killed. During the following day I kept taking liquor in quite large doses and felt no inconvenience from the bite. But," said Mr. Hensch, baring his wrist and pointing to the wound, "we moved our tent further on,
