There is no telling how soon trouble with Mexico may arise, for a large emigration of armed men from Texas has set in to the rich mining region where the States of Sonora, Durango, Sinaloa and Chihuahua meet. Vote for Kelly, Caveny and Butler.

The Catholic church has a new sensation in the person of Miss Lucia Latorre, who is expected to arrive in the city on Friday. She is a young girl, who was born in Belgium. The Catholics call her a saint.

Several Chinese witnesses in a San Francisco court the other day were sworn according to the custom which prevails in the celestial kingdom, which consists in the beheading of a live rooster.

Judge Harding, of Luzerne county, has decided to return to the bench, and will forward his resignation to Governor Hoyt on the 20th of this month. He assigns no reason for this action other than that he is tired of office and wants rest.

There are exceptions to all rules, and it is true that here and there is a soldier who will vote the Democratic ticket, but in all time to come the greater part of them will vote as they fought—now in this county they will vote for the Republican ticket.

The National Democratic party split in 1860, on a fundamental principle, or on the primary management of the party. A large percentage of the party have desired to have the system that the Republicans use to nominate their candidates under, adopted in their party.

On the 29th ult., Henry Keller, of Keokuk, came to Marysville Ferry county for a load of store goods, and while at the station his horse became frightened at the cars, and was caught by the iron hook of side trace in the flank nearly disemboweling the animal. It was taken to Seidel's forge and put in the stocks, and the wounds sewed up and will no doubt be all right again.

In a fight in a five cent rum mill in Philadelphia last Wednesday, a man named Myle kicked another man named Creder so severely that he died within an hour. When arrested Myle seemed to take the matter very coolly, and on the way to the station-house he said to an officer, "I whipped him in good Scotch style." He was locked up to await the action of the coroner.

A young Englishman calling himself Martin, who had ingratiated himself to favor in Erie by race letters and representations that he was heir to an earldom has been discovered a fraud. Last Thursday morning at four o'clock Robert and Henry Botler, returned home intoxicated they lived a mile west of "radford", and got into a bitter altercation, which arose from a fight the former had with a man while in town. Henry was a lumberman, aged 29, and lived near Kane, Pennsylvania. Robert was an ex-driver for the Bradford oil company and was aged 23. Both were unmarried.

Letter from Tuscarora Township.
Tuscarora Township,
Oct. 9, 1879.
Dear Sir—There is an unbecoming feeling among the people of both parties in this part of the county. The Republicans are a unit in a hearty support of their whole ticket from Butler to the Jury Commissioner, but they are particularly earnest in support of Kelly and Caveny. Once the Catholic church had three Popes. One of the Popes that sat on the political throne of the Democracy lived in McCoyville. He passed the way of all the Popes that lived before him, and has been gathered to his fathers. The other living Pope, Dr. D. M. Crawford, yet lives in your town.

But aside from the Pope rule, many of the Democracy are earnestly considering the propriety of casting loose from the old mooring and making a change in the election of officers. They were so unceremoniously kicked out of the late Democratic nominating convention, where they went with earnest supplications for a change of system for nominating candidates—for a system like that used by the Republicans in this county. They see no means of redress but to vote down the men who dare to so mistreat a genuine reform movement. The right is mighty, and will prevail.

Again, there is a wide spread knowledge of the element that has knowledge of the secret recesses of the Recorder's office, where the papers are kept, is not of the right kind. It is not impudent that the officer now in charge of that department is dishonest, or that he would allow his men to steal records, or tear leaves out of books that contained records and title papers, for the safe-keeping of which the people, irrespective of party, built the Court House, and they believe that a most of men are about Millintown that are on such terms with the Democratic management that they may become entirely too familiar with the public records for the public good. The stealing of the ballots is an example of the dangerous familiarity. To get rid of the people who are dangerously familiar with the public records, many will vote for both Kelly and Caveny. The very fact that the mass of the Democratic party is so thoroughly honest as any other party, will prove the remedy in this case, and cause large numbers of them to vote the Republican ticket this fall.

Respectfully yours,
TUSCARORA.

Eighteen hundred and seventy-nine will long be remembered for the success of its country fairs in this State, and the encouragement is so great as to warrant the prediction that every county will have a fair in 1880.

Charles Drows, the oldest of the Raber murderers in Lebanon county, in his last confession, makes the following statement: "Brandt told me of having had Abraham Kreiser's life in saving him, I think, the U. B. Aid Society, and said he had a man to put him out of the way, but the Society annulled the policy." No matter what he said of other portions of Dr. Brandt's letter, more than four years ago Abraham Kreiser took membership in the U. B. Mutual Aid Society for $6,000 benefits in his own favor, and soon after assigned the certificates to Israel Brandt and others. A month or two after this was done the officers of the society received an intimation that there was some "crookedness" connected with the affair. Immediately Secretary Mark and Treasurer Ranch proceeded to Indianapolis Gap and made an investigation. They found that the whole transaction was merely speculative and without any insurable interest and they went to Brandt, told him they would cancel the membership, tendered him the money, he and Kreiser had paid in, which he had accepted, and by this prompt and decisive action no doubt saved the life of Kreiser, who still lives.

The Harrisburg Telegraph of the 30th ult. says: Intelligence was received in this city this morning of the sad death of Charles E. West, a son of the Rev. Wm. A. West, pastor of West Hill Presbyterian church—Young West was a freight brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad and was killed while in the discharge of his duty. He was on a freight train coming east last night, about thirteen cars from the rear end, and when down brakes" was whistled above W. arrior Ridge water station near Petersburg, he jumped upon the bumper to put on the brake.

As he did so he stepped on a small lump of coal, and when he twisted the brake the lump of coal rolled, his hand slipped and he fell between the cars, the wheels going over him, crushing both legs above the ankles and cutting off the fingers of the right hand. The accident happened about half past two o'clock, and young West was picked up and taken to Huntingdon, where he received sufficiently to take the manner of his death. All that surgical aid could do was tried to save him, but without avail and he passed quietly away at 8:10 o'clock. Deceased was about 21 years of age. The remains were laid out in this city this afternoon. Rev. West was absent at Dry Run, Franklin county, attending a meeting of the Presbytery, but he was telegraphed for immediately. The sad death of Mr. West will be doubly felt by a large circle of relatives and friends who loved and esteemed him for his many good qualities of head and heart.

The plague of wild beasts and snakes in India is extraordinary indeed. Snakes alone in 1877 killed 17,000 persons, and tigers, elephants, leopards, and other wild beasts, nearly 3,000 more. Efforts were made at the same time to destroy the animals, but without apparent reduction in the numbers. About 127,000 snakes, and 22,000 wild beasts were killed, and $50,000 were paid in rewards for their destruction.

He then got off the train thoroughly disgusted and went home by private conveyance.

It is not every bank watchman that runs away when danger presents itself, as may be learned from Winchendon, Mass. The despatch was dated on the 7th inst and reads: The First National and Savings Bank here was entered by burglars this morning. A man named Perry, who sleeps in a room opening out of the banking room, was awakened by hearing two men in the bank. They immediately rushed in and he fired at them. One of the robbers returned the fire, wounding Perry in the arm. The man grappled him, took his pistol from him, but Perry got away and rushing down stairs into the street gave the alarm. The burglars made good their escape.

A gentleman of Brooklyn, named Gardner, died recently from the effects of arsenical poison introduced into his system through a hollow tooth, the object of the introduction of the poison being the destruction of the nerve of the tooth. As the tooth was treated by two different dentists, one living in Boston and the other in Brooklyn, with in a few days it is not known which of the two placed the arsenic in it, but the physicians are positive that Mr. Gardner died from the effects of poison introduced in the manner described. The capping may have fallen from the filling of arsenic, and the latter coming in contact with the saliva, he came diffused through the system with fatal result.

A most heart rending scene occurred at the residence of Samuel M. Davis, living near Black Oak, in Caldwell county, Mo., resulting in the death of his only child aged three years. Mr. Davis had turned a large drove of hogs into his yard preparatory to driving them to Breckenridge to ship to market and his little child was out in the yard playing with his dog, when the dog suddenly crazed a pig, and the child running was caught by the crazed sow and disemboweled and lacerated in a frightful manner. The frantic mother with the screams of her child ran to his assistance, and driving the sow off, carried the mangled body of the little sufferer to the house. Death soon resulted and the sufferer from his agonizing pain.

A coon has the best of dog when the fight is in deep water, as a citizen of Portland, Oregon, has learned to his sorrow. A valuable dog belonging to him went out last week into a field and found the track of a coon, which he followed to the animal's hiding place. There he began to dig and bark, making the dirt fly in the air until the coon cunningly escaped and ran into a little pond near by, the dog following him. A hard fight then began. The coon seized the dog by his nose and pulled him under the water. Again and again the dog rose to the surface and again and again he was pulled below it, until at last he had had too much of the business, and sank for the last time from view. The coon went quietly ashore and disappeared in his hole unharmed.

An exchange from Ohio says: "Recently, at Logan, Ohio, an incident occurred which proves that the Buckeye boys vote as they fought. A movement was inaugurated to hold a soldiers' reunion in Cincinnati in conjunction with a Democratic rally, at which the flag of Indiana was to be the high point. A number of battle flags of regiments raised in the vicinity of Logan were obtained from the State Department to lead to the demonstration. Upon hearing this the old soldiers of that section rallied in sufficient force to control the meeting called to make arrangements which they adjourned to December, thus effectually blocking the little game of the Buckeye copperheads and that king of the reptiles, Vorhees. Not satisfied with this they sent a numerously signed paper to the Adjutant General protesting against the decoration of the flag, and against the violation of the law, which provides that the flag shall not be taken out of the State House for political demonstrations. All honor to the Buckeye veterans."

A despatch relating to the missing balloonist Wise and Barr, came from Chicago on the 7th inst., and reads thus: Another clue to the missing balloonists Wise and Barr, came to light in Chicago to day. On the night of Sunday September 28th, a balloon was seen by several persons to pass over West Ferry station, about 25 miles from the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad. Two of the parties who saw the balloon are Louis Faber, an engineer on the above named road, and John Balla, his fireman. When questioned about the matter to day, the engineer said: "Sunday night, one week ago, I was running in the city. We reached Miller's Station about 11:30 o'clock, and stopped. I was standing on the platform talking to Henry Wilson, the telegraph operator at the depot, when he suddenly exclaimed, 'There goes a balloon.' I looked up, and there, sure enough was one just going over the tank house. It was a very bright night, with a good moon, and we could see the balloon plainly. It was less than a mile ahead of us, and driving along very fast in an northeasterly direction, right toward the lake, which is only about half a mile from the station. We watched it for five minutes before it was out of sight, when I saw it. The fireman, John Balla, was found, and verified the statement of Engineer Faber. Mr. W. E. Trowe, an operator at the Forty-third street station, was informed of what the men had seen the same night. That they saw the balloon there can be little doubt, as it bears out the statements of others, and the place was in the line the balloon was supposed to have been following. This would carry it directly over the lake.
