The Virginia City Chronicle relates the following: Yesterday afternoon John Mecker was tried before Justice Kent on the charges of disturbing the peace and assault and battery. The row grew out of a disturbance which took place at a social party at Mr. Adams' house on South F street. It appeared that the defendant, Mecker, had been invited to a little party at Adams' house on Thursday evening. He attended the party, taking his girl. Adams, the complaining witness, testified that while the frolic was in progress the defendant charged him with improper conduct toward the young lady he brought there, and finally assaulted him, striking him once in the eye (eye exhibited to the jury). Attorney for the defense—Mr. Adams, did you not deport yourself in an unseemly way toward the young lady? Witness—Not altogether. Attorney—Why, didn't you hug her? Witness—Yes, by mistake. (The jury look at one another in astonishment). Attorney—Please explain. Witness—I was sitting on the sofa alongside my wife, when suddenly a gust of wind blew out the light. After the light was extinguished I heard a noise as if people were getting kissed (sensation), so I thought I'd stand in. I grabbed the lady next to me, thinking it was my wife, and when the lamp was relighted I found it was Miss Clark that I had hold of. [The laughter in the room was checked by Constable Metcalf.] Attorney—Did you kiss her? Witness (after some hesitation)—I don't think I did. Attorney—Why are you not sure? Witness—There was so much confusion in the —— Attorney—Now, don't you know you did? Witness—I won't swear positively whether I did or not Attorney—If you had been sure it was your wife would you have kissed her? Here the witness looked around uneasily for a few seconds and not seeing his wife in the court room answered with a quick "No." This caused another laugh and the witness left the stand. He was more than astonished a moment after when his wife was called. She swept down the back room and took the stand, with her black eyes snapping like a terrier's. At the sight of her Adams presented a pitiable appearance and tried to make himself as small as possible behind Constable Metcalf. No man in the court room would have changed places with him for a thousand dollars. Mrs. Adams had been subpœnaed for the prosecution, but her husband labored under the mistaken belief that she would be excused. The District Attorney must have known that it was necessary to put her on the stand, but probably could not resist the temptation. She was more than anxious to testify. "We were having a little social party at our house last Tuesday evening. I was sitting beside my husband on the sofa, when he asked me to go across the room and introduce a couple of people that weren't acquainted. I rose, and just then the light went out. Soon after Miss Clark, the girl that was with Mecker, slid over toward my husband—that mean sneaking down below the Constable. Then I heard 'em kissing. I told Mecker that it was a nasty job, and he knocked my husband down. I thought he did just right." Miss Lucy Clark, who lives on Nora Stewart street, testified that she was sitting near Mr. Adams when the light went out. Everybody was rushing to kiss the girls and she thought he would get up near Mr. Adams for protection, he being a married man. [Here merriment, in which the court unwillingly joined.] District Attorney—Did he kiss you? Miss Clark (sobbing)—He thought I was his wife. In Court—Did you kiss him back, taking him to be your husband? At this sally of the court the spectators laughed uproariously and it required several minutes to restore order. Miss Clark declined to answer and the court ruled that she need not criminate herself. A young lad named Armstrong, a nephew of Adams, swore that he had promised him a dollar to blow out the light when he gave the signal. Adams scratched the top of his head as the signal. He gave the signal just as he scratched him. The jury found a verdict of not guilty. When Adams had possession to scratch his head it is probable that he will find less hair there than when he scratched it the last time.

Advices from Washington on the 12th inst., state that of the $708,000,000 in United States bonds called for redemption there is still outstanding nearly $21,000,000. Of the amount thus outstanding the Treasury holds about $7,000,000 in non-interest, which are the deposits of national banks to secure their circulation. Interest ceased on this class of bonds on June 21st. The banks using the called bond now held by the Treasury have declined to replaced them with 4 per cent. bond, because of the high premium which they command. The increase in the daily receipts of the Government will result in a large surplus revenue for the current month, and it is probable that Secretary Sherman will invite further proposals for the purchase of 6 per cent. bonds early in December. For the 10 business days of the current month the receipts from Customs and internal revenue have averaged over $1,000,000 daily. The receipts from Customs for the nine days of November have averaged about $625,000.

From the Rockport, Ind., Banner: There is no medicine in the world which has gained such fame as St. Jacobs Oil. This is, however, not in the least astonishing, when we consider its truly wonderful curative powers. Mr. F. Rodenburg, of Grandview, called at our office last week and related the following circumstances: I suffered with Rheumatism for over six years; consulted many physicians and tried hundreds of remedies, but without avail. Having seen St. Jacobs Oil advertised in your paper, and heard of some most astonishing cures, I went to Rockport for a bottle of the Oil, and used it according to directions. The first bottle was almost "electric." I got better at once, and now there is not a trace of Rheumatism left in my body.

Many sat up till midnight to see the flying stars, or meteors, last Friday morning, but they were disappointed. However, on Friday evening there was a shower of rain, which, as far as human knowledge goes, will do more good than a shower of stars; but no one knows to what degree shooting stars influence the affairs of earth.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER has for many years occupied an honorable place in the toilet of American women, and has also attained popularity in foreign countries. This is because it does PERFORM what it promises. Its warmest friends are those who have used it longest, and those who sound its praise the loudest are those who from actual experience and personal trial have demonstrated that by its use gray hair is restored to its natural color and dry, harsh, and wiry hair is made soft and lustrous, a thing of beauty, and a matter of joy and pride to the wearer.—Sub-Soiler and Democrat, Corinth, Miss.

A sickening accident happened at the lithographic works in Restein Hall, Seventh and Dickerson streets Philadelphia, about 10 o'clock on Friday morning. While Jennie Hall, 15 years old, residing at 1739 South Thirteenth street, was stooping over a piece of machinery, her long dangling hair caught in a belt and, in a second, she was completely scalped. The sufferer with the blood streaming over her face, screamed in an agonizing voice that could be heard a block away. The wounded girl, who was wild with pain was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital. Some of her associates became hysterical over the horrible sight.

An investigation was made subsequently, when the cause of the accident was ascertained. It appears that the girl had been impudently amusing herself by permitting a lock of her hair to wrap itself around the small vertical shaft. She repeated this twice, but at the third essay the lock became too tightly wrapped around the improvised curling iron to be extricated and was torn from the head, most of the scalp going with it and considerable of the skin from the forehead close to the brows. Last evening, at the Pennsylvania hospital, the girl's condition was reported as favorable, although erysipelas may ensue.

W. R. BIERLY,
WILLIAMSPORT, PA.

The Williamsport Daily Banner says of the above valuable work: "We learn that W. R. Bierly, Esq., of this city, has obtained a copyright for a work entitled "The Rights and Duties of County and Township Officers," which is a revised edition of his former work on the Rights and Duties of Township Officers, the first edition of which is now exhausted.

There seems to be a demand all over the State for a complete work of this kind, as has been proved by the rapid sale of Mr. Bierly's first compilation. The new edition will contain a comprehensive statement of the laws and decisions bearing on the various officers embraced in the title, with a review of the tax laws as they exist under the new constitution, and there will be appended the common forms necessary in the discharge of these officers' duties.

The labor of compiling such a work will be immense, but as Mr. Bierly is a worker of patient research and untiring perseverance, the production will be at once thorough and reliable, and valuable to attorneys as well as officers and citizens.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.
