

B. F. SCHWEIER,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

COLORED emigrants from the South are pouring into Indiana.

The young Indians at Carlisle are to have a Christmas holiday.

The Postmaster General is vigorously prosecuting the lotteries.

The Republican National Convention will hold in Chicago, Illinois, June 3, 1880.

Senator J. D. Cameron is considered as one of the dark horses in view of the Presidency.

Good Senator J. D. Cameron has been chosen Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Mrs. Strayer has authorized her attorney to draw up papers for a divorce from her husband, Ex-Governor Sprague.

The English Government is about to recall the order requiring cattle, hogs and sheep from the U. S. A. to be quarantined.

Or the two, the worker in fraud such as Maine has produced, or the manly Rebel, the latter is the much more preferable.

Last Wednesday, Major Jacob Beetz and wife, of Carlisle, Pa., celebrated the 50th anniversary of their married life—their golden wedding.

What's up between Spain and France? The Spanish premier has forbidden the military and civic officials to take part in a serenade to the French envoy.

Another body was cremated in the Le-Moyne furnace at Washington, Pa., last week, and there are fifty other people who want to have their bodies burned in it, when they die.

An exchange says, "Bob Ingersoll arrived in Altoona two hours too late to lecture on Monday night, and some of the citizens regard it as a special interposition of Providence."

"The Potomac Miners' Journal" brings Col. J. A. Passmore to the front as a Republican candidate for Auditor General in 1880. "The Colonel" is popular, and is nominated with a strong candidacy.

An exchange says: It turns out that the body, which was cremated at Washington, Pa., on Tuesday a week was that of a member of the Presbyterian church of Rev. George Payson, at Inwood, N. Y. The deceased expressed a great desire that his body should be cremated, and his request was complied with.

The following item is from an Erie newspaper: Twenty-five years ago Mr. Daniel J. McDaniel, of Erie, purchased a lot of ground from Mrs. John H. Miller, of that place. Mrs. Miller's husband had deserted her and been absent at the time twelve years. The heirs of the estate brought suit for the property and recovered it, the Court deciding that the woman could not dispose of the property without the consent of her husband, although the property was left the woman by her father.

In past days chemists labored to produce a combination that would result in the formation of diamond, but every effort proved of no avail. The lifetime of "many a man" was given up to the work of making diamonds. At last, when the learned world had grown skeptical as to the ability of science to ever produce the proper amount of up poplar London chemist and announced that "after many years of experiment, he has obtained crystallized forms of carbon, which Professor Tyndall and others do not doubt are diamonds."

The English Mission is such an expensive one that no citizen outside of the circle of rich people can take it. Republicanism is not Royalty, and Royalty is not Republicanism, and the real difference between them should give Americans backbone enough to run an American Legation in England, or any where else on the plain of Republican plainness. If all our representative men, when they go across the waters, must lose their Republican plainness, is it not an indirect confession that they prefer the ways of Royalty to the ways of Republicanism?

"A Philadelphia dispatch of last Thursday night says: General Grant was asked personally this afternoon whether he had, as was announced in some of the morning journals, accepted the presidency of the Nicaragua Canal scheme, tendered him by Admiral Ammen yesterday. "I hardly know enough about the scheme to say much about it," remarked General Grant. "But," urged his questioner, a newspaper man, "you can say whether or not you have accepted the presidency of the company." "Yes," replied the General, "I can satisfy you on that point. I certainly have not accepted the presidency of it." Remarks made by Admiral Ammen to personal friends are contrasted into a belief on his part that General Grant will accept the presidency of the canal company."

"Gambetta, the French statesman, is a bachelor. He was recently engaged to a seven-million heiress of western France. He has lived all most all his life with one of his aunts, who kept house for him, and made every place home for the President of the French Congress. His affianced took it into her head to make it a condition of their union that the aunt should be excluded from their new establishment. She was scarcely elegant enough to adorn gilded saloons. Gambetta explained how much his aunt had to him; but the rich beauty was only the more obdurate. Gambetta took up his hat, and with a profound bow, "adieu," said he, "we were not made to understand each other."

Pittsburg boasts that the Grant reception cost the city only $1100. It was a pretty good reception for the money.

The fusionists, Democrats and Greenbackers, in Maine have perpetrated the worst that it was said would be perpetrated. At the late election the Republican candidate had a large majority, but under the peculiarity of the Constitution and laws of Maine a majority of the votes polled on election day are not sufficient to make a man Governor—he must have the consent of the Legislature; he must have the majority vote of the Legislature. The Republicans at the late election (the same election that gave their candidate for Governor a majority vote) also elected a majority of Republican Senators and Representatives. The Democrats and Greenbackers, controlling the Governor and Council, have thrown, or counted out enough Republican Senators and Representatives to give the fusionists a majority in the Senate and House, which will result in placing a fusionist in the Governor's chair, which by right should be occupied by the Republican. The way it was done was mentioned thus by dispatch: "One town with a large Republican majority was thrown out because two notices of election were posted instead of three, as required by law. This changes the vote of a whole county, bringing in three Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. The notice of election in Auburn was posted six days only, when the law requires seven. The vote of Auburn elected two Republican Senators in Androscoggin county, and throwing it out elects two Democrats. In Cherryfield the vote was thrown out because one of the selectmen was said to be an alien. This little technicality resulted in two Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. Here are seven Democratic Senators counted in, whose defeat is acknowledged, changing the complexion of the Senate from seven Republican to seven Democratic majority. The Senate elects the Governor from the candidates sent in by the House."

The English Government is about to recall the order requiring cattle, hogs and sheep from the U. S. A. to be quarantined.

Or the two, the worker in fraud such as Maine has produced, or the manly Rebel, the latter is the much more preferable.

Last Wednesday, Major Jacob Beetz and wife, of Carlisle, Pa., celebrated the 50th anniversary of their married life—their golden wedding.

What's up between Spain and France? The Spanish premier has forbidden the military and civic officials to take part in a serenade to the French envoy.

Another body was cremated in the Le-Moyne furnace at Washington, Pa., last week, and there are fifty other people who want to have their bodies burned in it, when they die.

An exchange says, "Bob Ingersoll arrived in Altoona two hours too late to lecture on Monday night, and some of the citizens regard it as a special interposition of Providence."

"The Potomac Miners' Journal" brings Col. J. A. Passmore to the front as a Republican candidate for Auditor General in 1880. "The Colonel" is popular, and is nominated with a strong candidacy.

An exchange says: It turns out that the body, which was cremated at Washington, Pa., on Tuesday a week was that of a member of the Presbyterian church of Rev. George Payson, at Inwood, N. Y. The deceased expressed a great desire that his body should be cremated, and his request was complied with.

The following item is from an Erie newspaper: Twenty-five years ago Mr. Daniel J. McDaniel, of Erie, purchased a lot of ground from Mrs. John H. Miller, of that place. Mrs. Miller's husband had deserted her and been absent at the time twelve years. The heirs of the estate brought suit for the property and recovered it, the Court deciding that the woman could not dispose of the property without the consent of her husband, although the property was left the woman by her father.

In past days chemists labored to produce a combination that would result in the formation of diamond, but every effort proved of no avail. The lifetime of "many a man" was given up to the work of making diamonds. At last, when the learned world had grown skeptical as to the ability of science to ever produce the proper amount of up poplar London chemist and announced that "after many years of experiment, he has obtained crystallized forms of carbon, which Professor Tyndall and others do not doubt are diamonds."

The English Mission is such an expensive one that no citizen outside of the circle of rich people can take it. Republicanism is not Royalty, and Royalty is not Republicanism, and the real difference between them should give Americans backbone enough to run an American Legation in England, or any where else on the plain of Republican plainness. If all our representative men, when they go across the waters, must lose their Republican plainness, is it not an indirect confession that they prefer the ways of Royalty to the ways of Republicanism?

"A Philadelphia dispatch of last Thursday night says: General Grant was asked personally this afternoon whether he had, as was announced in some of the morning journals, accepted the presidency of the Nicaragua Canal scheme, tendered him by Admiral Ammen yesterday. "I hardly know enough about the scheme to say much about it," remarked General Grant. "But," urged his questioner, a newspaper man, "you can say whether or not you have accepted the presidency of the company." "Yes," replied the General, "I can satisfy you on that point. I certainly have not accepted the presidency of it." Remarks made by Admiral Ammen to personal friends are contrasted into a belief on his part that General Grant will accept the presidency of the canal company."

"Gambetta, the French statesman, is a bachelor. He was recently engaged to a seven-million heiress of western France. He has lived all most all his life with one of his aunts, who kept house for him, and made every place home for the President of the French Congress. His affianced took it into her head to make it a condition of their union that the aunt should be excluded from their new establishment. She was scarcely elegant enough to adorn gilded saloons. Gambetta explained how much his aunt had to him; but the rich beauty was only the more obdurate. Gambetta took up his hat, and with a profound bow, "adieu," said he, "we were not made to understand each other."

Pittsburg boasts that the Grant reception cost the city only $1100. It was a pretty good reception for the money.

The fusionists, Democrats and Greenbackers, in Maine have perpetrated the worst that it was said would be perpetrated. At the late election the Republican candidate had a large majority, but under the peculiarity of the Constitution and laws of Maine a majority of the votes polled on election day are not sufficient to make a man Governor—he must have the consent of the Legislature; he must have the majority vote of the Legislature. The Republicans at the late election (the same election that gave their candidate for Governor a majority vote) also elected a majority of Republican Senators and Representatives. The Democrats and Greenbackers, controlling the Governor and Council, have thrown, or counted out enough Republican Senators and Representatives to give the fusionists a majority in the Senate and House, which will result in placing a fusionist in the Governor's chair, which by right should be occupied by the Republican. The way it was done was mentioned thus by dispatch: "One town with a large Republican majority was thrown out because two notices of election were posted instead of three, as required by law. This changes the vote of a whole county, bringing in three Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. The notice of election in Auburn was posted six days only, when the law requires seven. The vote of Auburn elected two Republican Senators in Androscoggin county, and throwing it out elects two Democrats. In Cherryfield the vote was thrown out because one of the selectmen was said to be an alien. This little technicality resulted in two Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. Here are seven Democratic Senators counted in, whose defeat is acknowledged, changing the complexion of the Senate from seven Republican to seven Democratic majority. The Senate elects the Governor from the candidates sent in by the House."

The English Government is about to recall the order requiring cattle, hogs and sheep from the U. S. A. to be quarantined.

Or the two, the worker in fraud such as Maine has produced, or the manly Rebel, the latter is the much more preferable.

Last Wednesday, Major Jacob Beetz and wife, of Carlisle, Pa., celebrated the 50th anniversary of their married life—their golden wedding.

What's up between Spain and France? The Spanish premier has forbidden the military and civic officials to take part in a serenade to the French envoy.

Another body was cremated in the Le-Moyne furnace at Washington, Pa., last week, and there are fifty other people who want to have their bodies burned in it, when they die.

An exchange says, "Bob Ingersoll arrived in Altoona two hours too late to lecture on Monday night, and some of the citizens regard it as a special interposition of Providence."

"The Potomac Miners' Journal" brings Col. J. A. Passmore to the front as a Republican candidate for Auditor General in 1880. "The Colonel" is popular, and is nominated with a strong candidacy.

An exchange says: It turns out that the body, which was cremated at Washington, Pa., on Tuesday a week was that of a member of the Presbyterian church of Rev. George Payson, at Inwood, N. Y. The deceased expressed a great desire that his body should be cremated, and his request was complied with.

The following item is from an Erie newspaper: Twenty-five years ago Mr. Daniel J. McDaniel, of Erie, purchased a lot of ground from Mrs. John H. Miller, of that place. Mrs. Miller's husband had deserted her and been absent at the time twelve years. The heirs of the estate brought suit for the property and recovered it, the Court deciding that the woman could not dispose of the property without the consent of her husband, although the property was left the woman by her father.

In past days chemists labored to produce a combination that would result in the formation of diamond, but every effort proved of no avail. The lifetime of "many a man" was given up to the work of making diamonds. At last, when the learned world had grown skeptical as to the ability of science to ever produce the proper amount of up poplar London chemist and announced that "after many years of experiment, he has obtained crystallized forms of carbon, which Professor Tyndall and others do not doubt are diamonds."

The English Mission is such an expensive one that no citizen outside of the circle of rich people can take it. Republicanism is not Royalty, and Royalty is not Republicanism, and the real difference between them should give Americans backbone enough to run an American Legation in England, or any where else on the plain of Republican plainness. If all our representative men, when they go across the waters, must lose their Republican plainness, is it not an indirect confession that they prefer the ways of Royalty to the ways of Republicanism?

"A Philadelphia dispatch of last Thursday night says: General Grant was asked personally this afternoon whether he had, as was announced in some of the morning journals, accepted the presidency of the Nicaragua Canal scheme, tendered him by Admiral Ammen yesterday. "I hardly know enough about the scheme to say much about it," remarked General Grant. "But," urged his questioner, a newspaper man, "you can say whether or not you have accepted the presidency of the company." "Yes," replied the General, "I can satisfy you on that point. I certainly have not accepted the presidency of it." Remarks made by Admiral Ammen to personal friends are contrasted into a belief on his part that General Grant will accept the presidency of the canal company."

"Gambetta, the French statesman, is a bachelor. He was recently engaged to a seven-million heiress of western France. He has lived all most all his life with one of his aunts, who kept house for him, and made every place home for the President of the French Congress. His affianced took it into her head to make it a condition of their union that the aunt should be excluded from their new establishment. She was scarcely elegant enough to adorn gilded saloons. Gambetta explained how much his aunt had to him; but the rich beauty was only the more obdurate. Gambetta took up his hat, and with a profound bow, "adieu," said he, "we were not made to understand each other."

Pittsburg boasts that the Grant reception cost the city only $1100. It was a pretty good reception for the money.

The fusionists, Democrats and Greenbackers, in Maine have perpetrated the worst that it was said would be perpetrated. At the late election the Republican candidate had a large majority, but under the peculiarity of the Constitution and laws of Maine a majority of the votes polled on election day are not sufficient to make a man Governor—he must have the consent of the Legislature; he must have the majority vote of the Legislature. The Republicans at the late election (the same election that gave their candidate for Governor a majority vote) also elected a majority of Republican Senators and Representatives. The Democrats and Greenbackers, controlling the Governor and Council, have thrown, or counted out enough Republican Senators and Representatives to give the fusionists a majority in the Senate and House, which will result in placing a fusionist in the Governor's chair, which by right should be occupied by the Republican. The way it was done was mentioned thus by dispatch: "One town with a large Republican majority was thrown out because two notices of election were posted instead of three, as required by law. This changes the vote of a whole county, bringing in three Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. The notice of election in Auburn was posted six days only, when the law requires seven. The vote of Auburn elected two Republican Senators in Androscoggin county, and throwing it out elects two Democrats. In Cherryfield the vote was thrown out because one of the selectmen was said to be an alien. This little technicality resulted in two Democratic instead of two Republican Senators. Here are seven Democratic Senators counted in, whose defeat is acknowledged, changing the complexion of the Senate from seven Republican to seven Democratic majority. The Senate elects the Governor from the candidates sent in by the House."

The English Government is about to recall the order requiring cattle, hogs and sheep from the U. S. A. to be quarantined.

Or the two, the worker in fraud such as Maine has produced, or the manly Rebel, the latter is the much more preferable.

Last Wednesday, Major Jacob Beetz and wife, of Carlisle, Pa., celebrated the 50th anniversary of their married life—their golden wedding.

What's up between Spain and France? The Spanish premier has forbidden the military and civic officials to take part in a serenade to the French envoy.

Another body was cremated in the Le-Moyne furnace at Washington, Pa., last week, and there are fifty other people who want to have their bodies burned in it, when they die.

An exchange says, "Bob Ingersoll arrived in Altoona two hours too late to lecture on Monday night, and some of the citizens regard it as a special interposition of Providence."

OH! DREADFUL TRAGEDY.

LOVE, HATE, DEATH.

A JUNIATA COUNTY MAN SHOT DEAD BY A RELATIVE OF THE GIRL HE CLAIMED TO LOVE.

What the Kendall County, Illinois, Record Says About the Shooting of Longacre.

A family named Longacre lives near Thompsonstown, this county. Some months ago a son of the family, James Longacre, aged 24 years, went West. Several days ago his people in Juniata county were startled by telegraphic communication from Yorkville, Kendall county, Illinois, stating that James Longacre had been shot dead at the house of a man named Bennett, and asked for direction as to what disposition should be made of the body of the young man. By request the body was sent home to Thompsonstown, this county, where it was interred on Tuesday of last week, in the Lutheran graveyard.

Information is too meagre to state all of the circumstances that led to the shooting of Longacre.

It is said that a Miss Bennett and Longacre had formed an ardent attachment for each other, and that opposition on the part of the relatives of the young lady led to the altercation that resulted in the shooting of James Longacre.

Last Saturday the editor of the Sentinel and Republican received the following postal card, which explains itself:

YORKVILLE, Ill., Dec. 18, 1879.
Editor Sentinel and Republican—Please examine the Kendall county Record sent by me, giving an account of the James Longacre murder, and then state through your columns if the portion in reference to Longacre bears bad character at home, is so or not. Please send me a copy, and oblige.

The following is the account of the "James Longacre murder" referred to in the above postal card by John W. Wood, and it is word for word as taken from the Kendall county, Illinois, Record of the 18th inst.:

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE LITTLE ROCK HOMICIDE.

The body of James Longacre was sent to Thompsonstown, Juniata Co., Penna., starting on the 6.51 p. m. train Thursday evening the 11th inst., in accordance with instructions from his father who resides at the above-named place, who telegraphed to Coroner Bennett to send the body home to be buried in the family grave; otherwise bury him at Plano.

Two young men who reside in this township, and are at work among the farmers, and are consorts to Longacre, came down to Plano Thursday morning to see the corpse. Their names are Coffman, but they say they knew but little of their deceased relative when they lived in Pennsylvania. Longacre proved by all accounts to be rather a desperate character, and if one-half of the reports are true, this is not by any means the first scrape he has been in. He threatened the life of Miss Bennett, and others of the family. He also threatened the people at Little Rock when he had the woman trouble at that place, and was quite apt to confide his secrets and his plans to his acquaintances, and to try to intimidate any one who would interfere. When the Coroner got his trunk containing clothing and other effects, from Yorkville, in which he found the old Colt's revolver which he took, belonging to Corbin Bennett. He had, as reported, hid a musket, belonging to Bennett, which facts bear evidence that it was his intention to disarm Bennett. But before going to see Miss Bennett, on the fatal afternoon, John Willis, who is a farmer in the hands of Bennett, lives but a short distance from Bennett, had persuaded Longacre to leave his revolver with him (Willis) which he did do, and the time he was shot he had no revolver about his person, a fact that may not have been known to Bennett when he shot him. The following is the evidence of Miss Rilla Bennett, who Longacre sought to abduct:

Rilla Bennett, being duly sworn, stated that she resided in Little Rock township, and lives with her mother. I am 16 years of age. I have been engaged to marry James Longacre, and when I found out what kind of a man he was I broke the engagement and told him that I would have nothing to do with him. This occurred about a month ago. He then threatened my life and said he would kill me if I did not marry him. I told my mother this last Thursday. I heard five pistol shots between 8 and 9 o'clock Saturday evening, December 6th, outside of the gate southeast of the house. To-day, December 9th, I heard the door open into the kitchen and directly Mr. Longacre came into the sitting room where I and my mother and my sister Martha were sitting. He came up to me and asked me if I sent that ring back, and I said I did. He then took hold of my arm with one hand and put the other around me. My mother and sister then grabbed hold of him and tried to pull me away and pushed him towards the door. Mother opened the door and called to Corbin Bennett, and sister pushed James Longacre out of the door. I then heard three shots fired in quick succession, and then Corbin came in and shut the door.

THE OTHER SIDE.

The Aurora Herald of last Friday published our account of the homicide and then followed it with a story given by the deceased with an Aurora lawyer previous to the shooting. We publish the Herald's account but know nothing of its truth. Here it is:

"The above is from sources friendly to the man who took the life of Longacre. It is only fair that the dead man's account of the feelings of the Bennett family towards him should be given. Longacre came to this city last Saturday to consult a lawyer in reference to his relations with the young Miss Bennett. He told the lawyer whom he visited that those relations had proceeded so far that both he and the girl wanted to get married; that they desired to be united in marriage before her condition should be generally known; but her folks were bitterly opposed to him, and kept such strict watch over the girl that he had no opportunity to consult with her. He was told that, as the girl was under age, they could not effect the blow on Sunday night."

GRANT'S RELATIONS.

A VISIT TO HIS MOTHER'S HOME—STREET.

And a Talk About the General's Traveling Inco. Through the Country.

Under the above head the Philadelphia Record last Thursday published the following article: Grant like other men, has his relations. In Bucks county about the McKinstry, and the Weirs and the Houghs, whose connection is traced through the General's venerable mother, who was born and resided in Montgomery county near the Bucks county line.

It is now sixty-one years since his mother, then nineteen years of age, departed in company with her father from the old homestead, about six miles from Doylestown. Mrs. Grant is the daughter of James and Sallie Simpson, an old family who occupied the little stone house in question for years before the Revolution. After the removal of the Simpsons the farm and property passed into other hands, and is today owned by John Daidy. With the exception of a few frame buildings which have been erected lately on the farm, the premises are the same to day as they were a hundred years ago.

For the past few years the house has been vacant, and now presents a lone-some appearance. It stands some yards back from the road, and is built of rough stone stacked together with plain white mortar in layers almost as thick as the stone itself. The house is in three sections, the main building being a square two story structure containing four rooms. Adjoining this on the south is a lower building which is again supported by a wall lower than the main building, and which was used as a kitchen and baking oven. The doors leading from the kitchen to the dwelling part of the house still contain the little latch strings of the ancient style of fastening doors. South of this house is a corn crib that was used by the Simpsons. Further on are the ruins of the old stone barn, which was the highest in the county.

Situated east of the dwelling is the old spring house. This is a large, one story stone building covering a large spring. The roof of this house is decayed from time, and adds not a little to picturesque diapiation.

The old farmers of the neighborhood recollect Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

Within sight of the Simpson farm recollects Mrs. Grant distinctly, and pointed out to the reporter the old school near by in which she received the rudiments of education.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE NEW DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE.

SCIENTIFIC IN PRINCIPLE. Largest Space for Passing the Goods. SO BEAUTIFUL IN DESIGN. Perfect in Construction.

Self-Threading Shuttle. Self-Setting Needle. Lightest Running and Noiseless. Largest Bobbin in Use. Winds the Bobbin without running the Machine or removing the work.

The NEW DOMESTIC takes no tantrums. No long talk or argument required, every machine telling its own story.

The NEW DOMESTIC has no enemies, except those who sell, or are interested in selling other makes of machines.

NO COGS TO BREAK. NO CAMS TO GRIND.

SIMPLEST, MOST DURABLE, MOST PERFECT SEWING MACHINE IN THE WORLD.

IT SEWS ANYTHING. IT PLEASES EVERYBODY.

Call on or address W. H. AIKENS, Third Street, Mifflintown, Juniata Co., Pa.

Also Agent for the ESTEY and other makes of Organs. Sold on easy monthly payments.

D. W. HARLEY'S

Best place where you can buy THE BEST AND THE CHEAPEST MENS' YOUTHS' & BOYS' CLOTHING. HATS, CAPS, BOOTS, SHOES, AND FURNISHING GOODS.

HE is prepared to exhibit one of the most choice and select stocks ever offered in this market, and at ASTONISHINGLY LOW PRICES.

Also, measures taken for suits and parts of suits, which will be made to order at short notice, very reasonable.

Remember the place, in Hoffman's New Building, corner of Bridge and Water streets, MIFFLINTOWN, PA. (Jan. 1, 1879-80)

SAM'L STRAYER

Has just returned from the Eastern cities with a full variety of MEN & BOYS' CLOTHING, HATS & CAPS, BOOTS & SHOES, ALL SIZES, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS.—Goods of all kinds are low.—Come and see me and be astonished.—Falls at 75 cents. SUITS MADE TO ORDER. Patterson, Pa., April 16, 1879. SAMUEL STRAYER.

Legal Notices.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE. In the Orphan's Court of Juniata County. In the Estate of Philip Zandt, dec'd.

THIRTEEN undersigned appointed Auditor by the Orphan's Court of Juniata County to audit, examine and adjust the account of Jacob Zandt, Executor of Philip Zandt, dec'd, and also to make distribution of the fund in the hands of said Philip Zandt, and among those entitled thereto, under the provisions of the will of said Philip Zandt, and the laws of this Commonwealth, hereby gives notice that he will attend to the duties of his appointment, at his office in the borough of Mifflintown, on TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10th, 1880, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., when and where all parties interested will present their claims, or be forever debarred from coming in upon said fund.

ALFRED J. PATTERSON, Auditor. Dec. 23, 1879.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE. In the Orphan's Court of Juniata County. In the Estate of George Wise, dec'd.

THIRTEEN undersigned, appointed Auditor to distribute the funds in the hands of Ezra D. Parker, Administrator of George Wise, dec'd, will attend to the duties of his appointment at his office in the borough of Mifflintown on FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1880, at 10 o'clock a. m., when all parties interested may attend, or be forever debarred from coming in upon said fund.

MASON IRWIN, Auditor. Dec. 18, 1879.

ASSIGNEE'S NOTICE. Assigned Estate of Jacob and Elizabeth Yoder.

NOTICE is hereby given that Jacob Yoder and his wife, Elizabeth Yoder, on the 19th day of December, 1879, made a general assignment for the benefit of their creditors, to the undersigned. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make payment, and those having claims to present them without delay to the undersigned.

H. H. BRUBAKER, Assignee of Jacob Brubaker and Wife. Dec. 19, 1879.

Notice of Election. THE annual election for officers and managers of the Juni