FARM AND GARDEN.

CLEANING COAT COLLARS, ETC.—(1.) The best material for cleaning coat collars and grease spots of all kinds is pure turpentine.

Use of Salt.—In many cases of disordered stomach, a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a glass of water, and taken after meals, will do good.

HEALTHFULNESS OF MILK.—If any one wishes to grow fleshy, a pint of milk taken before retiring at night will do more good than any other food.

PREVENTING FALLING OFF.—No animal should be permitted to fall off in condition. It is difficult to restore an animal when all the food and vitality are required to resist the cold and hard frosts.

POULTRY ITEMS.—Pumpkins boiled and mixed with corn makes good chicken food. A large number of fowls are kept in a two-story fowl house.

THE COW.—In the care and management of the dairy cow the milking should be done with exact regularity. The cow should be milked at the same time and in the same order from day to day if possible.

TOUGHENED GLASS A SUCCESS IN FRANCE.—M. de Luyne has recently communicated to the French Society of Encouragement the results of his experiments.

THE ECONOMIC USE OF COAL.—In mild weather much coal may be saved in large stoves, or furnaces, or grates by covering a part of the grate with brick, or flat stones, or hay, or even, by covering part of the grate with fine ashes.

AN INSECT DESTROYER.—An experienced gardener gives the following recipe for destroying insects on plants: Take a barrel half filled with coal tar and fill it with water, and let it stand awhile.

Correct Your Faults. Of disease with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which removes bile, heartburn, indigestion, and all the ailments of the stomach.

The Paris Cattle Show.

The Dutch cattle, nearly all black and white, included over fifty animals and made a most creditable show.

A NEW CEREAL FOR THE WEST.—In the regions of western Kansas, where there is usually a lack of rainfall in the autumn, and especially in the winter, there is a great need of a crop in paying quantities.

MAMMOTH BERRIES.—People are sometimes misled and discouraged by the accounts of mammoth berries, twelve, and even fourteen and a half inches in diameter.

From time immemorial, and indeed, even long before the commencement of that epoch, it was the habit of the pages of story writers, heroes were and are to this day in the habit of receiving rich legacies left them by old bachelor uncles, who, good-natured, and in a spirit of pure philanthropy, it would seem, do us purpose to make their nephews happy.

Mr. Clayton was a life-long acquaintance, and an old friend of our family. He was a farmer, tolerably well off in this world's goods, and growing richer as he grew older.

It was a great deal more than a good fortune, and had just received an answer congratulating me on my sudden prosperity and begging me to pay him a visit. Here was just what I had longed for. I needed no persuasive inducements.
