I saw a look of disappointment on my wife's face, but I said nothing, and the matter passed off.

"My old friends came to see me-my wife gave me my favorite dishes-and the week so happily spent was gone before I knew it. Sunday morning came, bright and beautiful. To my surprise, my wife cause to breakfast with rumpled hair, and looking decidedly cross. After a while she decided that she would not go to church though she was as regular as the sexton, for she had nothing fit to wear. I thought it very odd, but said nothing, having long since found out that arguing with a woman s about as effectual as dipping the ocean dry with a teaspoon.

When Nellie and I got back, there stood my wife, her hair still uncombed and ready to scold the child for muddying her shoes. her blue Chinese boots with the little bronze bird on the side of them. I interfered with a good deal of firmness, and we went into dinner. Nothing on the table was cooked Helmbold's Buchu decently. And so it was all the next week, my coffee was thick and muddy, my meat done to a crust, and I well knew the demon of mischief was about to be let loose, but why I could not guess. "In the meanwhile, my wife's sister, who had been a kind of ship's cousin, quar-

A Very Old Joke,

Stopping for some time at an inn, and feasting on the fat of the land. Tvil was at length importuned by the landlord for payment, and being driven to his wits' he concocted a pleasant scheme for discharging his score. Far and wide he caused it to be announced that a foreigner had arrived at such a hostelry with an extra-ordinary animal, whose head was to be seen where his tail should be, seers flocked to the tavern, and when the yard was quite full, and every one had stable was thrown open, and Eulenspiegel's horse was seen with his tail in the manger and his head where his hindquarters usually stood. The jest was taken in good part, and every one advised his neighbor to lose no time in visiting the wonderful anitail should be. He was also a witness, some years ago to a somewhat similar trick beans played off at the expense of the worthy townsfolk of Bruges. A kermesse was in full swing, and at the door of a caravan, a man loudly vociferating, and at times banging a drum, invited mesdames" to walk in and behold what they had never seen before and would never see again. The charge was ten centimes and about every quarter issued forth, laughing heartily and bidding all their friends pay two sous for a sight that was well worth the money. The spectacle was simply this: As soon as the curavan was filled, the showman produced from his pocket a nut, which he carefully cracked with his teeth. Then, holding up the kernel, he gravely inquired if any lady or gentlemen present had ever seen fore, and, of course, was answered with a volley of "No, no, never." "In that case," he rejoined, "look at if well, for"-popping it into his mouth-"you will never see
