I feel due to the public and myself to give public notice that I AM STILL IN THE FURNITURE AND UNDERTAKING BUSINESS—(all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding)—and through the Donskors said I played, I have reduced my expenses very much, and I am determined to give my customers the benefit of the same; and, further, I would say that I will constantly keep a full line of Good Goods and will not be undersold by ANYBODY. Any person wishing any kind of work not kept in stock, will find me prepared to make it at short notice. All kinds of Furniture repaired at short notice. Picture Frames of all kinds on hand or made to order, as I have a large stock of moulding to select from.

N. B.—THE UNDERTAKING BUSINESS shall have my SPECIAL ATTENTION, and I shall always try to please and satisfy all those who of necessity must call in this branch. Remember that I am going to remain in Milton, and in the business, until I let the people know differently, or until quit of necessity from a cause over which I have no control. Remember the place—on North Main street—where you will see my public sign. May 19, 1880-2.

"A DISHONEST MAN got badly sold in San Francisco the other day. Feeling his coat-lap pulled, he looked around and saw an innocent-looking little chap, a boy only about nine or ten years old, carrying a big bundle which was addressed to a well-known citizen and marked 'collect balance on merchandise, $1.' The small boy asked him where he could find the man whose address was on the bundle. 'Why, certainly, that's me; that's my name, sonny. It's meant for me, I live right over there.' 'But there's a dollar to collect.' 'To be sure. Here are two halves. Now run back.' The man quickly turned the corner, jumped on a car, got out in a secluded quarter and opened the package. It contained a faded old sheep's wool door-mat, wrapped carefully around some hay inclosed in grain sack, the whole done up with business-like precision in fresh wrapping paper, and tied as well as by a dry-goods clerk. He felt like trading himself off for a foot-ball, and then kicking the foot-ball out of sight."

Torrance furnished him with the last shirt he had in his possession.

"Love me, love, but breathe it low, Soft in summer weather; If you love me, tell me so, As we sit together, Sweet and still as roses blow, Love me, love, but breathe it low! Tell me only with your eyes! Weeds are cheap and gay; If you love me, look and sigh; Tell my mother's daughter More than all the world may know; Love me, love, but breathe it low! Words for others, storm and snow, Wind and changed weather, Let the shallow waters flow, Foaming on together; Love me, love, and deep, and oh! Love me, love, but breathe it low!"

MUSICAL. GOOD NIGHT, GENTLE FOLKS, is the title of a new quartette, by Will L. Thompson, author of the famous quartette "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." Concert and Minstrel troupes pronounce it the most beautiful piece of music ever put on their programmes. It never fails to receive a hearty encore. The demand is such that it is scarcely possible to keep it in print. Music dealers write that they never knew a quartette to sell so fast. We advise lovers of music to send ten cents to the publishers, and receive a copy by return mail. Published by W. L. THOMPSON & CO., East Liverpool, Ohio.

PROBABLY no one preparation has received so much praise from its patrons, nor is so deserving of commendation as Hall's Hair Renewer. We but echo the voice of the millions who have used it when we pronounce it the best Hair Dressing in the world. It stands unrivalled. Those who are affected with dizziness of the scalp accompanied with itching or irritation, find relief and renewal in this invaluable remedy. When the hair is inclined to fall off, a moderate use of the Renewer will strengthen the roots of the hair, and preserve it, and if it exhibits a tendency to turn gray it will restore the natural color.—Fulton (Mo.) Telegraph.

From the Sturgis, Mich., Weekly: Mr. John Brast, living in Sherman township, informed us a few days ago that his feet had been so terribly frost-bitten that he could hardly stand the pains caused thereby. He happened to think of St. Jacobs Oil—which he always keeps handy—rubbed his feet twice with the remedy, and the pain disappeared entirely. He not only values it as a great means of relief in such cases, but it is a most valuable remedy for all diseases that are subject to it, and which so often play havoc with the prospects of the farmer and stock-raiser.
