A gentleman in Kenton, Md., has invented a plan to kill the army worm. He digs a ditch about eighteen inches deep and sprinkles it with salt. The worms slip into the ditch and the salt makes short work of them. It is said that the gentleman has saved his wheat and corn crops this year by this simple remedy.

The Huntington Journal of June 18th said: "A small worm has attacked the growing wheat in Onondaga township, and is destroying much of it. The remedy is found in the book in the joint just below the head, and before being discovered, kills the grain while it is ripening. The worm resembles the wire worm, and was never known to attack the grain before. It is a mystery to the farmers of that township where it comes from."

A young man bitten by a mad dog was shut up in a loft. In his delirium he seized upon some bundles of dried garlic, ate greedily of it, fell into a deep sleep, and awoke calm and cured.

The Democracy blame Garfield for not instantly saying that he would have nothing to do with Credit Mobilier. They have not the faintest idea that he should have taken his time to learn whether it was good or bad, and yet ninety per cent. of the Democracy who blurt out against Garfield because he did not at once declare against the corporation, cannot tell to-day what Credit Mobilier was for; they cannot point out its good and its bad. It is as indefinite to the minds of most of the men who denounce Garfield as are the ghost stories of a dollar.
