THREE ANGELS.

They say this life is barren, dear and cold ; Ever the same and song was sung of old, Ever the same long weary tale is told. And to our lips is held the cup of strife And yet-s little love can sweeten life.

They say our hands may grasp but joys de stroyed

Youth has but dreams, and age an aching void. Whose Dead-Sea fruit, long, long ago ha

Whose night with wild tempestuous storms is

And yet a little hope can brighten life.

They say we fling ourselves in wild despair Aurid the broken treasures scattered there,

Is it then true, this tale of bitter grief, Of mortal anguish finding no relief ?

Lo | midst the winter shines the laurel's leaf Three angels share the lot of human strife, Three angels glorify the path of life,

Love, Hope and Patience cheer us on our way Love, Hope and Patience form our spirit's

Love, Hope and Patience watch us day by day, And hid the desert bloom with beauty vernal, Until the carticly fades in the eternal.

Miss Mildred's Warning.

"There, girls !"

Elfrida Moore held aloft before us dreadful mage. "A home-made ghost," she called it, laughing at the terrific result of her half-hour of sedulous occupation. It acus horrible !

We had been reading, that afternoon about the Princess Amelia, the ill-fated sister of Frederick, King of Prussia.

One thing brought up another. And when an allusion was made to the "Woman with the Broom," who was said to have Elfrida sought a carpet brush with a long handle, in the closet at the head of the stairs, and, standing in the outer chamber And, as I said before, I helped him, here of the
