My friends down here are much like Andy was when he talked about Calhoun. Andy would always get excited over the mention of Calhoun's name, and that's into Kansas. the way with the Knights of the Golden Circle. When they hear the mention of Grant's name they get mad, excited, because he licked the rebels. That's the slong arms. and the short of it," and I do indeed believe that if they really believed that Grant had to go with the whisky business that they would turn around and preach temperance and smash up their whisky mills. Now, my boy, I don't want you to get mixed up so that you won't know head from tail in this flood of story that the friends of the Johnnies are letting loose on the country. You see they are putting all kinds of lies affoat so as to eatch all kinds of people and make votes for Hancock. That's the milk in the cocoanut. What, tell me, do my old ther than to make it, sell it, and drink it. To be sure, I do believe that a whisky ring was formed during the war, when every other bad thing was gotten up. Bad things again, when you go to the first cause you ring was the tax on whisky, and the cause of the tax was the war, and the cause of the war was slavery and the Democracy. The anti-Jackson-part of the Democracy League or the South Carolina rifle clubs. were the chaps that started the rebellion. So that in fact all the debauchery that the whiskey ring brought about must be charged to my old wayward friends. It makes my heart ache to say so, but I can't help it; what is truth, is truth. Old Andy always said that. I tell you that on the judgment day the Democracy will find that all the debanchery that grew out of the war is charged ican mechanic.
