

SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN

MIFFLINTOWN, Wednesday, January 26, 1881.

B. F. SCHWEIER, Editor and Proprietor.

The people of this State by a large majority last fall, indicated their desire for the election of a United States Senator. Therefore, if the Democrats in the Legislature should turn in and vote for a Republican for that office, they would not be doing more than the majority of the people did at the November election. They would be endorsing the vote of the majority of the people of the Commonwealth.

In the sweeping Republican victory last November the Republican party in this State elected a majority of the members of the Legislature, and that insures the election of a United States Senator. The Democracy lost the prize in a fair contest before the people, and of course do not expect that the Legislature will send a Democratic Senator to take the place of William Wallace. Up to this time the Republicans have not been able to elect upon a man to represent the State at Washington. The two prominent candidates, Oliver and Grow, are still in the field. There is no visible evidence that either the Oliver or Grow people will cast their vote for a Democratic candidate. To do so, would be to reverse the verdict of the people in November. It is true that the question of United States Senator was not directly before the people of the State but it was generally understood that a Republican victory implied or included the office of Senator. The Republicans that act in a manner to change the verdict of the people as expressed at the polls in November, 1880, may expect to be classed as among the unsafe people, and entirely unworthy of political trust. It is the demand of the Republican party that a Republican United States Senator be sent to Washington to fill the place to be made vacant by Senator Wallace next March.

As earthquake shock frightened the people down in Maine last Thursday morning.

The days of the Democratic Congress cometh to an end, and what hath it done that was good for the country?

Railroad business will be lively the next five years. Three hundred million dollars have been subscribed in the west to begin new roads this year.

Europe used to get silk from China. Now Europe raises her own silk, and Italy furnishes this country with raw material. There are places within the limits of the United States where the cultivation of the mulberry tree and the silk worm may be made profitable.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, it is said, contemplates building a railroad over the "Old Portage Route" across the Allegheny Mountains, for passenger travel. The distance is about thirteen miles shorter than the present route by way of Cresson. The present route will be used for freight trains.

The men who have skipped a wife or two may learn from the following, as related by an exchange, that dreamland sometimes reveals their past work: A curious case of alleged dreaming came true has occurred at Youngstown, Ohio. A woman that town married a workman, a native of Russian Poland, and soon afterward dreamed that he had left a wife and three children in Russian Poland, and that the youngest child was lying at the point of death. The dream was so vivid that she told a friend, but didn't mention it to the husband himself just then. But several days later during his absence she got a letter addressed to him in the Polish language, and took it to a neighbor, who was also a Pole, and had the letter open it. It showed that her dream was true, the youngest child in Europe being very ill indeed, and the European wife begging him to send her some money. The Ohio wife gave him a regular certain lecture when he came home.

The Blonde and Brunette. A writer in the Atlantic who believes that he knows something of the characteristics of both the Blonde and Brunette, says: "I have found the worst feminine qualities almost invariably allied to the blonde style; not the green or gray-eyed blondes with straight, abundant hair and fresh coloring, but the sallow or pallid being, with light blue eyes and lily or wavy hair—an innocent-looking creature, with felicitous manners, patte de velours, and such charms. These are the women who delude and destroy men; who never forgive an injury or forget a slight; who smile and talk sweetly, and put on airs of respectability; who are never very principled, false to the core. Did not Lucrezia Borgia have golden hair? Was not Lady Macbeth a Scottish woman, presumably with lint-white locks? Two of the worst and most brilliant women I ever knew had this style of complexion, and the lovely being whose picture was my childhood's adoration, who sat smirking over the library shelf in dear old Uncle W's house, robed in satin and shills, her sapphire eyes as inscrutable as a deep spring, her rose-bud lips soft and flexible as a baby's, and her taper white fingers crossed in her lap, was a virago, a drunkard, with a symptom of pimple—the mystery and curse of the old and honorable family she married into. Black haired and dark-eyed women are quick-tempered, electric, generous, jealous probably, but full of relenting, and capable of being coaxed into or out of anything. Weak as to their affections, snappy as to their tempers; warm of heart and hot of head, they are never very bad or very good, and are the delightful torment of every man who loves them and whom they do not love too much; but love makes slaves and fools of them, and they are ridiculously unconstant.

STATE ITEMS.

A tramp in the Allegheny jail has the small pox. Small pox has made its appearance in the Allegheny county jail. Miss Lizzie Cope, of Norristown, was poisoned by eating canned peaches that were tainted by solder. Petitions are in circulation in the southern border counties, preparatory to asking the Legislature to reimburse people for losses sustained during the rebel invasion of the State. D. H. Creitz, of Lynn, Lehigh county, has distilled 20,000 gallons of applejack this season, and has 1500 gallons yet to run out. He has used 8000 bushels of apples. Mr. Christian Hurst, of Sadsbury, Chester county, found the following articles in the stomachs of a hog: 43 nails, 16 small stones 2 hog rings and a key. E. L. Hopkins, a brakeman on the Wall's accommodation train running into Pittsburg, found a piece of paper in one of the cars of his train, and not knowing what it was, tore it up. He produced some of the pieces a few days afterward to an old driver, who said he had lost a check for $3300. These were pasted together and proved to be a part of the check, which was honored, and the brakeman got $75 as his reward. A Dutchman woman is reported to have whupped her father the other day. The Mennonite societies of Lancaster and York counties have enforced their rules against sleigh bells with unusual vigor this winter. There is now diphtheria in Doylestown no more than ever before. The disease lingers in all parts of Bucks county. An old man of McKean county, on Saturday week, was killed a young man named Currie. His brother, who was helping him, was terribly injured. Three Bradford boys gathered some empty glycerine cans and built a fire around them. Enough of the deadly compound adhered to the sides to make a first class scouter. The total of injuries was four heads of hair destroyed, four feet partially skinned, three ears impaired in beauty and any number of finger nails taken off. A widow in Erie lost a bed quilt from her line, where she had hung it to air. A policeman found it in a neighbor's house, where the people said they took it because they thought it needed washing. The widow, kind soul, desiring to gratify a neighbor, left the quilt to be washed. On Monday week as Mrs. Fisher was on her way from Shamokin to her home at Big Mountain, she was assaulted by John Haughton, who knuckled her down with a club and attempted to rob her. A man happening to see the act ran to the woman's assistance, frightening Haughton, who made his escape. The woman, who was fatally injured, was carried to her home. Haughton, a young man, had served one term in the Sanbury Jail for larceny. Saturday was paid day at about all the collieries and no doubt he thought she had considerable money about her person. A large white oak tree was uprooted by a giant powder blast on the Oppenung Run road, near Pittsburg, the other day, and fell among a gang of men, killing Cyrus D. Robison and Daniel McCady and mortally wounding Thomas Ault. The blast was expected to dislodge a quantity of earth, but it did more, biting out the thickest roots of the tree. Harrisburg's colored Baptists are full of indignation at the misconduct of a crowd of a thousand on the banks of the Susquehanna during an immersion ceremony on Sunday afternoon. Four persons, three women and one man, were baptized. The ice had to be broken, and when the converts were led into the stream the crowd gave a loud, prolonged and irreverent "Ouch!" Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, a widow, of Shannonsville, Montgomery county, owns considerable property. Of late she has developed a number of eccentricities. She seems to think that her chickens are more valuable than anything else owned by her, and though the flock contains only nine she insists there are fifty or sixty. She spends her time running to and fro between her house and barn and often puts the chickens to rest at two o'clock in the afternoon. In the midst of this solicitude for one part of property she exhibits extraordinary recklessness in regard to her valuable possessions, paying hucksters any exorbitant price they ask for an article. Her children have demanded of the Montgomery Court a commission in lunacy and the Commissioners are now looking into the remarkable case. GENERAL ITEMS. An Indiana clergyman quitted a disorderly man in the congregation by beating him over the head with a club. H. W. Beecher thinks street cars and ferry boats should run on Sunday, but doesn't believe in Sunday funerals with a brass band to aid the mourners to keep step. There are 245 cities and towns in the United States with a population of 10,000 or over. Columbia, South Carolina, closes the list with a population of 10,040 souls. A middle-aged couple visited Kansas City on their honeymoon journey and stayed at the house of the bride's brother. There the bridegroom fell in play with his wife's niece, won her consent to an elopement, and continued his journey with her. "Fritz Trutz," the German Crown Prince, has spoken strongly against the anti-Jewish agitation in Berlin and the provinces. With both the Emperor's successor opposed to it, the movement would seem to be doomed. Mrs. Adolph Bartsch, aged twenty-three, wife of the secretary of the German branch of the Young Men's Christian Association at Chicago, essayed to take "an alcoholic sweat bath," according to an old woman's directions, by standing over a saucer of burning alcohol. Her clothing taking fire, she was horribly burned and will probably die. Georgia professors and students of anatomy have a sensation. A young man of Morrivether county had a tree fall on him while out hunting, striking him on the back of the neck. He was unconscious for thirty six hours, and then he was found to be paralyzed from his neck down, all over his body. His head, all his senses there, and his mind, mind seemed as good as an active as ever, and he lived in this helpless state from August 1879, to December 1880.

A Senator Supported by Terrapins.

I have just heard of an instance where a United States Senator is supported by terrapins. Senator Dennis, of Maryland, as my information goes, has about twelve acres of land put down in a pond that is fed by salt water. This pond makes the largest terrapin farm probably in the world, and is the source of a heavy income. In the terrapins are raised for the market, and it is said that over 12,000 "counts" have been sold from it in one year. It may be noted, for the benefit of the uninitiated, that a "count" is a terrapin over seven inches in length; and that "counts" are sold by number, bringing from $10 to $14 a dozen, or about $1 each. In market they retail for about $20 a dozen; and in the fashionable restaurants are served at $1.50 a plate one terrapin filling about three plates. Smaller terrapins are sold at lower figures, but all being good figures and are sold in the market as well as in name. There are several terrapin ponds in Maryland, and they grow in importance as "terrappin stew, Maryland style," is becoming more and more popular among high lives.

A Fall of Black Snow. From the Mt. Pleasant (Pa.) Times. Persons from Laurel Hill report a queer story from that section. A gentleman from there remarked that they had a fall of black snow last week. The snow fell to the depth of half an inch, and instead of the usually white, flaky elements was a dark and sooty in color. Immediately following the descent of the snow, families residing in the neighborhood were attacked with sore throat and the younger portion with measles. The theory advanced is that the smoke, soot and other impurities from the hundreds of ovens in this vicinity had been collected in the atmosphere and by an unusual direction of the wind had been driven to Laurel Hill and fell, mingled with snow-storm. That the measles and sore throat that followed was due to the fact of these sooty particles collecting and remaining in the air, and being inhaled in this place and vicinity, and contaminating the atmosphere where they fell.

The Wrong Customer. From the Burlington Hawkeye. A farmer out in Sac county saw his neighbor's dog skulking stealthily into a hole under the hill, and wisely surmising that the brute had been after his sheep, took a club and went after him. He poked at him in the gloomy obscurity of the hole for some time, and swore a whole chapter at him before he could induce him to come out and get his pounding, but presently a big grizzly bear, came out and snatched a mouth like a shark's, came out and said he couldn't understand or speak, but he would do his best to make himself intelligible in a square collar and elbow United States pantaloons. And then he snipped the farmer's jaw, pulled his hair down over his eyes, scratched his back, bit him clear through in four places, tore all his clothes into carpet rags and finally took one of his ears away from the cubs to cut their teeth on. And now that rusticus will run across ten acre lot to avoid meeting a black and tan dog no bigger than a spout.

A Boston journal speaking of the uses of charcoal, says: "Who knows the use of charcoal? I have no doubt that many of you know it is very handy to use in kindling a coal fire, but do you know its other uses? Are you aware that a little of it pulverized and mixed into a poultice of any sort will effectually prevent the growth of proud flesh in a wound, allay the irritation and itching that often accompanies the healing, reduce the inflammation and greatly assist in the healing process. Do you know that if pulverized and mixed with the white of an egg, or even mixed in water and drunk, a little of it will quickly relieve sour stomach or dyspepsia, and usually check a light attack of diarrhoea? It will do all this for man or beast. Do you know that a lump of charcoal put in the pot when you are boiling cabbage, onions or strongly flavored meat will prevent the scent itself from penetrating the whole house? A lady of my acquaintance was lamenting that she could not indulge in her favorite vegetable as often as she would like because she did not like to have her whole house flavored with it for a week afterward. I told her of this, and now she feasts as often as she likes without incommencing the other inmates of the house. Do you know that you may keep a fowl or a piece of fresh meat sweet almost as long as you please by putting a lump of charcoal inside it (wrap it up in cloth if you wish), and then wrapping it in cloth and putting it upon a pan of charcoal?"

GENERAL ITEMS. It is said that if sod land is ploughed just before the corn is planted the worms will feed upon the sod and not injure the corn. Winter is the time to thoroughly repair all tools, ploughs, reaping machines, cultivators and the like. As was anticipated, the cold weather of this winter has frozen the greater portion of the orange trees of Florida. The damage to the crop cannot now be accurately estimated. Two or three acres of corn will supply a Western family with a winter's fuel. The same corn sold and turned into wood or coal would not supply fuel for a month.

The Chinese professor at Harvard dresses in his native costume. This includes slippers embroidered with gold, green silk trousers, a coat of crimson silk lined with fur and ornamented with white medallions containing pictures of storks, and a tiny cap, saucer-shaped and ornamented on top with a knob. Quicker things are always happening at Vienna theatres. The other night somebody tried to abduct the prima donna, Mlle Bianchi. During one of her performances the would-be abductor approached her coachman outside and offered him a heavy bribe for his co-operation. The driver smartly pretended to jump at the offer, and said he would drive the prima donna to the point designated. The would-be abductor went away, and the driver got two detectives in his carriage. He took Mlle. Bianchi home and then drove to the rendezvous. The abductor jumped in, but instead of finding the lady, arrested. He was found to be a lunatic.
