

B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

President Garfield and his Cabinet have been invited to visit Gettysburg on Decoration day.

In New York people move on the 1st of May instead of on the 1st of April.

Last Thursday a heavy rain storm prevailed in nearly all of the Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Red River valleys.

Senator Norris has a bill in the Legislature that proposes an amendment to the State Constitution, to reduce the representatives of the House to one hundred and fifty members.

Politicians have been scratching their heads over the returns from Western cities within the past week. In St. Louis, which is Democratic, the Republicans elected a Mayor. In Cincinnati, which is Republican, the Democrats elected a Mayor.

The Supreme Court of Texas has rendered an opinion, that the law in Texas that forbids the marriage of whites and blacks is unconstitutional and in conflict with the 14th amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

A Philadelphia court has rendered an opinion that the election for officers of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, held March 14, was a lawful election. The effect of the opinion will be to place Frank S. Bond as President of the road. The opinion sent Reading stock from 31 to 30.

The question of "license" or "no license" is quite a question in certain parts of New York State now. The other day, "Ithaca, the site of Cornell University," gave a majority of 50 against license, making it the largest "no license" village in the State. Every town in Tompkins county is "no license."

Frank S. Bond, the new President of the Reading Railroad Company, "is fifty-five years of age, of medium height, slender, and intellectual looking. He was born in Connecticut, but has lived a number of years in Philadelphia. He has been connected with railroad affairs since his early youth."

The Pennsylvania Legislature last week passed a resolution that expresses approval of the action of the Republican United States Senators, that the majority shall control the organization of the United States Senate. It is intended as a shield to break the assault of the Democrats upon Republicans for having consorted with Senator Mahone, of Virginia, on certain points of organization and on certain appointments.

The North American writes: The public authorities in Hancock county, Virginia, have a peculiar way of riding themselves of the paupers for whose maintenance they are responsible. They have an auction after the fashion of ante-bellum days, which is held at stated intervals, and at which the said paupers are knocked down, not to the highest but to the lowest bidder, to be held in servitude by the successful man for the period of one year. The object of the bidding is to determine what price shall be paid by the State for the paupers disposed of. Of course a man who is able-bodied will be taken at a low figure, while it will be necessary to pay a good round sum to get a feeble old woman out of the way. The system described has its convenience, but it is not one which American citizens will generally approve.

A man in New York was notified by letter that an arrangement had been perfected to steal one of his children, but he by the sum of six thousand dollars the child shall remain unmolested. He called a detective into service. The detective instructed him to agree to the blackmailer's demand, and ask where the money should be paid. It was arranged that the money should be put into an envelope, and carried by a woman to Central Park, and there, upon the report of a pistol being heard, she should drop the envelope and leave the Park without once looking back. Arrangements were perfected accordingly. The hour was fixed for the maid to leave the house. She left the house at the appointed time with an envelope stuffed with waste paper. At the same time the detective left the house by a back way and hastened around so as to get the woman in sight. He soon discovered that she was closely followed by a man, and soon another fellow on the opposite side of the street signaled the one in close pursuit. The Park was reached: the report of a pistol was heard; the maid dropped the envelope; the fellow in close pursuit picked it up, and the detective stepped up and arrested him. The blackmailer resisted the arrest; the officer leveled his pistol, fired, and the blackmailer dropped dead, shot through the head. He was a foreigner. Papers in the pockets of his clothing reveal the whereabouts of other such people, and arrests have been made.

"Artesian wells number 1000 in California. Of these, 300 are in Santa Clara Valley, fifty miles from San Francisco. Most of them overflow the surface of the State an average seven inches in diameter. The lower resources of artesian water are now mapped out. Under the valley runs a broad river, coming from the great lakes of the Sierras, 200 miles off. The pressure from 6000 feet elevation suffices to throw the water above the surface. The depth of the bore runs from 150 to 250 feet. Outside the boundaries of this subterranean river (several miles wide) no depth of boring has struck artesian water. There is reason to believe that every valley in the State has an underground river leading direct from the same lakes, and lying below the superficial currents that have no connection with the elevated reservoirs."

Horrors of Earthquake.

Intelligence from Constantinople indicate that of the 70,000 people on the Island of Scio, some 7,000 perished in the earthquake last week. A correspondent writes:

"Fear, grief and despair are depicted on nearly every face. All have some sad or tragic tale to tell. The first shock was felt on Sunday afternoon, at about half-past one o'clock. Immediately houses began to fall. Wild shrieks were heard on every side. Then followed an awful silence of some minutes. The terrified survivors gradually ventured into the narrow lanes and reached the open spaces. Shortly afterward another terrible shock completed the devastation. Then it again began to shake the island, and the houses were so severely shaken that all at short intervals, and each one was preceded by dull sounds like subterranean explosions. Since that frequent shocks have been felt. A few minutes ago, while writing the present dispatch, I distinctly heard an explosion-like sound and felt the earth tremble, but as I am under canvas I have nothing to fear."

"The old Genoese fortress, containing about 400 houses, inhabited by Mussulmans and Jews, suffered more than the rest of the town. The ground there sank about half a metre, and nearly all the houses were immediately destroyed, and several hundred persons must have perished. It is known that about thirty Mussulman women were assembled in one of the houses, not one of whom escaped. The southern part of the island is said to have suffered more than this town. Her Majesty's gun vessel Bittern arrived here this morning. The captain, consulting with the Governor of the island, organized relief parties for attending the wounded and extricating the dead from the ruins. He then went over to Chesme and made careful inquiries regarding the state of the town and inhabitants. Tomorrow he intends visiting the southern part of the island, where less than half has been done for the relief of the sufferers."

Visited Chesme this afternoon. Only about 100 inhabitants were killed, but many houses are in ruins, and very many more are dilapidated. The Mayor assured me that three-fourths of the houses are in a dangerous condition. The inhabitants are afraid to live even in those which are uninjured, for every night since Sunday night frequent shocks have been felt. Nearly all prefer to camp out. As the weather is fine the harbor is crowded with boats. It is estimated that the district contains less than 30,000 people are without shelter."

"In Castro the work of extricating bodies and attending the wounded is progressing satisfactorily, but the stinging odor in the vicinity of many of the ruins proves that the former operation is far from being complete. One woman was buried under the ruins for fifty-two hours, and at last was rescued, having given birth in the meantime to a child. The child is dead, but the mother is doing well. "The French, British, United States and Austrian war vessels in the harbor are doing all in their power to assist the authorities in the work of relief."

DISPATCHES.

CINCINNATI, O., April 7.—Several days ago the dead body of John Barenberg, a wealthy bachelor farmer, near Greenfield, Ohio, was found trampled beneath the feet of a horse in his stable. Yesterday David Ross was arrested on suspicion, and late last night he confessed that he had committed the murder and had robbed the house of about $100. He formerly kept a saloon for some years, and claimed that fifty $75 were due him and were withheld by Barenberg, and that he had gone there for a settlement, when Barenberg made a movement to assault. He struck the deceased on the head with a small club and he fell. Ross has a bad record.

SUNBURY, Pa., April 7.—Sunbury was thrown into a state of excitement last night over the deliberate murder by a young boy of his sister, Miss Lottie Hoover was an attractive girl of seventeen. Her brother, George, is but fourteen years of age. The murder was committed yesterday when an altercation arose in which George became greatly enraged at his sister. It appears that the boy was late and his sister reproved him for it. He took his seat at the table, and the difficulty continuing he got up, and remarking, "I'll fix you," passed into a back apartment. His mother, who was at the table, fearing the boy meant harm, got up and locked the door. The boy secured a shotgun and going out the back way a little later came around and without a word of warning deliberately shot his sister. The wound was mortal, and she died in a few minutes. The verdict of the jury was that Lottie Hoover came to her death by a shot deliberately fired from a gun by her brother, George Hoover. The scene at the house was heart-rending in the extreme. Mrs. Hoover and Lottie's sisters were almost wild with grief. George was brought to town last evening by officers of the law and lodged in jail.

SUNBURY, Pa., April 8.—After the inquest on the body of Lottie Hoover, who was killed by her brother George on Wednesday, Justice Brice informed the afflicted family that it would be necessary to take George to Sunbury for a few days. He was then brought in by the Justice and District Attorney Savidge and committed to jail. He was placed in a cell in the right wing and no one is allowed to see him. While eating his supper he said that the coffee "went back on him," as he was not used to drinking it. When asked why he had committed the deed he said that he had been out hunting rats, that he had been scolded for coming late and the things had been taken off the table before he had finished eating; that he had gone to the cupboard and brought them back, and they were taken off a second time; that that made him angry and he went to the front door and shot Lottie, and that he was sorry he had done it. He did not seem to realize the position in which he was placed. He was nervous, although he cried slightly. During the night a realization of the terrible deed he had committed seemed to dawn on his mind and he cried bitterly. Miss Lottie Hoover was a pretty, well-educated girl, and was a friend in this place. She was loved by all who knew her, and the feeling in this community against her brother is very bitter. Reuben Hoover, the eldest son of this distracted family, has become almost hopelessly insane over the terrible affliction visited upon the household. Physicians were sent for early yesterday morning, and it is feared that his reason has been totally destroyed.

READING, April 8.—Christian Risser, a Menomonee preacher, residing near Brunersville, a small village in this county, had occasion to be away from home for a few days this week, and during his absence his two sons, named Amos and Henry, were home, taking potshots for planting. While thus engaged a quarrel arose between them, which ended fatally. It appears that Amos was doing a certain amount of work which Henry detested, whereupon a scuffle followed, during which Henry pulled out a large dirk-knife and in the excitement stabbed his brother in the abdomen. Amos fell, bleeding to the ground. Some neighbors, who happened to pass by at the time, came to his rescue and carried him to his home. Medical aid was once quickly summoned, but when the physician arrived Amos was so weak from the loss of blood that the doctors have no hope for his recovery. Word was immediately sent to their father informing him of the occurrence. The wound in the boy's body is about two inches long, one inch deep, penetrating into the intestines. Amos Risser is about twenty-one years of age. He is aged fourteen years. It is stated that the brothers have frequently quarreled together.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., April 9.—The Missouri river is still higher here to-day than last night. Fully 500 persons from the lowlands are temporarily homeless. The flood is the most extensive ever experienced here. Great damage is also being done on the Omaha side, the melting works being greatly damaged. Communication between the two cities is temporarily suspended. The river is now twenty-two feet above low-water mark.

CHICAGO, April 9.—A special dispatch to the Daily News from Omaha says: The river registers 21 feet 2 inches and is rising rapidly. The situation is critical. The water has swept away the Union Pacific track on the bridge over Spoon Lake, and the bridge is two feet under water. There are no trains in or out to-day, as the river is pouring over the track and through Spoon Lake east of the Union Pacific bridge at a rate that threatens to make a permanent change and leave both sides of the bridge on the Nebraska side. The railroads both up and down the river are under water and abandoned. The river is rising out to a great width and is flowing rapidly.

The Bethlehem Iron Company employs 2500 hands. There are fifty-four prisoners in the Franklin county jail. Bedford people are paying 50 cents a quart for little onions. Sunbury has measles in nearly every family where there are children. A lumberman named Krouse was killed in Clinton county by a log falling on him.

The Rev. J. Morgan has been convicted of the crime of seduction and bastardy, Miss Eva C. Connor being the prosecutrix, in a Kittanning court, and subsequently failing in a desperate attempt to break jail, finally through his attorney sent her a proposal of marriage, to which she returned the following answer: "No, never." Morgan was sentenced to serve two years in the Western Penitentiary.—Washington Reporter.

Dr. Robert S. Ives practiced medicine in New Haven, Conn., more than a hundred years ago, and his son, grandson and great grandson, nephew and grand-nephew have all followed the same profession in the same city, bringing the record down to the present day without interruption.

A Second Advent congregation at Greenwood, Kan., have lost confidence in their pastor because, while publicly avowing a belief that the world would come to an end in 1881, he secretly took a note for five years on a loan of $1,000, and demanded twelve per cent interest with ample security.

A desperate attempt was made by four convicts to escape yesterday from the Michigan State Prison at Jackson. After beating one of the guards and threatening to kill him, they placed ladders against the wall, and the ringleader, a desperado named Lynch, had reached the top when the alarm was given. One of the guards shot him three times, and he fell dead. The others were secured after a brief resistance.

A gentleman in Montreal met with a singular adventure on the street one evening last week. He struck a match to light his cigar, and was immediately surrounded by a flame, the snow in his vicinity appearing to be on fire. An examination proved the phenomenon to be caused by gas escaping from a leak in the main pipe.

There is a possibility that the main source of supply of peaches will be transferred from the Peninsula to the Hudson River Valley before many years. Within the past five years over 6,000,000 peach trees have been planted in the valley by fruit-growers, while only a few are being rooted up in Delaware and Maryland. In the new orchards a fair crop is anticipated the coming season, and thousands of young trees will bear their first crop.

More marriages take place in Reading than in any city of its class in the State. The Sportsmen's Association of Western Pennsylvania killed over 900 hawks and owls last year. Henry Erhardt, of Erie noticed a pimple on his arm on Friday about noon. Before night it had swelled to an enormous size, and he died in great agony on Wednesday. The doctors were unable to tell what the malady was. John Hipple, a well-known citizen of Harrisburg, committed suicide on Wednesday by cutting his throat. Mrs. Charles Stewart of Cherryville, Northampton county, aged 45 years, committed suicide on Wednesday by hanging.

Frank Eisenhart, of Sharpburg, Allegheny county, blew out the gas in a Pittsburgh hotel the other day and was suffocated. Ellen Feary, an inmate of the Schuylkill county jail, proclaimed her purpose to starve herself to death, fasted for five days, then asked for a meal, and could not be furnished with sufficient to satisfy her.

A man weighing eighty six pounds was killed in Chippewa township, Lawrence county, a few days ago. It is said to be the first one known to be in the county for twenty-nine years.

A special dispatch to THE TIMES from Easton says: "Early this morning Mrs. Charles Stewart, living with her family at Cherryville, Lehigh township, committed suicide by hanging herself to a rafter in the house. She was the daughter of Charles Bell, a farmer of Moore township, and was forty-six years old. Her family consisted of herself, her husband and seven children, all living. It is said that family troubles led to the act. When found her body was cold. She arose at five o'clock and immediately hung herself. Her feet were nearly on the floor."

John Williams was hanged at Waverly, Tenn., on Friday, for the murder of his wife two years ago. He was baptized in the creek near the jail just previous to his execution, and on the scaffold confessed that he deserved his fate, warning everybody to avoid drinking and never to act under a passion.

Governor Jackson, of West Virginia, has issued an unconditional pardon to Elisha Gregg, twice tried and sentenced to be hanged for burning Preston county court house in 1869. He escaped the day before he was to be hanged, but was recaptured two years afterwards. Governor Matthews commuted the sentence to life imprisonment, but Gregg refused to accept it.

A dispatch from Sidney, Neb., states that Reddy McDonald was taken from jail at an early hour yesterday morning by vigilantes and hung to a tree in the court-house yard. He was being moved to a place treated as a noted throat and one of sixteen desperadoes who had held the town in terror for several years. It is understood that two more prisoners will be lynched.

A special to the Times Star from Little Rock, Ark., under date of the 11th inst. says: "A party of masked men yesterday rode into Toledo, a county twenty miles south of here. James Mc'Cloy and Annie Christy were to have been married Sunday night at Waupaca, Wisconsin. A grand feast was prepared, including beer and whisky. The guests and waiting waiters were free to eat and drink as they pleased, and they also fell work upon the eatables. The whole crowd became so gloriously full and happy that the wedding was entirely forgotten, and the company dispersed at an early hour Monday morning without having seen the knot tied. Jim and Annie discovered the mistake and invited the guests again on Monday night but refused refreshments until after they had been married.

Three men, France, the other Sunday at Nice—a professional aeronaut, an editor and an army officer—stopped in a balloon and shot upward for one and a half miles. When they left the earth the wind was blowing in from the north. Having passed through a stratum of clouds the voyagers lost sight of things terrestrial for an hour or more. Then the clouds breaking beneath them they saw that they were being born swiftly over the sea. As night was approaching the frightened aeronauts made up their minds to descend among some fishing boats, but the balloon struck the waves ten miles from the fishermen. For four hours the balloon was dragged about the sea, sometimes plunged in the waves and sometimes lifted above them. In desperation the men clung to the rigging until they were rescued by a steamer that had been sent from Nice to search for them.

Millionaires Learning to be Tanners.

From the Lury (Va.) Courier. Two young Baltimoreans, sons of gentlemen worth a million dollars each, engaged to work at the De Ford tannery and will take a thorough course of the trade. They will be here, so we are informed, as soon as the work opens at the yard. They will begin at the bottom round of the ladder and stick until they are masters of the trade. These are examples worthy of emulation by all young men, and we predict for them success in life in whatever vocation they may choose after their first learning this most excellent trade. The girls, too, should be careful and not object at all to the odor of the tan bark, especially when it is so strongly scented with greenbacks.

The entire Foster family were down with the small pox, at Lexington, Ill. The house was burned in the night. Rather than seek a refuge with any of their neighbors, and thus spread the disease, they walked eight miles in the cold to a pest house, and imperiled their lives by the exertion and exposure.
