And citizens of every part of the Common wealth are cordially invited to become members of it, and to aid in the effort to show to the whole country what Pennsylvania and Philadelphia now are, and the progress which they have made in the two centuries of their existence.

In days past, all public demonstrations intended to commemorate great events in the history of a community were of a military or a religious character; more recently it has been deemed becoming to exhibit the progress which has been made in those arts which tend to promote the intelligence, convenience, comfort and refinement of the people; and such an exhibition is most appropriate when the observance is intended to honor the memory of those who composed the little colony which, "by deeds of peace," laid the foundation of a prosperous Commonwealth, and established, for the first time in the world's history, real freedom of opinion and worship; not the toleration which, in former times, as a favor, June moon fulls on the 12th, and gives us permitted men to enjoy their views and the rare livest of a total lunar eclipse.
