St. Margaret's and the Abbey.

the sense of being "improved," some final resolution must be arrived at with regard to St. Margaret's Church. It is the mis fortune of all great buildings in old cities that they are blocked up and encroached upon, and that the view of them is obtructed. Let us imagine, for a moment, the appearance that would be presented by St. Paul's if it stood in the centre of Salis bury Plain, and were not, as now, crowded in by shops, warehouses and miscellaneous tenements of every kind. Westminster Abbey once stood open to the view on "laying off" room, where a number of every side. On the east the Thames ran long-hollow forms, like outstretched hands by green fields that sloped from the Abbey are stood upright from a table. We can never hope to remove entirely the impediments to a fair and open view of the seams. In this factory over 200 hands are employed, and about seventy-five dozen pairs of gloves made daily. The glove cutters average from $75 to streets and alleys, densely populated, with mpediments to a fair and open view of $90 per month in wages, and the makers omething by the removal of St. Margaret's. St. Margaret's, it is true, has a history of its own. It dates back to the days of Edimbers of the house of Commons worshipped; but even Stow considered it in als own time as "in danger of down-pulling," and Peter Cunningham, the most ge-nial of antiquarians, admits that, although he should be sorry to see it removed, his grief would yet be not be on account of the the associations to which it can lay claim, whether architectural or other; it must still stand condemned as blocking out from view one aspect of the Abbey, and as doing that, in the one place of all others in land the still stand condemned as blocking out from view one aspect of the Abbey, and as doing that, in the one place of all others in land the still stand a youthful pair of lovers separated themselves from the lower separated themselves from the lowe In the one place of all others in of lovers separated themselves from the banks of and open. Hundreds of brick houses throughout the country are made most uncomfortable and unhealthy from the dampness which comes through the wall. This difficulty arises from ignorance in building—the ne-glect of some of the simplest and most rea-sounble precautions. Most men in buildr gleave everything to the mechanic, and many of these last gentlemen, however in-tustrieus and praiseworthy in other res-nects, never learned the ABC of their ades. All brick walls in dwelling houses should be hollow and painted outside. Then, between the cellar walls and the first course of brick there should be a layer of some sort of cement, which becomes hard and impervious to water. In the last place, every house-brick or wood, should have a tile drain put all around it to the depth of three to five feet in the ground. This can easily be run into the drain which every well regulated cellar is supposed to have, as a matter of course. By carrying out these simple and sensible hints a house need never be damp inside, and such affictions as mould on walls or in closets will never be occurring to afflict the housekeeper, It would seem that every man who undertakes to "boss the job" of building a that's the letter, and I'm an asa, sir, and house ought to be posted in such necessary, good-day, sir!" elemeutary knowledge of his calling. But not one in a hundred know anything about it—at least in the country, where there is no system of sewarage. In fact, hving specimens of fruit, to prevent bruising, has long been practised, but an improvenear a thriving village where there are the usual number of "good" mechanics, we ment has been made by which in addition to this protection, the fruit is preserved from decay. The bran is slightly charred by a patented process. Dehoate California never heard this matter mentioned by but one man, though we have always been accustomed to hear these complaints of the dampness of brick walls. In cities where ilders are obliged to understand their business, and where competent mechanics are always found, "they do these things But such apparent necessities in building should, it would seem, be under stood by everybody. It is a lamentable fact that they are not, and one that tells sadly upon the health of all who are compelled to live in these damp brick houses.

rure blood makes sound firsh, strong bone and a flear akin. If you would have your firsh drim, your bones sound without carles, and your complexion fulr, use Kadway's Sarrapariliam Resolvent.

A remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties essential to purity head, repair and invitorate the broken-down and wasted body—QUION, PLEASANT, SAFE and PREMANENT in its treatment and cure.

No master by what name the complaint may be designated, whether it be Scromia, Consumption, Syphilis, Ulcers, Sores, Tumors, Bolis, Erysipelas, or Salt-itheum, diseases of the Lungs, Kidnery, Bladder, Womb, Skin, Liver, Stomach or Elweis, either chronic or constitutional, the virus of the disease is in the BLOOD which supplies the waste, and builds and repairs these organs and wasted tissues of the system. If the blood is unhealthy, the process of repair must be unsound.

The Sarsaparilliam Resolvent not only is a compensating reinedy, but secures the harmealous action of each of the organs. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood-vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The skin, after a few days use of the Sarsaparillian, becomes clear and beautiful. Pimples, blooding Black spots and skin Eruptions are removed; sores and Ulcers son cured. Persons suffering from Scromia, Eruptive Diseases of the Hyea Mouth. Ears, Legs, Threat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncured diseases or mercury, or from the use of Corrosive Sublimate, may rely upon a cure if the Sarsaparillian is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system.

Miners and Lumbermen should always be provided with it.

CAUTION.

All remedial agents capable of destroying life by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, optium, strychnine, arnica, hyosciamus, and other powerful remeiles, does at certain times, in very small doses, relieve the patient during their action in the system. But perhaps the second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and increase the suffering, and another dose cause death. There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like Radway's Rady. Belief will stop the most ex-
