There was a horrible silence. But for terrified "by something like a cloud the far of the blue fox." husband she had lost. She had paymed many things when in distress, but had always hung on to that. But the robber always hung on to that. But the robber was unrelenting. Solbing bitterly she went to a bireau drawer and removed the precious relic, around which clustered so many tender recollections. "Must you have it?" said she, as she advanced with trembling steps towards him. "Yes, I must," said the robber, extending his hand, "Well, then, take it," said she, gently pressing the trigger. extending his hand, "Well, then, take it," said she, gently pressing the trigger for the last time.
