The question of the admission of the Territory of Dakota as a State is coming up in Congress as a question upon which the Democrats are disposed to draw party lines. They will oppose Dakota because they believe to admit the territory as a State will add just that much to Republican strength in Congress. That's an old game with the Democrats.

One of the persons was the wife of the father above mentioned and mother of the daughter; the other three were friends. They had taken shelter under a derrick on one hundred feet high, on the top of the derrick was a water tank. A number of them sat in a two-seated two-horse carriage. The horses were killed.

From the Martinsville, Va., Herald.

A gentleman from Patrick reports a waterpout, Sunday afternoon last, in the Peters creek neighborhood. A great volume of water, accompanied by wind, thunder and lightning, came roaring down the mountain side with terrific force, and spreading desolation in its track. Eye witnesses say the scene was one of awful sublimity—people rushed from their houses in dread apprehension and stood terror-stricken as the dense column of water rapidly advanced and spent itself in the valley below. Trees uprooted, fences torn to pieces and scattered, and scenes of great desolation marked its pathway. Fortunately there was not a dwelling in its line of progress, and only one barn, which was swept away, together with six head of cattle, a distance of two hundred yards and lodged in a drift made by the rushing water.

S. S. Bayley, of South Fork, Cal., tells of an exciting deer chase that occurred on his ranch last Sunday. Mr. Bayley, T. H. McBride and Charley Williams were in the barn saddling their horses preparatory to taking a ride. Mr. Bayley's little daughter called out to them that there was a band of deer coming up out of the swamp. They looked out and saw seven deer coming across the field and making for the hills. The three men were immediately in the saddle and started in pursuit. They succeeded in cutting off two of the animals and a lively chase ensued. The excitement seemed to be contagious, and in a few minutes there were fifteen men in pursuit of the deer. Some of the South Fork boys are very handy with the rope and never take a ride without their riata. In less time than it takes to tell these useful articles were brought into use and the vaqueros had two fine deer tied to the fence. They were left there until all who wished had a good look at them, when they were butchered and the meat distributed among the captors.

A snow slide that came down upon a Nevada town, is spoken of as follows by a western paper. The avalanche that came down the mountain at Genoa, Nevada, last Thursday morning was of great extent. Occurring as it did at 5:30 in the morning, when most of the people were in bed, the wonder is that more of the residents of the town did not lose their lives. The first intimation had by the people was a rumbling sound like that of an earthquake. Bells were rung, and cries for assistance passed along the streets by those who happened to be up. The avalanche came down the mountain immediately south of Genoa Canyon and swept everything before it as far as Main street. No obstacle checked this moving mountain of snow until it spread out and lost its force on the nearly level piece of land on which Genoa is built, fully a quarter of a mile from the base of the mountain. At this time it is impossible to estimate the loss of property. Everything is chaos. Broken lumber splinters of furniture, pine and fruit trees, hay, clothing, kitchen ware and bedding are distributed through a body of snow and ice from ten to fifty feet in depth and several acres in extent. The "Long" building, which stood nearest the mountain, was occupied by Indians driven from their wigwags by the severity of the storm. As near as can be ascertained, but seven were in the house at the time of the catastrophe. No trace of the building can be recognized, and as yet no search has been made for its occupants. Next came the residence of a Mr. Minored. Bowers which was completely crushed to pieces and carried into the adjoining lot of D. W. Virgin. Minored and his wife were found still in their bed and almost on top of the snow and debris, both dead. The residences of D. W. Virgin, W. D. Gray and that of H. Boerlin were on the next street below Bowers'. Boerlin's house was completely demolished. The occupants were Mr. and Mrs. Boerlin, their two children and Mr. Chisholm and wife. All were buried in the ruins.
