Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the said Court on Tuesday, June 10th, A. D. 1882 in the Court House at Millintown, under an act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled: "An act to provide for the incorporation and Regulation of certain corporations, created by an act of the Legislature of this State, in 1871, and the supplements thereto for the charter of an intended corporation to be called 'The Pennsylvania Pennsylvania Gas and Light Company'."

A terrible outrage is reported from Greensburg, Pa., under date of May 21 as follows: Last night three masked men visited the house of Mrs. Jonathan Stump, and after robbing the premises committed a brutal outrage upon Mrs. Stump and her two daughters. Two men first bound and gagged Mrs. Stump who is 80 years of age. They sat her in the rocking chair, and the two girls were then bound and thrown on the floor. They then instituted a search of the premises, finding $100 and a certificate of deposit in the Greensburg Bank. Not satisfied with this, they began to abuse the woman and par a rope around the neck of one of the girls—Caroline—threatening to hang her if she did not tell where their money was. She still refused to furnish any information, whereupon they hung her to a raft in the ceiling, and after torturing the girl in a very cruel manner for some time without gaining any clue to the whereabouts of the money they cut her down. The villains then outraged the three women and fled. The victims of the assault are all suffering severely from shock, and livid circles show the marks of the rope which encircled Caroline's neck. Her sister—Mary—is yet unable to walk, and it is feared may not survive. The villains have been shadowed, and it is thought they will be captured soon.

Dr. Mary Walker has been appointed to officiate in the Panola Burial Ground. A nine-year-old boy, living near the village of Saline, Michigan, while playing in his father's barn on Saturday last, fell from a pole suspended from the beams by chains, and was caught in the chains which literally ripped open his mouth to the temple, laying bare the bone and nasal organ.

Unless it had great merit Parker's Ginger Tonic could not be so popular. Its sale has rapidly spread all over this country, because it invalids find it gives them new life and vigor when their medicinal fail entirely. - Ohio Farmer.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes the following from Washington, a few days since a well-known gentleman of this city called at the Chinese embassy and requested of the Minister the privilege of bringing two or three friends to call. The Minister was somewhat embarrassed at the request, as it was not in accordance with his ideas of etiquette, but Oriental politeness forbade a refusal. The next night, to his great dismay, the enterprising American invaded the mansion with a delegation of thirty odd sight-seers of whom the majority were ladies. It was soon evident that they came to spend the evening. The wife of the Minister was up stairs and not mixing in society, according to Chinese law and custom, and she could not make any appearance. The Minister, unable to speak a word of English, did the best he could to entertain his unexpected visitors by the aid of his interpreter, but refreshments before them and permitted himself to be gazed at until curiosity was satisfied. On departing the visitors all exclaimed to each other of the lovely time they had, but there may be serious doubts as to whether their host could say the same.

John Williams, a merchant of Rutledge, Georgia, sent a desperado. The defendant entered the store in a furious passion, held out the sum of money in one hand, clutched a long knife in the other hand, and said: "Williams has over-hand me." Williams knew that an immediate appeal would make him sure of a trial. "Let me get my spectacles so that I may read the paper," he said. He went behind the counter and came back, not with his spectacles, but with an ax across his shoulder. "Yes, he said, 'I have sued you.' 'All right!' replied the desperado, 'I guess I'll pay the bill.'" - New York Post.

Children in the western counties of the state have the whooping cough. "Distemper in a colt takes about three weeks to run its course. All the medicine required is a light dose of Epsom salts—say four to six ounces—and good nursing. Give warm bran mashes. Linseed or oatmeal gruel; keep the animal warm and rub the legs with cloths dipped in hot water. A tablespoonful of mustard in the water would be beneficial if the legs seem to be weak and numb."
