

B. F. SCHWEIER,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Heavy forest fires prevail in the pine forests of Michigan.

The straight out Greenbackers of N. J. have put a ticket in the field.

The Democracy are anxious and are waiting for something to turn up.

GENERAL BEVEL was in Lancaster county all last week working up his cause.

There are just as many Polygamists coming to this country now as ever before.

Two Philadelphia's have struck a 2,000 barrels-a-day oil well, near Warren, and are happy.

They propose to start a glass-alinge factory in Pittsburg. A house shingled with glass would be proof against lightning.

Dr. Hoffman, a Quincy, Ill., editor, was set upon by three citizens, and shot so seriously that his life is despaired of. Ten days bail was required in the sum of $25,000.

A mossaie in human form, in Peoria, Ill., strangled twins that his wife bore him. He strangled them in the cradle and then buried cradle and all, after which he fled the country.

CHAIRMAN COOPER, denies, and says that Cameron did not threaten the business men of the State. Let the business men that were present and heard the utterance speak to the point.

A freight train was wrecked by two rats having been securely bound across the south track at 11:30 o'clock, on the night of the 29th of May, at Shocks' Mills, between Lancaster and Harrisburg.

The question of laying aside the old style of dress, and adopting a stye of dress, more in conformity with the prevalent dress of the country, is a question that is being discussed by the Dunkards.

In the people had their way, the primary laws, and constitution would be amended so as to provide for the election of a President and United States Senators by a popular vote, instead of by an Electoral College, and by Legislatures.

JAMES CHAMBERS, a Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Herald, was fined $1000 for libeling Senator McClellan of New Jersey.

CHAMBERS, who has been in the habit of writing to the Herald and not to scandalous and libelous assertions.

SERGEANT J. JACKSON, was confirmed as Collector of the 23rd district of the State by the U. S. Senate, last Thursday. He was a Cameron man.

Material was opposed to his confirmation, Cameron has the inside track with the administration of President Arthur.

A MASSACHUSETTS state Senator was made insane by the work and excitement of the contest that landed him in the State Hospital. Congressman Fisher, of this Congressional district who overworked himself in the late campaign, perhaps might as well think of the case of the Yankee Senator.

AMONG five sixths of the men in the United States are engaged in agricultural pursuits. When President Arthur appoints the 9 men that are under Congressional enactment to constitute the Farm Commission would it not be as well to put one Granger on the Commission. In that way the sense of the Grangers on the Farm could be learned, perhaps more definitely than in any other way.

"Is May 9, 013 immigrants arrived at Castle Garden, New York. At this rate over a million foreigners will be added to the population of the country within the year, bringing with them an aggregate of probably not less than $100,000,000. This will somewhat counterbalance the outflow of specie, which since January 1 has been $25,791,297, while the import is officially reported at $1,158,095 in five months.

The North American says: Senator Cameron's "confidence" with "business men and others" reminds us of the division of game between the white man and Injun.

"On a lake, the bizzards and I will take the turkey," said the white man; "or I will take the turkey and you take the bizzard." But it is just possible that some of the men to whom he dictated so positively the course they were to pursue are not quite ready to eat crow.

The bloody shirt issue is dead, and the writer of the article, that uses it during the campaign soon to open, will not be listened to. It is reaction upon the intelligence of the country to use it. Where it is used, it is used by men who themselves know no better, or they presume that they are ignorant of the progress of events, that have shelved the bloody shirt question for a time beyond recovery.

The people that ran the Harrisburg Convention, say that they will soon see the State with speakers in the fall term. Two Philadelphia correspondents say that they can speak for themselves when the time comes and that they will meet the dead, with a counter voice. Mean-while subscribe for the Sentinel and Republic, and when the contest comes you will have a paper that will give you a digest of the events and utterances. Beaver has already endorsed the field, last week he was stamping about in Lancaster county.

The contest of Mackey, and Dibble, for a seat in Congress from South Carolina, has been settled in favor of Mackey. The Democrats were in a great huff over the ruling of the Speaker, and wanted the Speaker to permit of the reading of him, and the majority of their number to speak who he desired to. The series of resolutions were also ruled upon. The Speaker ruled that he could not while considering the resolutions take the floor and put one of his own party in the chair who come as well as himself under the sweeping denunciation heaped upon the chair.

A GREAT strike was inaugurated at Pittsburg last Friday. 20,000 men and boys quit work. The strike closed nearly all the work shops in and around the city. The railroads leading out from such a focal point of manufacturing are about the first to feel the loss in the reduction of freight and consequently they had more hands than they could employ and at one stroke discharged 1700 men.

Two hundred and fifty men in the iron works at Louisville Ky., struck. Hod carriers and building laborers at Harrisburg for an advance of 25 cents a day. They have been getting $1.75 per day.

Two thousand iron workers struck at Milwaukee.

An exception to all the strikes last Friday, was found in the actions of several hundred coal miners going to work in the Clearfield mines.

The movement of the Independents brought Senator J. D. Cameron to Philadelphia, a few days ago to confer with friends with regard to what should be done, now that a number of the best class of Republicans are in revolt against certain political methods.

It is reported that the Senator called a number of the best class of Republicans of the city of brotherly love, and threatened, that if they do not come up to the support of the Harrisburg Republican ticket that he will as a Senator while his term lasts do nothing in favor of a protective tariff. That if they do not support the ticket that he favors he will oppose such tariff measures as heretofore have been considered best for the interest of the manufacturing interest.

It is hoped that the Senator expressed to such the intimate friends of his, say, he said no such thing. It is of interest to the people of this Commonwealth to know as to whether one of its senators delivered himself of such a threat. It will not be many days till the truth will be known with regard thereto, Cameron should not be charged with such a statement if he never said it. If he delivered the threat he should be held responsible by the people of a free Commonwealth. More light!

ROGUES' GALLERY PORTRAIT 1,601.

Under the above head the New York Daily Graphic says: The portrait numbered 1,601 in the Rogues' Gallery of the New York Police Department is that of a man who has sunk so low in the social scale that there is scarcely any possibility of going a single step lower.

Twenty-one years ago this very month of April, 1872 he landed in the ruins of Fort Sumter, having been deported to that work by Governor Pickens, whose private secretary he then was.

He had shortly before graduated with high honors from college; his father was a both a man of wealth and social distinction, and a trusted member of the judiciary of the free-floating State; and his future promised to be an exceptionally brilliant one.

He served throughout the war in the Confederate arms, as also did his father, when the war was over they both mounted to positions of influence by accepting the reconstruction acts and the new order of things which they signified.

The father became Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court in which office he died. The son became a member of the Legislature the Speaker of the House, and subsequently Governor of the State.

He had a most winsome manner and persuasive tongue, and they stood him in good stead. He was utterly without conscience, however, and in the listening that made the so-called "carpet-bag" government a by-word everywhere he was the chief plunderer.

Stealing was easy under the circumstances, but what was readily gotten in this man's case as readily vanished. His debaucheries became notorious, and after awhile they even disgusted those who had put him in power, and he was cast out from their midst and his name branded with all infamy.

There was no rest for him in South Carolina after this and he came to New York City. Here his career for several years past has been un- speakably vile, but it was not until his other means of obtaining money failed him that he began the petty swindling operations that finally landed him in the Tombs, put his portrait where it now is, and that will send him to the penitentiary for some years. The name of this man is Franklin J. Moses.

An attempt to escape from the jail at Greensburg was frustrated on Monday by the timely discovery of the plot by the jailer. A piece of paper was discovered in possession of the prisoners which contained a perfect impression of all the keys necessary to get to the outside of the institution. Everything was in readiness to pass the paper out to some parties who were to use the necessary keys. The wife of one of the men is suspected of being used as the messenger, and who had made arrangements to have the required articles manufactured.

The only iron preparation that does not color the teeth, and will not cause headache or constipation, as other iron preparations will, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

A young girl residing with a family near Phoenixville, Chester county, was arrested a few days ago on the charge of robbing the money drawer of a store near where she lived of $84, and was committed for trial. It appears that she and a young man in the neighborhood had made arrangements to elope, but were prevented from carrying out the plan owing to a lack of funds. Not to be thwarted, the would-be bride assumed the task of supplying the want. When the money had been secured, the party took passage on a canal boat, and had proceeded only a short distance on their way toward the haven of matrimony, the eddy descended, picked some planks off a long bridge and carried them several rods away. The next day near Barton woman's dry leaves which fell from a clear sky from a great height. It is supposed that they had been caught up by the whirlwind.

Many wonder how Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

GENERAL ITEMS.
Will Wildred, John Boston and James Alstead, noted desperados, went to Wilkes county, N. C., to rob the log smoke-house of Albert Dyson. They tried on several logs and entered. Dyson saw them and shot and killed Wildred. The others then attempted to get out of the smoke-house, but in so doing knocked down the prop which they had placed under the logs they had tried to gain an entrance, and the logs fell on them, crushing them to death.

Mrs. Lina Howell, Wilmington, Del., was shot by the accidental discharge of a pistol. Her uncle fell into the water and got his clothes so wet that he went to the house for a change. Mrs. Howell was getting a pair of trousers for him when a revolver in the hip pocket fell out, and striking on the floor, was discharged. The bullet passed through the calf of her leg, inflicting a very painful wound.

The wheat crop of Arkansas this season is said to be the best for ten years.

The following is a fresh fish story from Virginia City, Esplanade, the prop which they had placed under the logs they had tried to gain an entrance, and the logs fell on them, crushing them to death.

The Clearfield Journal reports that two children of Peter Roussey, living at Frenchville, that county, have died from the effects of being vaccinated with impure virus. Several other children are suffering from the same cause.

A Berks county farmer says onions pay as well as corn or potatoes, and the crop is easier gathered than either of the other two.

Ten prisoners escaped from the Lancaster jail last Wednesday, by a hole which they cut from the cigar manufacturing department to the jail yard. They scaled the yard wall by means of a rope made of carpet. The term of imprisonment of the escaped convicts ranged between two and nineteen years.

An exchange says: "The clippings of sole leather in New England shoe factories, which were formerly considered worthless, are now converted into buttons for clothes and fancy tack-heads for upholstering, and the surrounding country is relieved of the peculiar and unpleasant odor formerly caused by burning the scraps."

Important To Travellers.
Special inducements are offered you by the Burlington Route. It will pay you to read their advertisement to be found elsewhere in this issue.

The long term prisoners in the jail at Freehold N. J., overpowered the keepers on Tuesday night a week and succeeded in making their escape.

A Family of 25,000 Persons.
John Sharpless came to this country in 1682, and landed on the 24th of August, of that year, at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay. He was an indentured servant, and he was the first white man to proceed up the stream, and it is proposed to celebrate the bi-centennial of the landing of the original Sharpless in August next by a family reunion. Mr. J. Clemons Sharpless has the matter in charge. The programme for the event has not been announced as yet. He expects at least 1000, if not more, of the descendants to be on hand. Mr. Gilbert Cope, of West Chester, the genealogist, has the history of the Sharpless family up to the year 1816, and he has been requested to complete it to date.
