

SENTINEL & REPUBLICAN
MIFFLINTOWN,
Wednesday, June 21, 1882.
B. F. SCHWEIER,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

The growing corn in Illinois is said to be backward.
The Philadelphia Demo cratic knock each other down.
Ones are already coming in from across the sea to buy wheat.
New Texas oats sold in the St. Louis market last week at 55c in bulk, per bushel, and 53c per bush in sack.

A number of government officials refuse to pay assessments for political purposes, they say that the money is generally given to committee men who use it for themselves.
A party of strikers in Cleveland Ohio, arrested for the fact that they did not like on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. But when they qualified that he carried a revolver to protect himself from assaults from strikers, he was acquitted.

Senator Cameron, says that he will neither swear or affirm as to what he said on the tariff question at Philadelphia, so the question is still open.
A number of his friends are both swearing and affirming that he never threatened to leave the tariff men.

On Sunday a week Egyptians killed 250 Europeans, and now the Turkish government, and the Egyptian government will be called on for redress, by European governments.
Europeans that are in the country are hurrying out as fast as they can.

The Philadelphia Record says: There is corn whisky and old rye, and whisky manufactured from wheat and various other kinds of whisky, but whisky from rye is a new article. A Milwaukee dispatch states that a party of New York capitalists has purchased a large tract of land in Shawano county, Wisconsin, and that a $25,000 plant is to be established at once to be utilized in the manufacture of alcohol, acetic acid and charcoal. The capitalists referred to have secured the right to the use of a retort that will condense the smoke of the burning timber, and by a peculiar process extract from one cord of wood six gallons of 85 per cent alcohol, fifty pounds acetate of lime and a residue of acetic acid, leaving sixty bushels of charcoal. Work is to be begun at once.

The New Silk Industry.
The greatest incentive to engage in silk culture is the knowledge that there is a home market for $15,000,000 worth of silk, which American manufacturers are obliged to import from foreign lands. The other consideration is, that silk culture fur nishes women and children in the rural districts, with a congenial occupation that does not require constant attention, and will not inter fere with household duties.
In view of these facts the Women's Silk Culture Association of Philadelphia was organized two years ago, for the purpose of calling the attention of the women of the country to the opportunity given them to establish a new industry, both suitable and profitable; and also to give the necessary instructions to all desiring to engage in silk culture.

The success of this pioneer association is remarkable; there has been a wide spread interest in the cultivation of silkworms, that must go on increasing until the aim of the association is fulfilled.
This fact was most forcibly presented at the last exhibition of the association, at which the display of cocoons was very fine and interesting. The chief feature of the exhibition was the display of specimen cocoons by the twenty-six contestants for the Strawberry & Clothier premium. The first one of which, by the way, was carried off by Mrs. Rebecca Taylor, (mother of the late General Taylor), who is over 82 years of age, and a sufferer from paralysis.

The association announces that, through the liberality of Messrs. Strawberry & Clothier the well known dry goods merchant of Philadelphia, it is again enabled to offer to the silk culturists the sum of five hundred dollars in ten premiums, as follows: first premium, $100; second premium, $75; third premium, $50; fourth premium, $30; fifth premium, $20; sixth premium, $15; seventh premium, $10; eighth premium, $5; ninth premium, $3; tenth premium, $1. For these premiums any resident of the United States may contest. From the ten largest amounts of cocoons, one pound will be taken, without selection, and the test of reeling applied; the quantity and quality will be the conditions for premium. Applicants for competition must be endorsed by the amount of the premium raised by the culturist, testified to by some responsible person. Stock not to be sent later than December 1, 1882.

Anyone with sufficient land to grow a few mulberry trees can add the rearing of silk worms to the daily care and find it a source of pleasure and profit. The work occupies but a small portion of the year, and a child can attend to the daily gathering of leaves and feeding the worms.
If a supply of mulberry leaves cannot be had, an orange or hedge will answer every purpose. The orange or leaf is a desirable food for the silk worms, from which they spin splendid silk.

A very interesting event of national interest, connected with this subject of silk culture, has just occurred in Philadelphia. The Women's Silk Culture Association selected silk from twenty six families living in fourteen states; had it spun on a "Yankee" reel, made into a web of twenty-eight thousand threads, and woven on a broad loom as a broadie on a Jacquard loom, requiring three thousand six hundred needles to form the original and striking design. This is the first broadie ever woven in America of American silk; and probably the heaviest in texture of any broadie ever woven. It is known as the Garfield dress, as it is the intention of the association to present this magnificent fabric to Mrs. James A. Garfield.
The annual reunion of the 131st Regiment P. V. will take place at Gettysburg, September 13, 1882.

The friends of the candidates and principles of the Philadelphia convention held a ratification meeting at Philadelphia on the 13th inst. General J. K. Moore presided. The Harrisburg convention people had all along claimed the General as one of their own, and no little surprise was manifested when he came forward as the President of the meeting and delivered an Independent speech. Col. McMichael candidate for Congress at large made a speech. Col. Duff, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, delivered a speech. Senator Stewart, candidate for Governor, delivered an able speech, on political outrages, and party abuse that grows out of long personal rule. The meeting was large, and many of the industrial Republicans of the city attended.

The Philadelphia Times in these commencement days, steps up and delivers itself of the following speech: The old habit of having somebody to make a speech in Latin or Greek at college commencements has not yet died out. The friends and relations who have the amability to sit patiently during the delivery of these classic productions are good enough to smile upon them and say that they were very good indeed. Why cannot some of the colleges announce speeches in Japanese or Chinese? Most people understand speeches in these languages quite as well as they do the Latin and Greek ones. The old fellows who spoke Latin and ancient Greek are dead and gone. Japanese and Chinese are living languages of to-day, and the use of them might indicate a degree of modern progress highly to be commended.

A tale of the smart boy of the period is told as follows by the Philadelphia Times. The boys should read it. John Tombrides, aged 17, and late of Minnesota, was what is usually called a smart boy. He was a progressive, enterprising, up-to-the-times young man, who believed that the world had moved since the days when his father had committed to memory the maxims of poor Richard and Solomon. His parents were willing to support John and his numerous brothers and sisters by the old-fashioned method of hard work. But John looked with contempt upon these evidences of old-fogyism and expressly denominated them as "slow." He had literary tastes too, and the progressive characteristics of his nature were shown in his choice of books. He did not waste his time upon the sloopy biographies of Plutarch or the pleasant tale of the truly good Sauter and Merton, which used to satisfy the moderate tastes of slow-going grandfathers. The thrilling Washington and his battles had no charms for him and the old fashioned Bible was for him quite out of date. He delighted in the tales of the manly and vigorous James boys, the Younger brothers, Billy the kid, Burton the stage robber, and other equal and progressive and famous worthies. As he read the thrilling tales of heroism recorded in these entertaining histories he could achieve as great exploits as any of the heroes therein chronicled.

But his many another budding genius John was not appreciated. There was an unceasing preaching on the part of his parents and neighbors against the methods of his favorite heroes, and they emphatically discouraged his peculiar aspirations. But John was determined to succeed in life if he had to leave home to do it. He conceived the idea of seeking general society among the cowboys on the plains, believing that there his progressive genius would receive sympathetic recognition. But money was needed for traveling expenses, and he did not possess it. Just at this juncture fortune favored our budding hero by throwing in his way a young surveyor and his assistant, who were the possessors of sufficient funds to meet John's urgent wants. John proceeded to make himself master of the coveted wealth after the usual manner of his favorite heroes, by the aid of an axe and a double-barreled gun, which he used with such effect that both the engineering strangers were killed.

The smart John then hid away to the Black Hills to commence life for himself and grow up with the comely and the millions of a slow and old-fashioned lawyer intercepted the smart young man and placed him in duress on a charge of murder. And one dark night twenty of his neighbors, who concluded John was too smart for this world, took him out of jail and hung him by the neck to a telegraph pole till he was dead. And thus ends both the tale and the smart boy.

From the Boston Herald.
There was considerable excitement in the New York and New England Railroad yard yesterday afternoon connected with the removal of a monster whale to the foot of Essex street. The hugh fish is the same one which was caught off Provincetown in the middle of April, and during the interval it has been undergoing the tedious process of embalming, preparatory to a tour throughout the United States and British provinces. It occupies two long platform cars and is said to be the largest whale of any kind ever brought safely into an American port. It is sixty-two feet in length and its estimated weight when captured was fifty-two tons. In the process of embalming three thousand two hundred pounds of arsenic were used together with twenty barrels of plaster, eighty barrels of sawdust, besides several thousand pounds of other material of a chemical and preservative nature. The monster is a veritable aquatic Jumbo, and the triumph of science is successfully embalmimg him is as wonderful as the difficult capture of the whale itself.

Rev. S. S. Dillon, colored, of Cincinnati made a pastoral call on Mrs. Gaines, and accepted an invitation to remain for supper. He went up stairs to brush his hair, and Mrs. Gaines, remembering the sum of $35 was in that room, thought it desirable to go up and lock the trunk which held the coin. But she did not get quickly enough. After the minister's departure she missed the money. This time she moved with celerity, and he was arrested with the plunder in his pocket.

GENERAL ITEMS.
A million pounds of Buffalo meat were shipped from the plains last year. Nearly 700 bushels of onions per acre were raised last year by Mr. George O. Mason, of Beverly, Mass.
An English mechanic has invented a boraxose composed of fibre thickness of corvide compressed into a steel mould and subjected to a chemical preparation. It will last longer than the common shoe, weighs only one fourth as much, does not split the hoof, requires no calks and is very elastic.
A few evenings ago a young gentleman at Thomaston, Georgia, called to see a young lady and left his chewing gum on the gate post. A pet bird carried the gum away and was found in the yard the following day dead. Post mortem examination resulted in finding the gum in the bird's craw. It is believed that the young man had been chewing tobacco previously, and the tobacco was the cause of the bird's death.

While preaching fervidly at Lafayette, Ind., the Rev. H. A. Bucholt suddenly dropped out of sight behind the desk. The congregation thought he had been stricken by heart disease or paralysis, and there was a great hubbub, but the pastor slowly rose, and explained that he had inadvertently thrown his weight on a weak knee, which was dislocated by the strain.
Disputes from different points in the northwest continue clear and cool and all grain is doing splendidly, except corn. Wheat in the northern part of Minnesota is four inches high. In the southern country it is further advanced, and barley and rye are heading out.

Other David Byron, the actor, has obtained possession of the ties used in the construction of the temporary track between Elberston and Franklin Cottage, in which Garfield died, and is having them dressed at a planing mill. He will use them in the erection of a log cabin near his residence at Atlanticville.
At Buckland, in England, a very fine elm tree of great age, which was the principal ornament of the churchyard, was blown down and split by the recent gale, when it was discovered that the enormous trunk was a beehive, containing an accumulation of honey weighing over 3 cwt.

John M. Nellis, Genl. Sartoris, rests the responsibility of having made brick red kid gloves popular in Washington. There are seven crows in Chester county which use 64,000 pounds of milk daily.
Stephen H. Jackson, a well-to-do farmer, sixty years of age, residing near Unionville, Chester county, committed suicide on Tuesday by cutting his throat. He has suffered severely with dyspepsia for years, and it is thought by his friends that his continuing sickness had unsettled his mind.
Two girls in North Carolina found the love of a young man, and one was killed and the other nearly so. It is said they fought like tigers.

Young English ladies walk about London alone now, after a fashion unknown twenty years ago.
Mrs. Garfield has sent a check for $500 to the building fund of the Memorial Christian Church, Washington, and pledged an additional $500 if needed. The church will be built this summer at a cost of $4,000, and the congregation expect to hold Thanksgiving services in it.
In a Chicago murder trial, the prisoner demanded that the widow and three children of the slain man be removed from the room, as the cry of the babe always annoyed him and as he believed they were present to influence the jury. The Judge declined to exclude them, but the District Attorney moved for their removal to his private office.
Edward Rosner's wife deserted him five days after the marriage, at Farmington, Me., drove him to suicide by her heartless perfidy, and married his rival one day after becoming a widow; yet she claims his entire estate, and will get it there being no other heirs.

The last census established the fact that Rhode Island, the smallest state of the Union, is the most thickly inhabited. The number of inhabitants to the square mile is 254.87, Massachusetts coming next with 221.78.

An Indianapolis preacher has been presented with a pair of sleeve buttons by a well known gambler because he said in a sermon that common gamblers were no worse than speculators in stocks.
The people of Staronville, Ohio, were surprised when Mr. Heine, aged 40 married Mrs. Rosser, aged 76, but not when he disappeared with her $2,300.

A young, rich, and pretty widow in London, with plenty of animal spirits, and in want of some innocent amusement, hit on the original plan of sending her name in the books of a matrimonial agency as a wealthy but blind candidate for matrimony. The number of suitors was legion and the charming widow amused herself to her heart's content. Some came in shabby clothes, some stretched themselves at full length on the sofa and made themselves quite at home, but spoke in tones of the deepest affection. The charming widow was, however, soon obliged to cut the joke short, for one of her suitors, after annexing a pair of candlesticks, introduced a bunch of long fingers into her pocket and abstracted her purse.
Under the order of the attorney general for the dissolution of graveyard insurance companies 170 of them have been dissolved. Of this number 44 will contest the right of the state's officer to close them up.

An ex-Governor Moses of South Carolina, is working in the shoe-shop of Blackwell's Island Penitentiary.
Dyspepsia, the dog-bear of epicurians, will be relieved by Brown's Iron Bitters.

DISPATCHES.
LAWRENCE, Kan., June 11.—Peter Vineyard, George Robinson and Ike King, all colored, were taken from jail here yesterday morning, at 1 o'clock, by a crowd of riotous men, and hanged from the bridge. Sheriff Asher offered all the resistance in his power, but was compelled to submit. Robinson pleaded for his life and fell on his knees three times while being taken to the point of execution. King said, when he was about to drop: "Boys, let me down easy." The men beyond said: "D'd hell let Bauman down easy?" and gave King a shove. The necks of Vineyard and Robinson were broken, but King's was not. Last night there was talk of revenge by the colored people, though most of them say the punishment was deserved. Vineyard had his life insured for $50,000. The crime for which these three men were thus summarily punished was the murder of David Bauman, of Southern Ohio, a well-to-do farmer. Bauman came here about a week ago on a visit to relatives in the country, became intoxicated and was lured to the river bank by a degraded daughter of Vineyard, where the three murdered and robbed their victim. All confessed their guilt after arrest.
It is reported that small insects, known as "white midges," are doing much damage to the wheat and oats of southern Virginia.
Thirty-five deaths from yellow fever occurred in Havana since July 4th ago.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—About 10 o'clock this morning a bright phenomenon, in the shape of a bright, conical double rainbow, bathed the sun, attracted much attention in this city. The spectacle lasted nearly half an hour, and then gradually faded away.
While Edward Hurd, of Susquehanna, Wayne county, was driving through the woods on Wednesday, near Staronville, a highwayman, whose features were concealed by a black mask, sprang from behind a pile of brush and, drawing two pistols, ordered him to "stand and deliver." Hurd was alone, unarmed and had a considerable sum of money in his pockets. Washing to escape, if possible, he sprang from the wagon and ran as fast as he could down the road. The highwayman pursued him and failing to catch him fired a shot which took effect in Hurd's back and made him fall. He regained his feet, however, and in a few steps more came within eight of a house. He screamed for help and fell exhausted. The highwayman fled. The men who came in response to Hurd's call assisted him to the house, when a physician was sent for and the wound, which was found to be a very dangerous one, dressed. Hurd's team was found near where he was stopped by the masked highwayman, but no clue to the criminal was obtained. The man has been placed in the hands of detectives and it is hoped the desperado will be captured.

New York, June 14.—Frederick Voss, a boy of eight, through his guardian, recovered a verdict to-day in the Supreme Court against the Third Avenue Railway Company for $20,000 for the loss of a life occasioned by being run over by one of the defendant's cars, on the 19th of June, 1880. The suit was brought for $50,000. It is probable that the railroad company will appeal the case.
