White once-embleme of purche Which we sometime hope to be, And the 'circling "imantle of charity" Carried by you and by me.

Pink on s-flushed with the glory Of the rosente joy of the morn, When Bethlehem's star fold the story That a Saviour to earth was born.

Bige ones, true and tender. Like angel eyes-seeing needs; Heipless to do and to render Always kind words and decis.

And the dely which is ever all. Like the blessings which come and rest As the dew-drops gather and fall On the flow r's upturned breast.

And so many we gather and hold From the mighty Alchemist's hand, The distilled drops of gold,

From a spining precious band. Let pearls-purity, charity, white and fair, Pink diamonds-joy and hope spatking with Miss Evans?"
