The people generally get that which they make a market for. They demanded better newspapers, and within the last few years journalism has made rapid strides. THE TIMES, which from the day of its first issue, took place in the front rank of progressive journalism, has kept along at the double quick step, and at this time is a better newspaper than ever. It is a journal that never sleeps and never takes a boliday. As there are 365 days, so there are 365 issues of the THE TIMES in a year. The week day edition of THE TIMES is of four pases, being in a form suitable for the busy man or the busy woman. The Sunday edition, of eight pages, contains a great deal of the best mescellany as well as all the nows. The editorial strength of THE TIMES need not be dwelt upon-the fact that it is quoted more than any other paper in America Office on Bridge street opposite South is sufficient evidence of its expolicage in that direction. Nor need the typographical superiority be more than mentioned-for it is widely known as "the bandsomest paper in the country."
