It is worth while to remember the fact, that the accidental discovery has been made by a French surgeon that lowering the head and raising the feet of patients who have been treated with chloroform will cause a speedy return of consciousness, and it is thought that an observance of this simple fact will greatly lessen the danger attending the use of an anesthetic.

The Democratic brethren are pointing the gun for the campaign of 1884, and are conjuring up the record of Jefferson and Jackson, hoping thereby to create a public sentiment in their favor.

down. At Albany eight persons were killed and about twenty five wounded. At Eastman two are reported killed. The track of the tornado in Dougherty county is reported as a quarter of a mile wide. The storm in south western Georgia was attended by a large loss of life and property. Not less than twenty five deaths are reported, while the number of injured cannot be estimated.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., the wind and rain storm continued until midnight on Sunday. Hundreds of acres of the richest land have been submerged and planters will sustain heavy loss.

The town of Tullman, on the Natchez and Columbus Railroad, was destroyed and several persons killed.

From a number of other points on the Mississippi there are similar reports, nearly all attended with heavy loss of life. The track of the storm was southeast to northwest and its path about 300 yards wide.

The tornado in Monroe county, Miss., destroyed lives and wounded many persons seriously, carrying away houses, fences, bridges and everything in its path. A suburb of Aberdeen containing twenty five or thirty colored families was absolutely wiped out, three of the negroes being killed and two others have since died from their wounds while twenty five are under treatment, many of them in a precarious condition.

George Buckley, of Wayne township, fell dead on Wednesday evening, about half past six o'clock, from what was supposed to be a rush of blood to the head.

The young folks of Decatur have started an educational society, which meets every Saturday evening. The principle branches which they have taken for their studies are grammar, reading and arithmetic.

The firm of Sobor, Harris & Beecher, now operating near Coburn station, Center county, have purchased the timber right of about 6 hundred acres along west Kishacoquillas creek, above Reedsville. A team road which will probably cost $5,000 will be constructed by which to convey the lumber to a steam mill to be located at a point near the railroad bridge below Reedsville.

A man named Kerns and a companion went out on the river in a boat after ducks, Kerns, having placed a heavy charge in his gun, and having, as he thought, a good shot at some birds, got down on his knees in the boat and fired. The gun was a contrary kind and went off both ways, knocking him out of the boat into the water on one side and the gun disappearing on the other. His companion, whose attention was attracted in another direction, did not notice the result of the shot and he was not missed until almost exhausted, and then was assisted into the boat with considerable difficulty, minus a gun and ammunition.

On the evening of April 25, at 7 o'clock Depot Baggage master Mills lighted the lamp in the waiting-room at the Junction station. A few minutes afterwards he had occasion to go to McKee's store, and being gone but a short time to find the station once more returned to find the station once more in darkness. Upon relighting the lamps he made the startling discovery that some miscreant had been there during his absence, and had forced open the delivery window of the ticket office in the gentlemen's waiting-room, thereby gaining an entrance to the same. Upon investigation of affairs in the office was found that the burglar had broken open the drawer containing the money, and had appropriated over $150 of the contents. The thief undoubtedly was frightened, before his work was completed as he left considerable money in the drawer.

Perry County, PER HUNTINGDON COUNTY PAPERS, LAST WEEK

Fifty-one inches of snow fell in Perry county during the last winter, if calculation of observation are correct.

The Fifth annual Sunday school convention of Perry county, will meet in Millertown, on the 15th and 16th of May.

The residence of Lloyd Finnicule with all its contents, in Watts township, was consumed by fire. Cause of fire unknown.

A boy named Ensminger had the bridge of his nose broken and face badly bruised by being butted by a ram on the Orr farm, near Devilville.

The Froeman remarks, Millintown Dispatch, printing Pennsylvania Dutch, ought to accompany it with an English translation, if it is to be generally understood.

The borough authorities of Millertown have posted notices forbidding all ball playing on the street. Bloomfield has an ordinance against ball playing on the streets.

On Monday forenoon, half an hour before the arrival of the 10:32 mail train, three stones came rolling down the mountain, right at the station across the river. The largest one, a boulder supposed to weigh several tons, came down first. It landed several feet on the other side of the railroad track just above the station, made a bound over the railroad and river bank—a distance of about thirty feet—struck the ground within several feet of the water's edge, and bounded again a distance of about fifteen feet into the river. The other two came shortly afterwards, both at the same time. One, supposed to weigh at least several hundred pounds, struck the station house, knocked a hole through the weatherboarding, studding and plastering, went into the dining room and demolished the cook stove and the sewing machine. It had to be broken to pieces to get it out. The other, the smallest one, struck the lower part of the passenger room window, demolished the sash, scattering the glass all over the room, knocked off the lower part of the window frame, knocked a piece of the stove, John Eberline, a young man, one of the family that lives there, was standing at the dining room door and saw the stones coming down. He got the other members of the family, who happened to be in the room, to come to where he stood, or some might have been killed. The stones started about half way up the mountain. There is another loose boulder where they started.—Liverpool Sun.

Lead has been found on a farm that has been advertised in the columns of the Sentinel and Republican. The farm is in the west end of the county, and belongs to Rev. Mr. Ross.

On account of a trouble best known to themselves, two citizens of Patterson, named Hagan and Kepner, came to blows last Saturday evening on the station platform. Kepner delivered a stunning stroke with his fist on Hagan's head which knocked Hagan senseless to the ground for several minutes and by the time he was ready to come up to the scratch, friends came to the scene and put an end to the trouble. Knock downs are not fashionable these days, but such a settlement of a dispute that should never have happened, is more honorable than to invoke the aid of a judge, a lot of witnesses, a lot of lawyers and 12 juries to settle it.

A new fence has been put along 3rd street front of the Lutheran grave yard. Rev. Mr. Berry did a good deal of work of the constructing of the fence. The Lutheran congregation here a valuable property, and their pastor gives a great deal of personal hand service toward the keeping up of repairs which is a fact to be highly appreciated in addition to his good preaching.

Common services will begin on Friday evening in the Chapel. The Sermon of the week's service will be given on the Sabbath. Rev. Mr. Pomeroy will assist Mr. Beaugh during the services.

Mr. Arthur was greeted by a few foot-blacks when, being Southward bound, he passed through Alexandria, Va. But Alexandria treats Presidents with a certain degree of disdain. General Washington was knocked down in the market-places there; General Jackson had his nose pulled at the wharf; Mr. Johnson stood for half an hour at the foot of King street, when connection with Washington was made by steamboat, without having a word exchanged with him, and Mr. Hayes fell from a platform and skinned his shin.

ATTENTION.—House-keepers, you may find a large assortment of cook stoves at McClellin's.

One of the most remarkable pieces of work ever executed in this town was that of raising the west end or side of the Gray-bill store building in this town. The work was under the management of C. B. Horning. The building is one of the largest in the county. Six "railroad jack screws" the united lifting capacity of which was 76 tons, were put under the west wall of the building, and the screws being worked the wall was raised up to its original height from which it had sunk a number of inches.

One of the indispensable things is a cook stove, go to McClellin's and buy a cook stove.

Postponed. "The convention of the county Sabbath School Association, is postponed until the 6th and 7th of June on account of the unavoidable absence of the pastor of the Academia Church, THOMAS A. ELDER, D.D., Ex. committ.

We are indebted to Rev. E. Arthur for two numbers of the Siam Weekly Advertiser, published at Bangkok, Asia. They are small five column folio papers in the English language. The subscription price of the Advertiser is $12 per annum, single copy 50 cts. Think of paying $12 per annum for a weekly newspaper that is little more than half as large as the Sentinel and Republican. We regret that the papers came too late for a more extended notice of them this week. It seems queer to read of industrial festivals, social and political gatherings taking place in this day and generation, queer to an American.

The Pennsylvania railroad company has issued a summer note book, which you are looking into, with profit by many people. For the person that contemplates taking a summer trip or excursion to the sea, the note book contains valuable information. The interesting little book is divided into a number of chapters, first, The Invitation, Second, Cape May, Third, The Life along the Shore, Fourth, Cape May to Atlantic City, Fifth, Road and Gun, Sixth, Atlantic City, Seventh, The Coast Climate, Eighth, The Art of Traveling, Ninth, Hints to Bathers.

I would inform the public that I will open a new millinery store at my place of residence on Water-street, Millintown, second door from corner of Bridge street, on Saturday May 5th. Having just returned from the city with a full stock of spring, and summer, millinery goods, all new, and of the latest styles, and having employed first class milliners, I am prepared to supply the public with everything found in a first class millinery store, come and examine my stock. I consider it no trouble to show goods. MRS. DEHILL, May 2-83, 1/2.

Who in this day of so called high civilization, would expect to hear that the skin of a woman had been tanned for slipper uppers, in Massachusetts, the most pretensions of the Yankee states? No one, the reporter will indignantly answer, but here is the dispatch that relates the shocking piece of intelligence.

Borox, April 25.—The Tewksbury Almshouse investigation was resumed this morning. Christian Mueller testified to tanning human skins received from various doctors and students, and a pair of uppers for slippers made from a woman's skin were shown.

Last Thursday morning, as Jefferson Middah was driving with two friends in a carriage along the south side of Court House Square, the right side horse frightened at agricultural implements, and reared on his hind legs and jumped about 100 feet from the track, caught on the tongue of the carriage, and that threw the beast on the ground on its side. People in number ran there and assisted Mr. Middah to extricate the animal from its fallen position. The beast was all right when it again stood on its feet; the harness was unbroken, and the carriage was whole. Sheriff Shively had a thumb bruised a little while helping to loosen the harness of the horse that ran down.

The executive committee of the Veteran Association of Juniata county, consisting of J. W. Hughes, chairman, S. L. McAlister, Wm. Fry, Wm. Graham and James Russell met in the Post room in this place last Wednesday and unanimously resolved to hold a reunion this year. Dr. L. E. Atkinson, H. H. Snyder and S. L. McAlister was appointed a committee to consider invitations as to where the reunion should be held. The time and place concluded upon for the holding of the committee will be announced in due time.

A romantic incident has recently occurred in a prosperous London suburb. A devoted young High Church curate of increasing appearance and great popularity in his district was waited upon by a young lady of considerable attractions, but with an air of deep melancholy, and clad in a somewhat ascetic garb. After some conversation and the shedding of a tear she revealed to him that she had ventured to visit him on a matter deeply affecting her happiness, she feared her life. The curate naturally asked what it might be, but after several attempts to speak, choked by sobs, she informed him that the matter was one of such deep importance that she could not impart it except at her own abode, where she assured him as her spiritual friend, by all he held sacred, to visit her. After some little conversation the reverend gentleman promised to do so, the next day he called at the address given him.

Then the young lady, with a look of still deeper dejection and a voice indicative of remorse and shame, revealed to him the fatal secret. She had conceived a deep, passionate love for the curate himself. She knew, she said, that her passion was hopeless, but she loved him all more, and she would resign herself to a life of celibacy, and she would resignedly carry her attachment to the grave, which she felt was not far off. But there was one kindness which it was in his power to grant her, the remembrance of which would bring consolation to her dark and weary path. Would he before they parted forward, give her one kiss? After some timidity and agitation the young curate, touched with pity, complied. The lady shed another tear, bade him adieu in a hollow voice, and he departed.

A few days afterwards he received a neat little parcel graciously tied with a piece of blue ribbon, and on opening it found an instantaneous photograph (cabinet size) of himself kissing the young lady. Accompanying this was a communication from the fair creature herself that there were 11 more copies and that he might have that whole dozen at $20 apiece. Should he not be in want of them it was her intention to dispose of them to another quarter. Negotiations on the subject are said to be proceeding.
