

The Bradford Era has been reduced in size. No black frost has appeared in Delaware to scare the peach growers. One of the lawyers in the Star Route case talked 7 days to the jury. The jury still lives. Cincinnati, Ohio, has an ambition to eclipse every other city on this continent in Dramatic Festival.

ed before the missing pocket-book containing $30,000 was found. He is believed to be a member of the Philadelphia Police. He was seen at the residence of the missing money. The idea of restoring the supposed stolen money to the Prince from the public funds, in hope of thus winning favor for zeal and efficiency, speaks well for the police officer's ingenuity, but presents a curious phase of Russian official ethics.

This is what the North American says on the temperance question: Temperance Legislation seems to be having a hard time of it in various States, and even when after hard battles some system of prohibition is passed, the Legislature, the executive, the judiciary, the clergy, the press, the people, all seem to be against it.

The Greenback State Committee held a meeting at Harrisburg last week, 19 members being present. It was agreed to hold a convention at Williamsport on the 20th of next August. Levi L. Tate, one of the oldest editors and publishers of the State, died a few days ago in Williamsport. He was born in Clearfield county in 1810 and in fifty years had published nine different newspapers.

On the morning of the 1st instant over 5,000 bituminous coal miners in the vicinity of Pittsburg struck for the fractional part of a cent on a bushel of coal. The operators were willing to pay 3cts per bushel. The Pennsylvania Board of Pardons have recommended the commutation of Israel Erb's sentence from hanging to imprisonment for life. Erb was one of the gang that murdered the Kintzlers in Snyder county a few years ago.

The Legislature should pass an apportionment bill before it adjourns. It will not be good for the political health of such members that have ambition for office in the future, if they allow the Legislature to adjourn without passing an apportionment bill. There are about 6,000 coal miners in the Western part of the State on a strike; the difference of price per bushel for which they have struck is a half cent. A man has a right to strike or quit work for another man, but he has no right to molest some one else from taking his place at the work that he abandoned.

Jeff Davis is out in a letter declaring that if such and such a thing had not taken place the Southern Confederacy would have been a success. Certainly, Mr. Davis is correct about the ifs. If he had read the ifs correctly he would never have resorted to the sword to perpetuate human slavery in America.

Information from the islands of the sea relate that, less than a century ago Hawaii was a land of cannibals and savages. Now all the modern agricultural and mechanical implements are used there. The city of Honolulu has 300 telephones, and several of the large sugar planters on its outskirts cut their cane by electric light.

A Despatch from California says, considerably over the appearance of an insect which it is feared will prove disastrous to the crops. It first appears as a small green louse, but in a few days develops into a fly with gauzy wings. Some alarmists claim that if the appearance of the bug becomes general throughout the State the wheat crop will be entirely swept away.

The Philadelphia Times of May 4, says, the kindest hearted man in Pennsylvania lives on a farm near Erie. When the annual pilgrimage of the aimless tramp begins this man fixes a sleeping place in one corner of his barn and throws it open, free of charge, to tramps of every class, sex or color. He claims that this method is preferable to the shotgun, the club or the hungry bulldog. If the Society for the Suppression of Tramps will now follow up the teachings of its unwritten by-laws, this easy-going farmer should be sent to the penitentiary for encouraging vice and idleness.

It is openly charged in certain quarters in this country that an organized ring has been in existence for some time past, composed of certain members of the bar of the county, for the dishonorable purpose of speculating on real estate sold at Sheriff's sale. Of the correctness of the charge we know nothing.—Orbitalia Dispatch.

Perry County, AS PER COUNTY PAPERS, LAST WEEK. The wheat crops in Perry looks promising. Marshall furnace will shut down for repairs. A. G. A. R. Post is to be organized at Liverpool.

David Graham of Duncannon ate 30 oranges within 20 minutes. New Port expects to enjoy a fashionable wedding in the near future. There are no signs of the reappearance of the potato bug this spring.

Last week the river at Millersburg was blocked with rats for a distance of a quarter mile, with from 8 to 10 rats lying abreast. The lumbering business there has not been so promising for years. The other night a thief gained admission to the residence of Rev. S. W. Seibert in New Port. The thief took a basket containing a roll of fresh butter and some cakes, he took a vest from Dr. Seibert's trunk and a pair of gloves from Dr. Seibert's overcoat pocket, he was tracked in the direction of the railroad next morning.

The Bloomsfield Democrat says, it seems that, after all, the route of the new railroad to the West has not yet been certainly and finally determined. Engineers are again at work. If the main line of the road should be run through the Cumberland Valley it is still probable that a branch road will be made through this county. No reliance, however, can be placed in any of the rumors in regard to the new road and we do not desire to encourage hopes that may never be realized.

This is a Philadelphia local from the Philadelphia Times of May 1st and explains itself. A fraud story of a woman's pluck was told in Judge Allison's Court of the Quarter Session yesterday in confusion with the prosecution of John Smith, who pleaded guilty to having entered the dwelling of George Francis in the night, with intent to steal. Smith was about 6 feet tall, robust and of apparently great muscular development. Testimony was taken to enable the Court to determine what degree of punishment should be imposed.

The chief witness was Francis' wife, a burton middle-aged Irish woman. Francis is a German. "In the middle of the night," she said, "when I was in a drowse, I seemed to hear a great noise. But I didn't mind it, for I thought it was my husband moving his feet. A little while after that one of my 5 little children started up in bed and I wakened. "Phwat's that?" says I. "Nothin', mammy," says she, but she was tremblin' like a leaf and seemed afraid to talk. So I knew something was up and it wasn't pleasant, I assure you. I looked over at my husband. He was sound asleep. His feet were perfectly still and I knew that they did not make the noise.

"My little gurl was still sitting up and tramblin' and starnin' hard at somethin' in the dark. I followed the course of her eyes and heevehedethme us an' ev'ry thing I thought I saw!" "What?" asked Assistant District Attorney Kinsey, with evident interest.

"That big man in the doek, just creeping under my bed. Did I holler? Oh no, I quietly took hold of the blanket, never sayin' a word and my husband still snorin', and I waited, scarcely breathin', till the man got near enough to me, when I whipped the blanket over his head and held him there as noise as you please. Ah, ha! he says I have you now in a net. Wid that he set up such a squirming 'n' scrugglin' I thought he would escape me. He's a good 6 feet, as you can see, and broad across, as he was like a whale in a berlin net. But I held him in the blanket with my head to the floor till my husband, wakened by the noise and the scrammin' of my childer jumped out of bed to help me. I gave my husband the blanket, and he snatched up my youngest boy, 8 months old, I ran to the windy and cried for help. The man and my husband had it together. The man managed to get his head out of the blanket and bolted for the dure and my husband after him. The thief slipped on the second or third step and tumbled all the way to the bottom. I saw an officer on the street. I called out to him and he came in and arrested the thief. A lot of buttons and spoons of thread and other things were found in the man's pockets, and a pair of my husband's pantaloons found at his feet. "That's all, but I don't want to do any more robber catchin', while I live, I assure you."

Mrs. Francis' story was corroborated by her husband and a police officer. Smith, who had all the while maintained a stony stare, declared that he could not speak English. All that he had entered a plea of guilty, he said through an interpreter that he was a married man and had got into Mr. Francis' house by mistake and had laid down to sleep. He had entered, he said, "through a window." He had pulled Mr. Francis' trousers down with him from a nail in the wall, he declared, when he tumbled down stairs. He could not account for the buttons and other things in his pocket, except upon the theory that they had got there by "a mistake." When the Judge told that his explanation was too lame to be accepted he broke out into English that was perhaps better than the interpreter's. He was sent to the Eastern Penitentiary for 2 years.

The Pennsylvania railroad reports that the quantity of coal and coke carried over its lines for the week ending April 11 was 227,849 tons, which is 158,578 tons ahead of and 60,271 tons more than for the corresponding week of the previous year. This weekly tonnage 171,525 tons originated on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, while the remainder originated on its branch line. The total tonnage for the year thus far has been 3,687,632 tons, of which 2,741,270 tons were coal and 946,362 tons. These figures embrace all coal and coke carried over the road, east and west. Tragedy in Kentucky. HARRODSBURG April 28. Walter H. Davis, who was shot and killed by Congressmen Philip B. Thompson yesterday morning, was burned yesterday afternoon. The Knights of Honor and Odd Fellows attended the funeral. Davis is not the first man killed by Thompson. He has pulled his revolver in self-defense before, but never in the offensive. He was a member of Morgan's band during the war. It is told of him that once he shot down 2 men who held their rifles aimed at his. Again, while an attorney in a case in Harrodsburg, 3 men entered who had a feud with his family. Two members of it besides himself were in the room. The intruders pulled their revolvers and fired. One of the 6 engaged in the fight which followed "Philip" Thompson was the only one left alive. His plan was self-defense and he was acquitted. Thompson was a very peculiar man. He has been twice elected to Congress and his public sympathy is evidently with him. Thompson and Davis met accidentally yesterday morning in the train when a few miles from this place. Davis advanced with his hand extended and with a greeting on his lips. Thompson drew his pistol. Davis turned and ran. He slammed the door behind him, but the bullet was too quick. It broke the glass in the door and lodged in Davis' brain.

On all sides intense excitement prevailed. Every body knew just what had happened, and men, women and children seemed to come out of the earth. They hurried to the scene of the accident and crowded around the mouth of the pit. The women, with blanched faces, gave way to grief in its most violent form. Their walls could be heard for a long distance. When the first body was brought to the surface the wildest scene ensued. Every one crowded about. Jones was a boy, 19 years, and as his mother bent over his blackened form she fainted dead away. She was carried from the scene unconscious. Anxiously the crowd awaited as each of the dead bodies were pulled down to the surface and mournful processions followed the unfortunate men to their last homes.

Walker is seriously injured and it is thought that he cannot recover. Tyler's condition is pronounced hopeless and his death is expected. He is shockingly burned all over. All men residing around the mine and leave large families, with the exception of Andrew Jones. Walker had only started to work in the mine a few weeks ago and his carelessness and inexperience caused the explosion. Reagan lost a wife and 6 children. Tyler also has a large family. Terrible as the explosion was, the damage to the mine, strange to say, is comparatively small.

THE STORY TOLD TO THE COURT. May it please your Honor, I know it is not customary on occasions of this kind for the person appearing before the court to make any statement of the facts, but I deem it due to myself, the position I occupy, the community and I have lived on and who have so often honored me, that I should say something in reference to this unfortunate affair. I need not point to my long life and unblemished character for honor before this people as a justification of what I do, but I do feel that they should know from me, or hear from me, a portion, at least, of the history of the case. Last December, being called to Washington by my duties growing out of my position, I was accompanied by my wife to Cincinnati, and being anxious to get to Washington as soon as possible I left that city on Monday, the same day of my arrival there, and left her with friends. The next day Mr. Davis, the deceased, came to Cincinnati, and, having met her upon the street, registered himself at a hotel and learning from her and the lady who accompanied her that she was stopping at the St. Clair Hotel, he followed her there, where he registered himself again under an assumed name and took a room. He then took her out, and, having plied her with drink against the protest of her friends, until she was utterly besotted, well knowing her infirmity in that regard, continued his application until he carried her to his room, debauched her, made her the victim, in her unfortunate condition, of his degraded lust, then turned her out to wander where she would until picked up by the night watchman and carried to her home. Having accomplished my dishonor, he left his house before breakfast. While I had been informed before of some of the facts relating to her intoxication, and that he was the cause of her public exposure and degradation at the hotel, I did not know the extent of the wrong until on Tuesday night last, as I came home, I was fully informed of the infamy which he had heaped upon her and my family. I do not believe that I will receive the thanks of this people, but whatever is the will of the Court I will bow to and bear with as becomes a good citizen. This has broken up and destroyed my domestic relations, my peace and happiness. My daughter is dearer to me than all the earth, is an exile from home, an outcast from society. She has sobbed herself to sleep on my bosom under this great calamity, part of which only she knew. This blood is on her face and on her hands, and if he had a hundred lives it would not atone for this great wrong. For the first time this morning I met him, and I feel that I did that every man who has a home which his loves and a daughter dear to him would do, if he has the courage to defend them with the wrong. In this I expect and feel that I will receive the sympathy of the good and virtuous, and now I submit to the action of the Court.

Plain Truths. The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, it will be impotent. If disease has entered the system the only safe and quick way to drive it out is to purify and catch the blood. These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but a rich and pure blood is the natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or give rise to any of the symptoms of disease, and is positively non-injurious. Saved his Child. Dr. H. Estess St. Baltimore, Md. Feb. 19, 1883. (Send—Upon the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam, and used it according to directions, when I was thoroughly convinced was cured of my disease. I had lost three children by the terrible disease, and I was both to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but to my great surprise, before my daughter had taken one bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam, she began to mend and improve, and in a few days was able to eat and sleep. A still daughter began to show signs of consumption, and she had the physician attend her. She was quickly cured, and was restored to health. The elder sister was taking Parker's Hair Balsam, and she says "that is a good tonic, take it." ANNE MARSH.
