The Mahoning county, Ohio board of county commissioners are a law unto themselves, having recently, after several days of deliberation, declared the law known as the Scott liquor law, unconstitutional. The peculiarity of the commissioners may be understood when it is stated that the Supreme Court of Ohio has rendered a decision that the law is constitutional.

MONTGOMERY Blair died in Prince George's county, Maryland, last Friday. He was no upstart but came of an old family in Kentucky. It was intended that he should be a soldier and with that end in view he was sent by his father to West Point but the life of a soldier did not suit him, he then turned lawyer, and was successful at the bar, he afterwards turned politician and became a war Democrat and was chosen by President Lincoln as one of his first cabinet officers.

People did not understand Governor Pattison when he economized by having no street show or parade on inauguration day. He was not understood when he cut off appropriation bills that saved fifty thousand dollars, but it is conjectured now that it was saving or economizing to pay for the $10 a day Legislature. The Governor did not economize enough to pay for the extras for the session has already swallowed up 3 or 4 times as much as he saved. The glory of the walk on inauguration day, and the glory of the vetoes are all swept away by his extra session of the Legislature putting its hand into the State Treasury and drawing therefrom three thousand dollars every day to pay expenses daily.

Storm Notes.

Week before last there was a lull in the rage of storm that has prevailed almost every day since the absence of summer but last week, the weather again became warm, and again produced destructive storm. The southeastern section of Ligon county, Michigan was devastated by cyclones, accompanied by a heavy fall of rain, on Monday evening, July 23. The little village of Onadaga was almost swept away and a woman named Hartley is reported to have been killed. The storm traveled in an easterly direction. The house of Mrs. Elizabeth Barlow was picked up by the wind and torn to pieces. Mrs. Barlow, who was in the house, was instantly killed. Her body was afterwards found, two rods from where the house stood, with her neck broken. The tornado struck 2 miles east of Eaton Rapids, Eaton county, destroying a large amount of property. Several barns were demolished. Eugene Henry's house, one mile east of Winfield, was blown to atoms, his wife and 7 children being inside the house at the time. Two of the children were found dead 40 rods distant. Three others and the mother were badly hurt. The baby was unhurt, although the crib in which it was sleeping cannot be found. One dead child had its neck broken and another its skull crushed. Rue Perrine's house on the line between Eaton and Ligon counties, was also wrecked. His wife was injured. Fences, orchards and forests were swept away along the track of the storm, which seems to have been from the north and extended over a tract of country two miles long in this vicinity.

In White township Jacob Henderson and his father were at work in the hayfield when the storm came upon them at 4 o'clock. They sought shelter in a sheep-house, which was soon after struck by lightning and destroyed. Young Henderson was killed outright and his father was badly stunned.

In Elkhardt, during the storm Jacob Tapp, while in the field in company with another man cutting grain, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Near Waynesburg, Ind., a large barn belonging to William Barton was blown down. Barton was getting ready to thresh his wheat crop when it fell. One of his sons was instantly killed and several persons in the barn were more or less injured and crippled.

In the vicinity of Corning, Ohio, much damage was occasioned, the storm captured 2 dwellings, each was occupied by a family. A baby in the cradle was turned out of it. The cradle, miraculously following the child, turned bottom up, covering it, and the child was saved from being smothered by tumbling furniture.

Near the town of Bucyrus, Ohio, during the storm several laborers on the railroad sought shelter under a tree, which was blown over, and one of them (Terry McMahon) had his collar bone broken and suffered other severe injuries which will cause his death.

Despatches from the west say that on Wednesday July 24, in many parts of Ohio and Indiana, wheat, corn and oats were badly damaged, and in many localities crops were totally destroyed.

At Jeffersonville, Ohio, 3 children of Isaac Barry were killed by lightning. They were in the field lighting corn when the storm came up and they took shelter under a tree. Toward evening their bodies were found after an anxious search. The oldest child was only 14 years of age.

Neighboring News.

Perry County.
On Saturday morning July 21, Mr. John Slomaker and wife left their home in Jackson township to visit their daughter in Andersonburg. Whilst walking along the road near Blaine's mill in Madison township, Mr. Slomaker fell over or rather walked off a small culvert bridge elevated about 3 feet, and was killed instantly. He was about 80 years of age—was nearly blind, and his wife had stopped to speak with a neighbor a few moments, whom they had met, when he walked off by himself and the accident occurred by which he lost his life.

While they slept, on the night of July 17, a thief entered the houses of D. M. Shelly and Capt. J. H. Crest, in Newport, and stole from the former $29.45, and from the latter $69.00.

The Democratic county Committee met in the Court House on Saturday and elected E. S. Doty Jr. and David Fovlis as delegates to the State convention to meet on this August 1st, and set September 20 as the day on which to hold the primary election.

Last Thursday morning, as Mr. Jacob Long was cradling rye for Adnan Barner, he stirred up a tumblebug's nest. He set his cradle to a side and fought with the maddened insects and run against the scythe of the cradle with his foot cutting himself very badly in the foot through the boot. He has been laid up with it since.

Last Friday at 15 minutes to 12 o'clock noon, Southard Robison climbed to the spire of the Court House, and stood on the cross piece that indicate the point of the compass, and from that position he painted brush that John Kessler handed him from the top of the dome. Stretching himself up along the spire he was able to paint close up to the gold tip, which having done he painted downward to the compass points indicators which he also painted by standing on the ball below and after that the thrilling part of the job was over. He did it all down to the ball within 15 minutes.

On Saturday the cashier of the national bank of Orange, N. J. entered a railroad train with a satchel containing $10,000, he had scarcely seated himself in the car when he was attacked by 3 men who struck him on the head and attempted to take his satchel, he shouted for help. Passengers hastened to his rescue, and the three men ran out of the car and sprang into a wagon and attempted to drive away, but the horse balked and before they got out of the town they were all captured. They are well known to the police of the large towns as bad characters.

Last Friday night a freight car on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad near a station called Carlton, was blown by the wind from a swivel upon the main track, just at the time, 9:25 o'clock that a tourist train running from Niagara Falls came along. The train ran into the freight car and caused a wreck of the excursionists that is shocking to think about. Nineteen persons were killed. The search during the night was fairly hideous. The workmen would come to a hand or a foot and continue to excavate for hours before reaching the trunk.

A lady who was on the wrecked train states her experience briefly thus: "I and my husband were in the coach. The first intimation of trouble was a sudden shock that shivered all the globes and lamps. The lights went out immediately, leaving the car dark. Evoluntarily I grasped the seat ahead of me and ducked my head, as I felt that I was being hit with flying missiles. I never lost myself nor my consciousness. When all motion had ceased I found myself free and my husband had been thrown through a window. I found him with his body half out and pulled him away. He is badly injured about the head and the other bruised. Four young ladies, whose names I do not know, sat opposite me and escaped with but few scratches."

Camp Meeting.
The 12th Annual Session of the Juniata Valley Camp Meeting Association will be held at Newton Hamilton, commencing Tuesday, August 14, 1883, and closing Friday, August 24, 1883. To continue ten days. The grounds are now open for the company to tent holders. Persons desiring tents can be accommodated as long as any remain by addressing the Secretary, J. K. Rhoads, at Newton Hamilton and forward with application $1 on each tent desired, the balance to be paid on or before the fourth day of camp.

Two large boarding houses stand near circle No. 3, covered with shingles, and furnished with tables capable of seating 400 persons. The boarding will be in charge of the Alexandria M. E. Church and under the control of the association.

The Camp Meeting will be in charge of Rev. Richard Hinkel, Presiding Elder of the Juniata District, sustained by able and efficient ministerial service.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Christians of every denomination to come and attend the meeting.

When a Reno man wants a night of peace and quiet, says a correspondent, he tells his wife that he is going down town, and then goes and crawls under the bed. When she has got thoroughly mad at him for staying out she prepares to retire, quite resolved to give him a lesson of a lecture when he returns. Of course being alone in the house, she looks under the bed, sees a man, gives a yell, and flees from the house to her mother's two blocks away. In the morning she returns and her husband tells of a struggle with a burglar and is implicitly believed.

Mr. Jones had very large feet, but that did not prevent his being polite to the ladies. One day one of the girls said to another: "Oh, Sarah, do you know Mr. Jones?" "Yes; I know him." "Do you know him very well?" "Well, I should say so."

"But, how well?" "Oh, we are so thick that we talk about his feet as a matter of course, and are not at all astonished at their size any more." "Ahem—I didn't know you were engaged."

ITEMS.

By not stopping to listen and look, Henry Welsh and wife and Miss Alice Swarts of Mount Joy, Lancaster Co., were killed by cars last Friday morning. Welsh attempted to drive across the track in front of a coming fast train, the horse was killed with the people that he was hauling.

The following despatch was sent from Bloomsfield Ferry county, last Thursday. By the use of hammers, braces and chisels stolen from the smith shop of Henry Shafer robbers last night forced and entered into the extensive general store of Frank Mortimer, of this place. After abandoning a side window, which refused to yield, the robbers concentrated their efforts on the main entrance door, which was finally opened. Having effected an entrance the burglars devoted their attention to the safe. The combination readily yielded to the manipulation of experts or of some one familiar therewith, and the safe was robbed of money, mostly trade dollars, to the value of nearly $400. One package of 50 trade dollars was overlooked. Ninety dollars of the stolen money was the property of the telegraph company, of which Mr. Mortimer is manager. Checks to the value of between 30 and 40 dollars were also taken. Payment on them has been stopped. No merchandise was disturbed. There is no clue to the robbers.

A severe thunder storm passed over Mifflin county, on the 25th, causing much damage. The lightning struck in several places, shattering buildings but causing no loss of life. The rainfall was the heaviest ever known there, being 1 1/2 inches in a single shower.

BUFTALO, N. Y., July 24.—Captain Matthew Cobb, the noted English swimmer, perished in an attempt to swim the Niagara river whirlpool rapids this afternoon. He was rowed in a skiff to opposite the old "Whirlpool Mill" landing by John McGeary, a ferryman at the Falls, and leaped from the boat at two minutes past 4 o'clock. The daring swimmer passed the big rapids all right, keeping the middle of stream. When he struck the whirlpool he was rushed to the American side, where the waves it is estimated are from 30 to 40 feet high. One by his arm. His shout of the rapids was thrilling. His intention was to pass the whirlpool on the Canadian side. Webb leaves a wife and 2 children in England. The refusal of the railroad and hotel managers at the Falls to have anything to do with what they termed his going to death renders the affair financially a failure. The river has been searched for two miles below the whirlpool, and no trace of the foolhardy man can be found, and it is generally conceded that he was engulfed in the whirlpool. On Saturday the 25th, his body was found dead floating in the river below Lewistown, N. Y. A cut 3 inches long on his head indicated the cause of his death.

My wife said I was a fool when I brought home a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic. But when it broke up my cough and cured my neuralgia and baby's diphtheria she thought it a good investment.—N. Y. Taylor.
