REPUBLICAN TICKET. State.

For State Treasurer—WILLIAM LIVESKY.

For Auditor General—JESSE B. NILES.

SENATOR CAMERON is expected home at the time of the opening of Congress.

A MOHAMEDAN prophet predicts that the world will come to an end on the 8th day of November.

It takes the Legislature 15 to 20 minutes, to meet and adjourn, and earn their $10 a day. Are we a free people?

A NEW ENGLAND journalist in his paper was advertising, "cheaper divorces," which caused a brother editor to ask in his paper, "whose wife is he after?"

The Jews went on a fast of 24 hours, last Wednesday evening. The Gentiles would be a healthier people if they could be induced to observe some of the fast days of the Hebrews.

The attention of the Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg has been drawn to the ravages of a distemper among cattle in Lehigh county, and persons have been sent on to investigate the matter.

The Democratic victory in Ohio, it is said, has induced the Democratic management to inaugurate a talking campaign in this State. Let them talk, no people in the world as a party, can talk themselves to death quicker than the Democracy.

The women took an active part in Ohio, in the late political campaign in favor of prohibition and so forth. The harder they worked the larger the Democratic majority seemed to grow. It is the old story of killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

ONE of the queer inconsistencies of the late Ohio campaign, was that Democratic speakers from Western States, declared in favor of a tariff for revenue only, while Randall, and other Democrats from this State, who spoke in Ohio, declared in favor of a protective tariff.

The mousing Democrats in the State Senate, caught the Republican Senators napping last Friday with only 15 members present, and that gave the erring brethren one of a majority in that body, and they forthwith proceeded to pass the House concurrent resolution for a conference committee on apportionment.

The Republicans swept the State of Iowa by the storm of a 30,000 majority victory, but in Ohio the Democratic Governor was elected by a about 13,000 majority. The Ohio State Senate will have 11 of a Democratic majority, and the House will stand 42 Republicans to 63 Democrats. Shut the door, it makes one cold to hear such news.

THE Philadelphia Record says: The Methodist Church in Canada has stricken the word "obey" from the marriage service. It is asking enough of a woman to make her promise to love and honor her husband, reasonable obedience following thereupon. It is assumed that the Church only desires her to love and honor him and do as he pleases when he pleases her shall do right.

GOVERNOR BURLIN said, recently to a newspaper man: "since I have been Governor of Massachusetts I have had the felicity to propose three candidates for judicial positions one of them was a Catholic Irishman, the other a woman and the third a colored man. The Catholic was accepted by the council, while the other two candidates are still to be decided upon." He had named the lady for Commissioner of Deeds.

The North American gives its opinion of the political and liquor question as follows: The Democratic party seems at length to have fairly taken a stand in favor of cheap liquor or free rum all over the country. For this purpose it is now evident that the party designs to force the entire abolition of all the internal taxes on whisky, spirits, beer and wine, in order to serve as a leading issue against the Republican party in the Presidential canvass of 1884. The Democratic victory in Ohio marks this fact in the unmistakable manner.

Is the beginning of last week, Germans, and people of German extraction, in cities and large towns, celebrated the settlement of the first German in this State, which took place October 6, 1683, at Germantown. The demonstration in Philadelphia was uncommonly large, and was the best index that the world has yet seen of the extent that the German race has reached in America. It is the greatest race in the world, and the power of its blood will be more strikingly visible in the years to come.

A SOCIETY to promote the cremation of dead human bodies has been organized in Pittsburg. The burning of the body is the shortest and cleanest way to resolve it into its original elements. To place a body in the grave is to subject it to the slowest process of returning it to its original elements. The Abrahamic way of returning the body to the earth has a hold on the mind of the public, and as that method is the one that was adopted by the patriarchs it will be adhered to by a majority of Bible readers and Bible students.

An exchange says: Some of the people in England who are vexing themselves about looking up the lost tribes of Israel are now run hounded in regard to certain excavations made in Tara Mount, County Meath, Ireland. The excavators are in search of deeds said to have been given to the Prophet Jeremiah for the purchase of the land of Palestine. A considerable sum of money has been subscribed in order to pay for these excavations. The diggers have dug some distance into the bowels of the earth, but as yet in vain. Strange to say, the deeds have not yet been brought to light though the expenditure thus far amounts to about $5000.

Rev. Mr. White, preached in the Presbyterian church last Sabbath morning from James, last chapter and 19th verse. In the evening he preached from 1st Corinthians, 15th chapter, 35, 36 and 37 verses. From the text in the evening was unfolded the subject or theme, The Future of dead Christians, the Future of all dead people.

Mr. White is at this time one of the central figures in the Presbyterian church, he having recently been convicted of preaching heresy to the standards of Huntington Presbyterian. His case is being discussed from "Dan to Beersheba" in the Presbyterian world, and among other denominations his case is being looked into, and men of letters outside of the churches, in many places are examining his position, and a number of writers declare that when Huntington Presbyterian arraigned Mr. White they arraigned the New School Presbyterians, for it is by them alleged that he preached New School Presbyterian doctrine. What did he preach is the inquiry? from all directions.

It seems to be the fate of the American "pale face," to bitterly antagonize the red man wherever they are brought into intercourse with each other. When Russia owned Alaska, her relations with the Indians were not of a warlike nature, but since the American "pale face" has become the owner of that country he has been sowing the seeds of discord. The result will be a bitter hostility, such as has characterized the relationship between the Yankee and Indian ever since a few years after the Mayflower landed. Such is destiny. It was only last week that the report of Lieutenant Schwatka was published, giving an account of the exploration of a great river in Alaska, and in connection with the report was the account of the shooting of three Indians. It may have been necessary to shoot the red men: be that as it may; the shooting of them has prepared the way for a bitter state of hostility between the pioneer settlers that may locate in the country explored, and the Indians that are native to the valley of the river.

A REPORTER of the Philadelphia Times, was attracted by an advertisement in a city journal, that proposed to sell a recipe for making strong butter sweet. The reporter called at the place designated by the advertisement, and there found that a woman was making a living for herself and family by selling the butter recipe. She received many letters every day. The reporter obtained a recipe and published it in the Times, as follows:

THE GREAT DAIRY DISCOVERY! It will be evident to all that as long as butter is strong it cannot be sweet. The first step, therefore, is to diminish its strength to the required degree of weakness. Now the strength of a human being is due to the assimilation of meat, eggs, etc., therefore abstention from an animal diet and a strict adherence to the vegetable tends to directly lessen strength. Butter possesses a capacity for assimilation unequalled by any human being, as can easily be demonstrated by placing a dish of butter and three salt herring side by side, in which case the butter will soon absorb and assimilate so much of the herring as to become entirely too strong to be eaten. Following this theory to its legitimate conclusion the Great Dairy Discovery has been made. Place your butter in a wide-mouthed dish or upon a plate, so as to allow free contact with the surrounding atmosphere. Then place the dish in a refrigerator containing no animal matter, but only vegetables and very few of them. The butter will soon lose its abnormal strength and become quite weak. Now remove the vegetables and place a large saucer of molasses next the butter, which will soon absorb the saccharine properties of the molasses and become as sweet as can be desired.

Lighting fired the house of Joseph Andrews, near Linville, Crawford Co. As soon as the flames were extinguished by Mr. Andrews and some neighbors his son, aged 18 years, arrived home and was killed at the threshold by a second stroke of lightning, which entirely stripped him of his clothing.

A demonstration of extinguishing a fire with a chemical engine will take place this Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock sharp, in this town. The Chinese in this country make a brandy which they sell to the Indians for 50 cents a bottle and make 20—When they become as far civilized as the Americans, they will be able to master the art of clearing 40 cents on a 50 cent bottle of brandy. It looks as if the Indian was taking advantage of the heathen Chinese.—Norristown Herald.

J. Lewis Robinson, a burglar who recently escaped from the Chester county jail, and for whose capture a reward of $25 was offered, appeared at the jail himself on Thursday and demanded the amount offered for his apprehension.

John Gardner, a freight brakeman on the Bedford and Bridgeport rail road, met with a most singular and serious accident about five miles south of Bedford. While standing on the bumper of a car the engine of his train gave a sudden jerk, which broke the train at the point where he was stationed and threw a coupling pin violently against his nose, cutting it off close to his face.

A Tramp Killed. WILKESBARRE, Oct. 8.—Two tramps entered the residence of Franklin Monroton Hunt Lock Creek this afternoon and acted in a boisterous manner. They were ordered to leave which they did reluctantly but before going from the premises they began to throw stones at the house. Monroton, who stood the abuse as long as he could, finally picked up a shot gun and fired killing one of the tramps named Sam McNeil, who was lately a blacksmith at Shicklesville. Monroton arrived here on the first train this evening and gave himself up to the sheriff.

A Plea for Separate Beds. More quarrels arise between brothers between sisters, between hired girls, between school girls, between clerks in stores, between hired men, between husbands and wives, owing to electrical changes through their system by lodging together night after night under the same roof, than by any other disturbing cause. There is nothing that will so damage the nervous system of a person who is eliminative in nervous force as to lie all night in bed with another person who is absorbent in nervous force. The absorber will go to sleep and rest all night, while the eliminative will be tumbling and tossing, restless and nervous, and wake up in the mornings fretful, peevish, fault-finding and discouraged. No two persons, no matter who they are, should habitually sleep together. One will thrive, the other will lose. This is the law.—London Lancet.

Buried Under a Mass of Oats. MOOREHEAD, Minn., Oct. 10. A dreadful accident occurred last night at the farm of Mr. Northrup, eight miles east of this place, in which four men were killed outright, and ten more narrowly escaped with their lives. The fourteen men were members of a threshing crew who had been threshing for Mr. Northrup the day previous. They were sleeping in the lower story of a granary, in the upper story of which were stored 1,400 bushels of oats. During the night, while all the men were asleep, the floor suddenly gave way and fell falling onto completely buried each man, and in some cases to the end of the building where the floor first gave way. The other six, who were sleeping at the other end of the granary, were partially crowded through the side of the house, which gave way under the sudden pressure of the descending grain, and made their escape without serious difficulty.

After giving the alarm they set to work to release their buried comrades. When the morning men were finally reached four of them were dead from suffocation and some of the others were so nearly so that it was a matter of doubt for several hours whether they would live or not. The dead are Andrew Larson, R. A. Rhodes, Charles Vin and another whose name is not known.

Mr. B. K. Jamison, the Philadelphia banker, who, together with his wife and two sons, arrived in this city Thursday, having driven all the way from Philadelphia, was met in the Riggs House by a Post reporter yesterday.

"Yes, I drove in yesterday," he said, "but not direct from Philadelphia. I left there about two weeks ago and have been driving all through Pennsylvania—through the oil regions, the iron country and all along the Cumberland Mountains. This is the way we always take our vacation. There comes my fix now," he said, as a large black chair, drawn by four fine dark bay horses, drove around to the ladies entrance, where it was immediately surrounded by a crowd of curious people.

Upon an invitation from Mr. Jamison the reporter examined the equipment. The body is built something like the old-fashioned stage and painted a rich black. The springs and running gear are bright light, with black stripes. The outside of the coach has seats for three in front and two back; two large lamps are on each side of the front seat and one large headlight on the dashboard. It also supports a clock, axe, knife, pistol, etc. On the left of the whip is a small leather case that contains driving gloves, change for the toll-gates, and various small conveniences. On the left side of the coach, adjacent to the box, a silver handle denotes the existence of a private locker, which carries traveling supplies of all kinds, even down to hard tack, with a water-cooler, marked "Rambler." On top is a large willow trunk, immediately back of which the tent, camp chairs and blankets are stored. The back seat is situated over the boot and is approached by iron steps; under this seat is a place for another large willow trunk, hanging behind which is a step-ladder to be used for ladies when taking seats on the outside of the coach. Inside of the boot all kinds of cooking utensils, napkins and table cloths, marked "Rambler," are packed. On the sides of the coach are two willow cases for fumes, umbrellas, fishing-rods, guns and such things.

Inside there are two roomy seats facing each other. The soft springs heavily covered with rich cherry leather, accommodating six persons. Affixed to the rear inner wall is a leather dressing-case, with everything that goes with a lady's toilet. In the cushions of the doors are map-pockets. A thermometer, a barometer, a compass, a clock, night-lamp, match-box, glove pockets hang on different portions of the cushioned walls, and on the ceiling are maps filled with letter and note paper, envelopes, dispatch forms and other necessities for correspondence. The vehicle complete weighs only 1,870 pounds, and the reins are handled by the owner, who generally makes an average of twenty-five to forty miles daily. The party got into camp about 12 o'clock, when the horses were picketed, the tent put up and the camp-fire kindled. Each of the party performing his or her part of the work. Here, too, time is spent in fishing, gunning and other sports. At four o'clock, a blast from the horn, crack of the whip, "all aboard," and they are again on the road.—Washington Post, Sept. 27.
