light thought perhaps it was straps who had set fodder on fire, but on closer examination it was found to be hot water. There was ninety pounds of steam on at the time and the noise made by blowing off the water at that pressure, was heard for several miles. It is the most singular accident ever recorded. The animal which was a valuable one will probably die.

Samuel Rothrock went up the pike last Saturday as far as Hoising Run, there he went in among the mountains as far as a mile and a half from the road, and shot a wild turkey that weighed 11 pounds. No other student of the Academy has been so fortunate while out on a Saturday hunt. The Roaring Run region must be a frequenting place for large game, for it was there that Charlie Allison and Darwin Crawford say they saw a bear.

"I'll take whisky: what will you have Fred?" said a man in Fifty-third street saloon. "I don't feel like drinking," said Fred. The first speaker poured out a generous glass of whisky, drank half of it, handed the rest to his friend, remarking with a wry face: "There's something the matter with that whisky. Try it." Fred finished the liquor. The first laid 10 cents upon the bar, and they walked out. "That's a new game," remarked the bartender.—New York Sun.

Smith were present every day during the month.

ELLA B. CLAIR, Teacher. A gentleman informs the Johnstown Tribune that his little son recovered from a severe attack of membranous croup through a remedy proposed by an old farmer after he had been given to "die within three hours" by his physician. The remedy consisted in enveloping the child in linen and placing him in a vessel filled with nearly hot water, in which he was allowed to remain for twenty minutes, or until a profuse perspiration broke out all over his body.—From that instant his recovery was rapid.

James Gayman, living near Oakland Mills, had his left foot torn off last Wednesday by the shaft of a threshing machine in his brother's barn, near the Menonite meeting house in Fayette township. "A pin in the knuckle or joint of the shaft caught in the top of Mr. Gayman's left boot leg, in an instant he was thrown to the floor, and the foot was twisted around the whirling shaft. The boot was torn to pieces and when the machine was stopped, and the unfortunate man was lifted up, his foot dropped out of the boot, having been torn from the ankle joint. Drs. Crawford, Banks, and Weidman, assisted by Darwin M. Crawford, performed an amputation on the leg above the mutilated and broken parts, several inches above the ankle joint.

The Everett Press of the 21st states, thus, on Tuesday of last week a disastrous fire took place in Morrison's Cove, destroying the barns of Messrs. Jacob S. Brumbaugh and Jacob Snoberger, with all their contents. Parties were threshing with a steam thrasher at the time. The wind was blowing a gale at the time. The barn was set on fire and was rapidly consumed. The fire was communicated to the barn of Snoberger, about nine hundred feet distant, and it was consumed in a short time. Both barns are in a rich section, and were well stored with grain, hay, clover seed, etc. It is understood that there is a small insurance on each of the barns, and at one time it looked as though the town of New Enterprise was in danger.

Charlie Allison and Darwin Crawford went to Shade mountain one day last week, and were highly gratified to see a large black bear, in the vicinity of Roaring Run. The bear was distant about 50 yards, and sat down and looked at the young men, and the young men looked at the bear. It was an unexpected scene in that rugged place for both the young men and the animal. Allison and Crawford each carried a double barreled shot gun, loaded with small shot, consequently they were content to not break the peace of the situation and did not shoot. The bear, after satisfying itself with a long look at the visitors, to his mountain retreat, galloped down into and across a ravine and up the other side, remaining in sight some 10 or 12 minutes. The young men were discreet in not shooting at the brute with small shot.

The Bloomfield press of the 20th inst says: A most peculiar accident happened to a horse belonging to A. K. Dobs, Esq., of Sandy Hill, a few days ago. A steam thrasher was at work on the premises, and the horses were turned into the field near the barn. When the horses were brought in one remaining behind and feeding himself alone behind the bars on a run, going through a pair of bars that were going through the engine. He did not see the engine till close to it and then in trying to turn right, he slipped and fell against the boiler. In doing this he struck the lower gudge and opened it, which at once directed him with steam and hot water. There was ninety pounds of steam on at the time and the noise made by blowing off the water at that pressure, was heard for several miles. It is the most singular accident ever recorded. The animal which was a valuable one will probably die.

The McVeytown Journal of the 15th inst, tells the following: Yesterday we read an exciting episode occurred in a classic locality of Bratton township. A certain well-known wild digger and much married man was employed by a muscular farmer to dig a drain on his premises, and one evening after his labors were finished he took a seat in the kitchen where his employer's wife was busy preparing the evening meal. The husband was temporarily absent. In the conversation which ensued between the hostess and hired man the former related a singular dream which she had had on the night previous. It was to the effect that while she was sleeping she thought the aforesaid wild-digger had passed through her apartment several times and that on each occasion he had impressed a kiss upon her lips. This somewhat romantic recital encouraged the party of the second part to kiss her just as he had in the dream, but while in the act of doing so the husband appeared in the doorway. He didn't wait for explanations, but proceeded to inflict summary punishment with a horse whip, right vigorously applied. The presumptuous wild-digger made haste to get away from the siting of his wife. When some distance from the house the enraged husband fired several shots from a shot gun at his retreating figure. He was running like mad as far as he could be seen and it is presumed he is still running a match with himself.

Col. Copeland who will lecture before the institute comes highly recommended. Professor Raub says of him: Col. Copeland towers head and shoulders above the average lecturer and never disappoints his audience. I have heard him lecture several times and so can speak "by the card." His ability is beyond question, and his rich fund of humor apparently inexhaustible.

Deputy State Superintendent says of him: I am personally acquainted with Col. L. F. Copeland, of South Bend, Ind., and have heard him lecture at many of our Teachers' Institutes during the past year. As an eloquent, witty and instructive lecturer he has few equals. I heartily recommend the gentleman as a lecturer to the County Superintendents of our State.

No mere synopsis of the lecture would do Col. Copeland justice. His style is a combination of Gough's and Train's in their prime. He has the action of the one and the constant flow of words of the other. He painted his thoughts in all the beauties of imagery, and held the attention of his audience for two hours.—As an orator he has few equals.—Tuscola, (Ill.) Journal.

I have heard him (Col. Copeland), twenty-one times and every time was delighted, edified and amusingly entertained. I consider him the peer of any lecturer in America.

Rev. Dr. J. C. CLAIRE, Pastor Pine St. Church, Williamsport, Pa. Mifflintown people always turn out to hear Colonel Sanford. This time he comes to talk about "Paris in War Times." The editor of the Williamsport Telegraph was to hear him deliver the lecture just mentioned and this is what he said of it in his paper: The Colonel's eloquence is wonderful, his humor irresistible, and his audience laughed and cried alternately. When he closed with a most magnificent peroration, that caused the most profound attention, the editors seemed loth to leave their seats, and they lingered as if hoping to hear more of his magical eloquence.

SENSIBLE MEN

and women know ere this that of the many diseases and derangements of the body each a separate cause or origin, and that each needs a different method of treatment in order to effect a cure, and a woman's reflection must convince that any of the quick nostrums floated upon the public claiming to cure all of a number of diametrically different diseases must prove failures, even if we do not call them humbugs.

POOR PEOPLE

and people of moderate means, especially people well to do or wealthy find that the enormous charges of practicing physicians are a serious burden to them, and also find that after paying themselves poor that no benefit has accrued to them, that in fact they have thrown their money away. We agree to refund the money paid in every instance where a cure is not positively effected. The remedy is entirely vegetable, can do no harm, and will positively cure every disease for which they are prescribed.

SUFFERING WOMEN. Many a lady nature with a pretty face, beautiful complexion, as well as the sweetest of tempers and faultless manner, which grows prematurely old, gray and wrinkled, has been the victim of the disease of the complexion, the complexion becomes sallow, the brightness leaves the eye, a feeling of languor takes the place of the once buoyant spirits, an irritable nervousness makes her a burden, things that once were trifles worry her till life becomes unbearable. All this being caused by a physical derangement so common to women, which the inmates of the medical profession prevents a cure. Lady Reader, pause a moment, consider, do you not yourself, your family and your God, that you should cure yourself of these troubles and once more feel the glow of health? If you have a sensation of heat and throbbing in the back, frequently fainting spells, leucorrhoea or white discharge, painful or itching secretions, or any of the ailments which are the result of a white deposit in urine, hot and dry skin, Wheeler's No. 96 Prescription will give immediate and lasting relief.
