From the Lewisburg Chronicle, March 28, 1884. The death of Mrs. Julia Gundy, which occurred last Saturday a week, leaves but one living member of the well-known and once large family of Pennys, that one being our excellent neighbor, Charles Penny. This family was among the oldest, most intelligent and highly esteemed of any in Union county. There were twelve children in the family, of whom six were married and six unmarried; and six of them died in the house in which Mrs. Gundy died.

A Congressional Conference for the counties of Perry, Snyder, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon and Juniata was held at Newport, on the 3rd inst., to select two delegates to the Catawga Republican National Convention Jeremiah Lyons, of this place, John Stewart, of Chambersburg, Thad. M. Mahon, of the same place, and Dr. S. E. Duffield, of McConnellsburg, were the candidates for the position. On the first ballot Stewart and Duffield, with J. A. Nash, of the Huntingdon Journal, and Dr. H. F. Wagonseller, of Salinegrove, as alternates, were elected. That result was reached by two of the Perry county conferees voting with the conferees of Huntingdon, Fulton and Snyder counties.

Judge Junkin was unanimously chosen as the Presidential elector. It required only a half hour to complete the whole business of the conference, including the passage of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the credentials for the delegates to the National convention, this day elected, be left with the chairman of the conference, and if hereby authorized not to deliver the same to the national elector, that the chairman of the conference, and the delegates thereto, be authorized to deliver the same to the national elector, and that the chairman of the conference, and the delegates thereto, be authorized to deliver the same to the national elector.

On the same day, at Dublin, Franklin county, Ohio—a town of a foot 300 inhabitants—the Christian church was immolated. Several barns and outbuildings were razed from their foundations, and some were carried a great distance. The funeral of Philip Witt, the village minister, was held yesterday. The funeral was held in the evening.

adjoining are in ruins, and the scene is a chaos or rubbish, of whose ownership it is impossible to tell. Christian Swain lost everything, and had his house blown from over his head, but escaped uninjured. A new house belonging to L. Harley was removed from its foundations.

Among the houses smashed was that of John Sullivan, in which were himself, his wife and six children, the youngest child being a babe 2 weeks old. Most miraculously none of the family were injured in the least. The babe was found in the bed covered with debris, but unscratched.

The path of the cyclone was about a quarter of a mile wide, and everything in its track was destroyed. In the path of the storm for five miles east and west of the village the damage is equally great. Every farm that the cyclone passed over was made a perfect wreck, barns, houses, orchards and forests being blown down, and fences leveled to the ground. Everything presents a scene of desolation.

On the farm of James Sanders, four miles east of Middletown, the dwelling and barn were completely destroyed. Sanders, who was a merchant in Middletown, but who was out on the place at the time and had taken refuge in the barn, was instantly killed.

At the town of Murray a family of eight people had their house blown to splinters, and the father, William Jones, was killed outright. The others escaped unharmed. W. F. Painter, while out on his farm, four miles west of Oakville, was instantly killed by the storm.

The condition of the people of Oakville is terrible. Without homes, clothing, fuel or bedding, they were found standing in the cold, blinding snowstorm that remained.

On the 2nd day of April, a storm 100 yards wide going in a northeasterly direction passed over a part of Tennessee. A number of people were killed. Several trees were blown across the track of the Alabama Great Southern Railway, and the night express was thrown from the rails by the obstruction. Fireman Ed Brown was killed and Engineer Mike Frawley was injured.

On the same day a storm near Huntsville, Ala. did great damage to timber. The house of a family named White was completely blown away. Mrs. White and her mother-in-law were killed. A baby was carried several miles and deposited in the woods, where it was found.
