Juniata Sentinel Mar and Republican.

B. F. SCHWEIER,

THE CONSTITUTION-THE UNION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAWS.

Editor and Proprietor.

VOL. XXXVIII.

FRIESDSHIP.

We base been friends together, In sunshine and in shade, 5 nce first beneath the obestnut trees, In infancy we played, fut coldness dwells within thy heart, A cloud is on thy brow; We have been friends together-

Shali a light word part us now?

We have been gay together; We have laughed at bitter josts— For the fount of hope was gushing Warm and joyoas in our breasts. But laughter now hath fied thy lip, And sullen glooms thy brow; We have been gay together Shall a light word part us now?

We have been sad together; We have wept with bitter tears O'er the grass-grown graves where

The hope of early years. The voices which were silent there Would hid thee clear thy brow; We have been sad together-Shall a light word part us now?

FORTY YEARS AFTER.

straight, and monotonou Long. stretched the highway connecting the scattered hamlets in a remote part of Hollan'. Shade there was none, the only trees for miles around being the self." Mutter van Tann's face fell. tall poplars which seemed to look down mockingly on the scorched ground

Dazzlingly white and interminably dusty the thread seemed to stretch before the dark blue eyes of a young man who had been trudging along alone for guest. several hours, and who at last gladly took advantage of the slight shade cast is set on one of your ragouts." by a pile of stones to throw himself upon the ground by the roadside and have one." stretch his tired limbs as luxuriously as the unfavorable circumstances would like yourself ! More than one have I There was nothing at first sight to distinguish this wayfarer from many had in my house who ordered one of my very best ragouts, and then away others who passed over the same highthey went with their purses as full as ing voice, as a soft hand was laid on way-frequently students from a small university town not far distant-but a they came, leaving Mutter van Tann the angry woman's arm. "I am sure he close observer might have detected a four guidens poorer."

"Come, come, now, mutter !" cried light in the tired eyes looking over the dusty landscape which twenty years of Fritz merrily, seizing both the landlady's at him! He hasn't even the decency dusty landscape which twenty years of life do not often kindle, telling of straight into his honest blue eyes. "Tell but stands there laughing, as if it were which men involuntarily bow down as me-do I look like such an out-and- the best joke in the world! Oh, the showing a leader and ruler among them. out rascal ?"

"No, sir, that you don't !" said the Only a few moments he gazed dreamlandlady, melting and laughing in spite diverted by an unusual sight-the view lly over the uninteresting country, then ought rest in another way. Drawing of herself. from his pocket the pieces of a flute, he from ?" "From Berlin." quickly joined them together, and was soon filling the air with strains of music soft, low, tender and pensive, as suited old King lives, about whom people tell before whom the footmen bowed respecthis own weariness and the langour of such queer stories! I am a Prussian fully, sprang from the carriage, and in the suitry summer day. Despite the too, and right glad I am to meet a coun- an instant was in the inn-parlor. determination, and strength tryman! Well, I suppose you must energy. marked in every feature of his face, have your way; and I must be off to caught sight of Fritz; but the young this young man could be none other see to the ragout. Come along, Greta, man interrupted him hastily, speaking than a musician, for neither the inborn and try 'or once to help your mother. in French and requesting to be addresse genius was wanting nor the evidence of Have you been wasting your time out in the same language. ost careful and patient training. there with the birds and fishes again all He had long forgotten that he was the morning ?"

ably hungry. What am I going to do guest, in which Greta took very little consternation, "the letter is from my for my dinner? I was told that there was a capital inn in the neighborhood, kept by a German woman—a certain Mutter van Tann—where an uncom-into thoughtful silence, rose to his feet monly good venison ragout is sometimes with a half sigh as he glanced at Greta. to be had. Can you tell me if it is Then, turning to the landlady, he said thing, since she has lost her health, and Dear 911 quietly-"Yes" answered Greta quietly ; "you "It is growing late, Mutter van Tann, will come with me, please. The inn is and I must leave you. Will you allow my home, and I am Mutter van Tann's me to send to morrow some remem brance of my pleasant visit and your Good natured hospitable Mutter van kindness to me, as a sourcenir of Frederic, Tann came bustling forward herself to Prince of Prussia ?" receive the guest her daughter brought For an instant the landlady stared, to the door, ushering him immediately then laughed scornfully into the smoke begrimed inn-parlor, "Ach, sir, you young gent'emen will "Piter G have your jokes ! Wasn't there one Holland." just then without an occupant. "Yes, mutter-tired and hungry too," here last week who told me he was he exclaimed in answer to her greeting. King of the Cannibal Islands, and must over the conduct record, and, if I find

"but quite happy in the certainty of have a baby's tender loin for his dinner? nothing against you, I will see what getting the very best dinner here that No, sir, Mutter van Tann hasn't lost can be done for your mother." was ever cooked by the very best look- her wits yet !" ing landlady in Holland !" "Oh, well, mutter, it's no matter, any The buxom lanlady beamed.

"I shall do my best to prevent your it's high time I was showing you I don't regretting having come to my inn, sir. intend making off without paying for what shall I give you?" the ragout. "Nothing more nor less than one of

The landlady looked relieved, while your celebrated venison rayouts mutter, Fritz thrust his hand into one pocket which are said to be unequalled by any-after another, finishing his search at thing in the kitchen of the King him- last with an exclamation of most comical consternation.

"Upon my word, could anything be "Perhaps you don't know, sir, that more absurd ? I haven't a penny anythe ragouts are very expensive," she where about me !" said slowly, eyeing furtively the rather For an instant For an instant Mutter van Tann shabby dusty coat and boots of her gazed speechless; then, seeing that this was not intended as a joke, "No matter, mutter ; my whole heart "Swindler, rascal !" she exclaimed

"But, mutter," cried Fritz, almost "They cost four guldens," choking with laughter. "If they cost four hundred, I must "Oh, you smooth-tongued, impuden

"Ah, young man, that is all very widow who was fool enough to trust well ; but I know the ways of students you! You a Prince indeed, you shabby, lying, rascally musician with never a penny to bless yourself !" "But, mutter," put in a tearful plead-> has lost his purse. He would never-"Greta, you are a perfect fool ! Look villain.

"Where do you come from the window of a very handsome travelling-carriage and pair of coal-black horses drawing up before the inn, "Berlin, sir? Ach, that is where the while an elegantly-dressed gentleman, "Thank Heaven !" he began, as he lously sweet and mournful. After desire, he was trying for the first time a family."

.

"Great."

slowly falling.

sic-room st Sans Souci, listening dreamily to the strains which his old music master and friend Quanz was drawing from the piano, where, at the King's collection of Scandinavian Volkslieder.

Motionless the King listened for some

"Ah, Quanz, they are all very well songs which touched me so deeply as one I heard years ago in Holland, but ossessed. For several years my mother refused all offers of marriage; she that, in view of the safeguards thrown masts." "I knew you were in this neighbor-"There, mutter-scold me instead of have been looking anxiously for you who came once to the inn, and never cion, has wrought a remarkable change masts broke away and the vessel righthood," the new-comer continued, "and could not forget a travelling musician thred and hungry, that the road before him was at least three inches deep with dust, and the sun pouring down rays which seemed fairly to scorch every-which seemed fairly to scorch everyately. There is not a moment to be my father was not rich, as he had rep-ately. There is not a moment to be my father was not rich, as he had rep-and exacting calling. But just as this side like battering-rams. lost I" With a hurried cry of dismay, the young man started to his feet, and foland a sigh. Turning, he found, stand-van Tann departed ; and Frits turned lowed closely by his friend, hastened and was followed in the same year by such a host of employes some should be ing a few steps from him, a young giri to Greta, who had been standing in the towards the door. On the threshold he my three brothers. My mother has found willing to listen to the temptings with chasped hands and bent head-a window, paying very little attention to turned for an instant, with a farewell worked hard ever since for her support, of the scalper, and become eventually glance at Greta, who was gazing at him and, until she lost her health, was very his willing but guilty tools. with a grief-stricken expression which comfortable. That, sire, is all there is In the cause of morality, and in be

Ticket Scalping.

The King's brow cleared a little. "Is she in trouble?" The developments in the recent trials of railway conductors in Philadelphia "Yes, sire. She is growing old, and and elsewhere for embezzlement bring is too weak to work. She can earn noto light a new feature in the so-called business of ticket scalping, and explain very clearly one of the principal reasons is to be sent from her home for want of for the crusade which is being waged by money to pay the rent. All her sons the railroad companies against the gen-

MIFFLINTOWN, JUNIATA COUNTY. PENNA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1884.

are dead but myself, the youngest, and try whose boast it is that they can dis-I-1 can de nothing to help her. Sire, count the standard rates of the compa-I think that for such a cause even nies. There was for a long time an ele-ment of mystery in this peculiar traffic, which was partially dispelled when the soldier of the Great Frederic need not blush to shed a few tears." "You are right. What is your nam methods of the scalpers were ventilated and where do you come from ?" in the courts and by the clear exposi-"Piter Gelder, sire, and I come from tions of railway officers on the subject. It is apparent that the scalper derives ome of his support from some of the various links, large and small, of the longer lines between distant points. As "Sire, sire," began the man, fairly trembling with joy and gratitude ; but lines between important centres must way !" laughed the young man. "But Frederic waved his hand impatiently. be uniform, and the longer lines, by reason of their greater length and time "Enough! Words of thanks give of transit, could not, and very properly me no pleasure."

The King had already turned to retrace his steps, when suddenly he again faced the happy soldier. "Piter Gelder, can you sing any

Dutch Volkslieder ?"-"Yes, sure." "Do you know one ending with the words 'When we meet again, we shall from several of the short lines composbe old and and cold'?' "Yes, sire." "Sing it."-"Sire, my voice is rough the traveler from more direct lines, and pocketing a fair profit on the transacand untrained." tion, although the passenger may not "No matter-sing !" be so fortunate, as the greater length.

With a trembling but by no means of time consumed on the trip, and conunmusical voice the soldler obeyed the royal command; and the King, with sequent increase in cost of meals and sleeping accommodations, may more bent head and half-averted face, listened than cover the saving in the cost of the again to the melody of the song which ticket, and the traveler has no compenscoundrel, to deceive and rob a poor had so deeply moved him forty years sation for his lost time. before. With the last notes Piter looked up deprecatingly and half fearfully, and the scalper is wont to consider "legitiwas amazed to see the change which mate," would scarcely explain the maghad come over the features usually so haughty and stern ; they were now mother.

the youth who had first listened to the sary to complete a solution of the mysplaintive words nearly half a century be- tery. The testimony showed that the fore in Holland. "Where did you learn the song, Piter?"

mposed it. Just then the landlady's attention was "Tell me your mother's history."

"Sire, she was born in Holland, when ner mother kept an inn____" "Was her name Van Tann ?" "Yes. sire-Greta van Tann. Sh ived at the inn until she married my father, with whom she was afterwards ery unhappy." "Why did she marry him ?" "Sire, it was to please her mother. My father was supposed to be very rich, and my grandmother had been very unfortunate and lost 1 early all she

of the French navy of a crew who vol- the three vessels which are to rendezthemselves for the vous at Upernavik, an I from that semiuntarily sacrificed purpose of avenging their cruel treat- arctic port proceed to rescue or relieve, ment by the captain. The case was or uisc that of a twenty-gun brig, the captain of which, nicknamed the Hyena, had be said that for nearly four hundred been sent to the Antilles on a special years the mystery of the north has fasmission, where he remained nearly three cinated the explorer and the savant. years, living himself on shore, but never The Cabots in 1497, and the Cortreal suffering neither officer or man to quit Willoughby and Gilbert after them, the vessel, except a select few who had penetrated the "thrilling regions of brought him reports of what took place thick-ribbed and eternal ice' board, and what was said concernbefore the Pilgrim Fathers had hewed ing him, and who took back his orders the first timber on the coast of Massato the lieutenant who commanded in chusetts, and until 1818, m which year his absence, who, however cruel and Ross and Parry set out on their expeharsh these orders were, had no choice dition, every great country of Europe but to execute them. His mission terwas contributing its stanchest ships and minated, he came on board, apparently its best mariners for that evolution of a a matter of course, rates by the various gay and happy in the thought that his dream-the discovery of a short northsuccess would be well rewarded on his arrival in France. He could not have failed to see the gloo av looks that were cast upon him when he stepped on deck, so, hope to obtain any considerable probut he did not appear to mind them, portion of the through traffic save by and went s, raight below to his cabin. the operations of the scalper, who buys They were in the channel of the Bafor the intending traveler who falls into hamas when a sudden squall of wind his hands a regular ticket by one of the began to blow. The captain was sumlonger routes, sells it to him for a dollar or so less than it cost, collecting a bonus moned on deck and gave orders for the instant reduction of sail. The lieuten-

"The Hyena."

An example is recorded in the annals west passage to the cold and spice-bearing regions of the Indian tropics. But Ross and Parry were the last Arctic explorers of what may be termed the mercantile era; the vision of rapid communication with India by way of the north pole had faded in the fierce light of experience. But experience had taught that though the frozen deeps would never open a path for freighted argosies, they yet surround the mystery ant gave the order "all hands on deck." of the north pole, in whose wintry

The S l. at North.

and then repeated the captain's order. shadow the most hidden secrets of the the quartermaster threw his whistle currents of the oceans and of electric into the sea, tore off the badges of his disturbances of earth and air were kept grade from his cuffs and walked sadly in silence. back to the forecastle. The breeze kept With the expedition of Sir John

Franklin, in 1818, the history of purely "Lower the topsails," screamed the scientific polar expeditions commence In every case they have been attended "We will not," was the reply of with hunger cold and death, and in many cases with the total destruction of ship and crew. But the problems to "To arms, gentlemen; there is mutibe solved are, in their ultimate result. so far more important to commerce than the once sought northwest passage, that nations contribute of their revenues, and the most gallant sailors and enthusiastic scientists risk their lives with pleasure in continued explorations. The first attempt to reduce the scientific results of polar investigations to stirred, until a few of the worst men in conformity with systematic inquiry was made in 1880, when Lieutenant Weyprecht, of the Austrian polar expedi-tion proposed the establishment of circumpolar stations; that is to say, that yelled the "Down with the spies," crew; "we will die together,"

The pale and trembling captain snatched the speaking trumpet from the tions as to relieve conductors from even gave them direct; but they only elicited the slightest imputation of dishonesty.

"Pardon! Pardon!" shrieked the capmorals of their employes. The feeling tain. "For God's sake cut away the NEWS IN BRIEF.

NO. 21.

Speaking of the sailing of the first of -There is a strike in the Royersford Pa., foundries -Faith cures continue to be reported in Stratford, Conn.

over the fate of Lieutenant Gree--Kerosene oil is solidified in Russis and made into candles.

-It is claimed that the population of the Black Hills is 40,000.

-Ireland's population is 51,000-3,099,000 less than in 1841. -Richly-carved dining chairs are long upholstered in alligator skin. -Thus far Uncle Sam has received $200,000,000 for public lands. -Natural gas is to be used for fuel at the Pittsburg water works,

-Fire destroys an average of ninety churches a year in this country.

-The costs of the Belt-Lawes case mount to a little over £25,000.

-There are now 160 miles of shelves of books in the British Museum. -Within five years Denver has grown from 25,000 to 75,000 inhabitants. -The oldest peer in Great Britain is the Earl of Buckinghamshire. -A ten-foot alligator was captured recently near Waxahatchie, Texas, -The Latin languages ceased to be used in the English courts in 173I.

-Six sawmills in Minnesota hope to cut 100,000,000 feet of timber this year.

-Six thousand slaves were liberated in a single province in Brazil last year. -A catering company in New York s a success; its customers are tamilies. -There are stored in the vaults in Wall street not far from $1,000,000,000. -Von Moltke is called "the man who can be silent in seven languages." -In nineteen private galleries of

New York, are pictures worth $6,000,-000.-The marble quarries around Elli

jay, Ga., are among the finest in th world.

-Tennessee has 33 cotton mills in operation, with 1,161 looms and 78,877 spindles.

-Hundreds of young women work for 45 cents a day making shirts in New York city.

-The American turquoise is usually colonies of naval, military and scientific blue when found, but turns green from men, supplied with provisions for two exposure. years, should be placed in the highest

-Rumors are again afoat to the latitudes, and their records should be effect that the Pope will seek an asylum compared and the facts discovered be made the basis of future investigations, n France.

and it was desired that year by year -Cuba, it is reported, produces at these outposts of civilization should present one-third of the cane sugar used advance their march still farther toin the world.

wards the pole. After many miscar--Brutality to mothers, says a leadrages eight of the maritime powers, to ing Massachusetts Judge, is more comwit, Russia, England, Germany, Ausmon than wife-beating. tria, Denmark, Sweden, France and

-Henry Guy Carleton has resigned America sent out colonies. This was OI Life. contributor to the paper. America sent two expeditions, one -About 2,000 pictures have been adto Point Barrow, and one under Lieutenant Greely to Lady Franklin's Bay. mitted to the Paris Salon. More than 3 000 have been refused. This expedition, with a total of twentyfive members, was conveyed by the -Terrapin is said to have increased Proteus to its destination, and after about 500 per cent, in price during the landing stores and provisions for two past twenty or thirty years. years' maintenance of the adventurers, -It is said that Prince Victor of Wales will be raised to the peerage with on the 13th of August, 1881. From the title of Duke of Dublin. -The calico and print goods made in Lowell in 1883 would twice encircle the earth and some would still be left. Webster Retuting Webster ny on board. Not a word did they answer, but with the exception of the officer of the nitude which his profits must assume to maintain him in the traffic, and these soft, tender, and dreamy as those of late trials furnish the information necesrailway employes retained the tickets collected from passengers and sold them "From my mother, sire. It was at nominal rates to the scalpers, who re-taught her by her grandmother, who sold them to travelers at a discount said: from standard rates, the company thus ing this route as a reward for diverting

But this and other operations which carrying two or more passengers on the done?" same ticket. These disclosures emphasize with painful clearness the moral character of the scalping enterprise. For years past it has been the aim of railroad companies so to adjust their rules and regula-portation lines to utterly abolish this traffic, which has long been a misdemeanor in Pennsylvania, and we earnestly hope that the various States will speedily take cognizance of the growing evil

and, by statute similar to Pennsylvania, put the scalper under the ban of the redeem for cash, from passengers, their unused or partially used tickets. In the meantime the traveler will do well to consider whether he can conscientiously aid the scalper or incur the risk

Taste in Household Art.

During the last few years the general thing in household art after all.

More money is spent injudiciously in

There are hundreds of humble, unpre ending homes scattered up and down law and compel railroad companies to a mocking laugh in teply. The brig Whether this has been from motives of had now fallen into the trough of the self-interest or not, is immaterial to the sea and was lying almost on her beam point of issue. The result has been apparent in the esprit du corps and the hands of the officer whose duty it was to transmit his orders to the crew, and watch, they retired in a body to another part of the deck. The breeze freshened to a hurricane, the vessel lay with her broadside to the waves, which poured over the deck incessantly; still no man increasing in violence.

The captain turned to his officers:

hundred voices.

the ship went aft to the captain and "We shall all be lost. What is to be red and hungry, that the road before thing they touched, when he was startled me while you are off about the ragout. in the midst of an impassioned andanteof I must have something to console me lost !" Beethoven's, by a strange choking sound for your absence, you know."

behind him, something between a sob With a smile and a frown Mutter girl with hair fair as flax and eyes blue as her mother's remarks. "Won't you come and sit here on the torget-me-nots growing in the field close

"Won't you come and sit here on the sofa, Greta; he said gently, with a sud-den abange of manner, "and talk to me "Adieu, Greta," he said gently, "un-The young man was on his feet in an Instant, weariness forgotten in the pre- a little about yourself while I am wait- til we meet again !" sence of so fair a companion; but the ing?

The girl obeyed immediately, and a half-saucy compliment he was about to utter died on his lips as he saw a tear stealing slowly down the delicatelyhalf-saucy compliment he was about to rounded cheek of the girl, who seemed gard to his companion's life and occupations, which she answered unreservlittle more than a child.

"Ah, my child," he cried, with quick edly, being at last led on to talk freely of her thoughts and feelings, and re-vealing by degrees the secret depths of the warrior-King of Prussia. The sympathy, unwittingly speaking in Ger. of her thoughts and feelings, and reman-his moeher-tongue-" you are in trouble 1 Can 1 help you ?" of her pure, innocent, dreamy nature years which had sprinkled his hair with

No, sir," said the girl softly in the to the young man, who listened with silver had, in return, crowned him with same language, raising her head and reverent sympathy, his astonishment gaing at the young man with an innosimilarity between mother and child. cent awe and reverence which touched Soon Greta begged for more music, him deepdy. "I don't know what it is but your music-I can't tell if it is and Fritz, after gratifying her wish but your music-i can't tell if it is and Fritz, after grathying her wish gladness or sorrow. As I heard you asked her if the could sing something of repose, when the ambitious visions of the soldier and statesman were held for him. The girl assented readily, play, the tears would come." adding after a moment's thought-

The air was very simple and marvel-

Greta had hummed it over once or

Are you so fond of music then "My favorite is an old song taught me by grandmother, which I can sung in German as wall as Dutch Per child?" asked the young man, delighted. "I den't think I was before, sir.' the girl answered simply. "But I in German as well as Dutch. Perhaven't heard that kind of music." haps you could accompany it with the Won't you sit down here for a mo- flute? ment? 1 will play again if you wish; out first you must tell me your name." The girl took a place beside her companion quietly and unbesitatingly.

100.

DT0

n

Uties,

Md.

.s.r.

e nice aver,C

82. by

NEW

ountry. tor our spie and an cti

e stamps N. Y.

VS

T.

-61

Personal amount

InsatL Q

> cents

land; in thriving Particu-sport Pa n make y Pleas-ns a ter-ne skil. E POR-

ANY Va

G

ALS.

alls,

chis,

n. Grub,

unders

oraccillent

it yard it is

TS

rains,

166

twice, Fritz's quick ear enabled him to 'My name is Greta. And yours?" accomplish the desired accompaniment; "Mine? Hum! Fritz, of course, and softly the sad plaintive air floated time, then arose, and began slowly pac And you-are you an angel dropped through the shabby smoke-stained inn-from some passing cloud, or a fairy parlor into the kitchen, where Mutter "Ah, Quanz, they are all very well tisen from the earth, to appear so sud- van Tann was absorbed heart and soul But I have never heard one of these ily before me ? I mean"-laughing in the ragout. "What a melancholy song you have at her bewildered air-" where did you

There been to the Chapel of Our 'I have been to the Chapel of Our the girl had finished, trying to speak have been to the chapel of Our the girl had finished, trying to speak have been to the chapel of Our the girl had finished, trying to speak have beard me speak of it before ?" COME from ??? Lady in Dorf Sessin to count my beads," cheerfully. "Can't you give me some-e answered slowly; "and then_______thing more lively as a remembrance of the lowely important the lowely important eves the lowely important eves the lowely important eves the lowely important eves the lowely important events admiringly at the lovely innocent eyes gazing dreamily into the distance, while he caressingly drew through his hands without a thought of harm, impulsively country, with the hope of finding the one of the long flaxen braids falling clasping both hands around her companion's arm, she leaned her head had been burnt down years before, and against his shoulder as she murmured, no one could give any tidings of the over the girl's shoulders and below her

And then I went into the wood in a voice choking with sobsover there, and have been there ever "You are going away! Ah, when Since.7

"Doing nothing but lie on the grass istering to the brook trickling by, and watching the clouds sail past, and hear-for 1 understand almost all there are by the said in his desire to south here, "we shall here south and cold when we meet again." The old method watching the said in his desire to south here, "we shall here south a simple song clings to me, though the melody has long since so tantalizingly escaped my memory. I suppose I am getting old and childish, old friend. Thank you; we will have no more mufor 1 understand almost all they say. Ah, sir, it is so quiet and peaceful and again next week-to-morrow ! I will lovely there! I hope, when I die, they not leave you, Greta." Will bury me there under the trees, close A lovely smile of joy and gratitude will bury me there under the trees, close by the water. Nowhere else could I rest so well," Wonderingly Faitz gazed at this girl, Test so well, " Wonderingly Faitz gazed at this girl, over her, Softly and reverently he pressed his lips on her fair hair and Wonderingly F.itz gazed at this girl, so widely different from the rustic beaugently put her away, just as the door opened to admit a most appetizing odor ties he had met before on the high roads. Without a thought of the gay badinage and Mutter van Tann bearing in triumph in which he usually indulged on such the savoury ragout. ecasions, he almost reverently took

"Here, sir, is such a dish as you will one of the unresisting hands loosely not get every day, though, I suppose, clasped on the girl's knees, as he said I shouldn't say so !" she remarked, with very gently-"My child, you are too young yet to ink of death. A great many happy "I assure you I appreciate my lie luck, matter," said Fritz gaily; "and lay there is only one thing think of death. A great many happy years will pass, I hope, before you the beside the brook. Shall I play there is only one thing necessary to complete my happiness." "Is it beer or schnapps, sir ?" or you again ?" Once more the sweet strains floated

"Neither. It is the company of your-self and your daughter at this best of in the sultry air, while Greta, with arted lips and wide-open, almost worapping eyes which never left the young dinners

"Oh, str, we shall be very pleased. man's face, listened as if fearing by any Mealing over her. At last Fritz started down with such simple folk as Greta fullyto his feet, put his flute into his pocket, and I !" Quickly the ragout and a bottle of and, tossing ba k his brown hair with a merry shake of the head, exclaimed inghingly... "I dare say I shall shock you, Greta; but, all the same, I am getting abomin-U dare say I shall shock you, Greta; but, all the same, I am getting abomin-U dare say I shall shock you, Greta; Lange Same I am getting abomin-U dare say I shall shock you, Greta; Lange Same I am getting abomin-U dare say I shall shock you, Greta; Lange Same I am getting abomin-U dare say I shall shock you, Greta; Lange Same I am getting abomin-Lange Same I am getting abomin-to tell," "Very well. To-morrow you shall hear from me, Piter Geldar."

The soldier was left in a half-stupe The next moment the cloud of dust fied state, wondering how soon he should awake from what could be nothing but a fantastic dream. With wide-opened eyes he gazed after the departing monarch slowly disappearing in the direction of the palace, who walked with his head bent low and his hands clasped Forty years had passed. All Europe behind his back, while upon his softened melancholy face was still visible the strange transformation which the undying laurels, and the proud acclamemories awakened by a simple strain mations of a grateful people had be-stowed upon him the surname of of music had wrought. Piter could not see that his lips were moving, and the

of riding on a stolen ticket. mournful words they formed were It was one of the King's few hours merely a breath floating away and lost on the perturned air, "When we meet again, we shall be old and cold-old and in check by the magic of music, which cold.

The next day Piter Gelder was standard of taste in our homes has handed two papers sealed with the royal seal. The first contained his changed materially for the better. fore South Kensington and kindred inleave of absence for a month, the secfluences began to make themselves felt. ond was the deed of a fine farm on the taste was at a low ebb indeed. Textile borders of Holland, with the words written beneath-"To the heirs of Mutfabrics were poor and bizarre in design; interior decoration, upholstery, cabinet-work, glass and china, jewelry-all were ter van Tann, in payment for a venison ragout.-FREDERIC." to the last degree wanting in taste.

Drinking Old Shoes.

nishing. Our condition in regard to these mat-"Talking of old shoes," said the doc-tor, as he bit off the end of one of the ters is slowly improving. The last ten reporter's cigars, "they come handy in various ways. Old boots and shoes are ears have been unusually active ones in he matter of reform. People are bemade into Jamaica rum, also into the ginning to be independent of the capririchest of jellies. Not only are old shoes utilized, but cast-off linen is used ces of fashion in the furnishing of their

to make coffee and sugar!" "Oh, come, now!" exclaimed the re porter, "you are trying to stuff me." "No, I am not. All these years. while you have imagined that you were country, with the hope of finding the lost melody you so regret. But the inn sipping coffee from Brazil and rum from the West Indies, you have simply been drinking cast-off shoes and rn-out linen." "Fact! The jelly spoken of is made by "Yes, yes, Quanz-I know. It is we meet again, we shall be old and cold !" The words were an echo of boiling an old boot and shoe in soda, under a pressure of about two atmos-pheres. The tannic acid in the leather, combined with salt, makes tannate of soda, the gelatine rising to the top. From this, with suitable flavoring material, the jelly is readily made. "The shirt coffee is made from old shirt linen and sweetened with cuffs Frederic stepped through the low win-dow out into the June surshine, into and collar sugar, both coffee and sugar being made in the same way. The the luxur ant leafy beauty of the garlinen, after being washed, is treated dens of Sans Souci. Old Quanz's Volkwith nitric acid, which, acting on the lignite contained in the fiber, produces glucose, or grape sugar, This, when roasted, makes an excellent coffee, and is sweetened with unroasted glucose.' eagle eyes before whose terrible glance

"Then you would have one believe thousands quailed were dreamy and soft as he strolled away from the Palace, that he may have been drinking coffee made from the shirt from a hated rival; sunk in that saddest and vainest of remay have spread his despised mother-in-law's old shoes on his breakfast toast, grets-regret for a vanished youth ! Half unconsciously, lost in retrospecand quaffed rum made from the brotion, he directed his steps down one of the side-alleys at some distance from gans of a tramp?"

"Exactly so. You may be invited to the Palace, and, turning an abrupt cordine with me some day, when my wife will doubtless say: 'Wouldn't you like ner, came suddenly and unobserved upon a soldier who had thrown himselt a little of Bridget's old shoe for your upon a bench, where he was reading a letter upon which Frederic saw tears hot biscuit, or will you have a drink of the doctor's old shirt?"

"Doctor," said the reporter, solemn At this sight the King's face grew hard and stern again; and, with low-I ering brows, he stopped before the un ly, "is all this true?" "Certainly," said he, "you don't think I'd tell a lie; and, by-the-way, wouldn't you like a Santa Couz sour? fully-"What, a soldier in the Army of hurried home, looking in the glass, and Frederic crying like a schoolgiri ! Has saw that he was looking very pale and your sweetheart frowned upon you haggard.

-Dancing was invented by Curctes, -London has 9,500 cabs and Paris ple.

handsome frame!"

crats.

in 1881. means of the cordage, beat against its

"I will pardon you all," cried the terrifled captain in his agony, "if you will cut away the rigging."

The excitement of the crew had now the vessel left them in their icy homes become so great that in their delirious thirst for vengeance they tushed over then to now no authentic news of them all intervening obstacles and surroundhas been heard.

ed the captain. "Thou shalt die, thou and thy spies half of an important and deserving class of railway employes, we can corafter thee," they yelled in reply. dially endorse the efforts of the trans-'Help gentlemen, help," he screamed

The present tariff agitation calls to to his officers, "I promise you promo-tion, crosses, what you will!" Not an officer moved; and soon amidst uind a curious incident in the life of Daniel Webster, who began his career Not an officer moved; and soon amidst the roar of the wind, the dashing of afterwards the leading champion of the waves and the blows of the masts against the brig's side, threatening About the year 1846, he was invited every instant to beat it in, there arose to a great tariff dinner at Philadelphia, piercing shrieks from five men whose clotnes had been torn from their bodies, which proved to be one of the most magnificent banquets ever given in the and who were being tortured by men laboring under the frenzy caused by the old Chinese Museum was engaged for the occasion, and profusely decorathe anticipation of death, and the officers looked with indifference on the ted with flags and banners. bloody spectacle-one alone quit them, and he went below, opened the powder The splendor of the scene was greatly enhanced by the circumstances that the magazine, and an instant afterward the shattered bodies of the tyrant and his hall had wide galleries extending its whole length, which were filled with victims were tossing in the foaming ladies, all in their brightest attire. water among the fragments of the ves-Of course the interest of the evening sel. Of all on board, one alone survicentered in the speech of the great oraved, and that was a little cabin boy, tor, who was then at the height of his who was picked up directly afterwards renown, and in the full maturity of his by an American vessel. powers.

McGathen's Chicken Fight

They are not very rigid in court formalities in Colorado, so to speak. Common sense seemed to be disregard-"I don't see the prisoner anywhere, ed in almost every department of fursaid the Judge at the Bone Valley ses sion, as he braced up from a little judicial nap preparatory to sentencing a horse thief to death. "Where is he,

Mr. Sheriff?" "I'm blessed if I know," said that newspapers. functionary, who had been absorbed in collecting a horse race bet from the homes, and are finding out that a piece of furniture once good is always good; clerk.

day. It seemed as if the sun stood still "Was he a big, red-headed man, with till we could get the newspapers. At that rich simplicity is preferable to a scar on his cheek?" asked the foreman that time no Philadelphia paper had a gaudy display; that honesty of construc-tion and design is the best policy in the long run; in a word, that there is semeof the jury, who was shuffling cards for another deal. corps of reporters at all competent to make quick work of a two hours'

"That's him," said the Sheriff, who speech, which requires eight men to had been looking around under the report verbatim with the requisite dis-Still there are some people who cling benches without success. patch for an early issue. The conse-appeared.

in his largest type:

"Webster's Great opeen on the Tariff."

The newsboys made the town ring with this cry soon after sunrise. He-race Greely, who had come over from ster thus arrayed against himself. The vented his anger in unmeasured lan-

Mr. Webster himself, who loved a to the erroneous idea that large expend-"Why, then," continued the foreman, "about half an hour ago he-cards, iture is necessary to secure artistic effect, or supposing that a house to be artistic must needs be luxurious. "Oh, gentlemen-he asked me to step out and take a drink, and-I see your raise-and I should like so much to adorn my home, when I told him I held a flush he said, but I cannot afford the expense," said 'S'mother time, then,' and walked one of these persons in my hearing.

Forney, which played a nice trick upon Now, of course, she had a quantity of "The deuce you say!" thundered his an expectant public. The editor hunt-ed up Mr. Webster's great speech on furniture and upholstery in the house, Honor. "However, he'll probably be and every year she went on buying the same miserable shapes and filmsy stuffs and crude colors, because she was too the tariff delivered in 1824, which was a thorough-going argument for free trade, in direct opposition to the oration of the evening before. Colonel Forney careless to look around her and buy for save lots of trouble. This court will the same amount of money articles that would commend themselves at once. Low adjourn for McGuthen's chicken struck off a large edition of this speech fight.' as a supplement to his paper, heading it house-furnishing, than in any other de-partment of domestic expenditure. "Say, boss, will you give an eld sailor something to get a bit of grub?" said a weather-beaten fellow who locked as it the land, plain farm-houses among the a ragman had a mortgage on him. New England hills and the cottages of kindly in-"So you are a sailor, eh?" artisans in the great cities, that are, in quired the philanthropist. point of fact, adorned in far better taste than those of millionaire aristo-"I used to be, your honor." "What was the name of the craft on

"A Land-Lubber's Gast."

We wish people who live in our houses to be comfortable and refined, which you chewed hard-tack and tarred sands of copies were sold before the ropes?" joke was discovered. "I-I forget now." The Democrats were naturally in consequently when you enter the parlor

"How many masts did it have?" "Didn't have none," uneasily replied you will not find the chandelier of brightest brass and cut-glass, the paper the old salt, as he shifted his position.

covered with sunflowers, the centre "Was it square-rigged or schooler piece of the rug an elephant recruiting rigged?" persisted the philanthropist, fixing his glittering eye upon the tramp. in the jungle, or a Royal Bengal tiger in the act of springing upon his prey, and the pictures of the kind that bring "Didn't have no sails," growled the vagrant. forth the exclamation: "Oh! what a joke, took it in good part, laughed heartily, and said to the friend who Then what in the name of all that floats was it?" handed him the paper: "I think Ferney has printed a much better speech than I made last night."

"It was a mud-scow on the Mississip--London has 3,000,000 working peo pi, blast your eyes!" yelled the discour-aged wretch, as he hitched up his trousers and sloped away with a land-lubber's gait.

-Governor Hoadly of Ohio is a good talker.

-Among the wives of Utah there may be found, it is said, women from nearly every nation except France.

-Men from 21 to 65 years of age nay frequently be seen playing marbles in the street of Angel's Camp, Cal.

-In twenty years the sales of single mackages of patent medicines in Great Britain have increased from 6,661,647 United States. The immense hall of to 18,457,990.

-Carlos Aguero, the Cuban revolutionary leader, is a man below the medium height, and weighs only about 115 pounds.

-Nearly 40,000,000 pounds of maple sugar were produced in this country last year. Pennsylvania supplied the largest amount.

-During 1883 the importation of coffee reached 525,763.479 pounds, or about 101 pounds for each inhabitant of the United States.

-The Dshebel Naibs, an isolated Young persons of the present day can mountain in Algeria, 800 feet high, is form no idea of the breathless interest slowly sinking into the earth. Already with which the vast audience listened there is a deep hollow around its foot. to the words of Mr. Webster on this -The announcement is made by foroccasion. No individuals of to-day tower aloft above the community as the eign papers that eigarettes are rapidly going out of favor-fourteen million less having been consumed last year great men of that day did, such as Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Preston and others. Not can present readers imagthan during 1882.

ine the intense curiosity of the public -A famous Irish piper, Patrick Bonext morning to read the speech in the han, who played before the Queen and the Prince Consort in 1861, and after-The writer of these lines remembers wards before the Prince of Wales, died that morning as though it were yesterrecently in Dublin.

-Mme, De Cuzien, long known as the most eccentric inhabitant of Lyons, France, died recently, and left her fortune of 15,000,000 francs to benefit, in various ways, the women of that city. -Cable Dickinson, an eccentric of Hartfield, Mass., who died recently, left a will giving $100,000 to founding quence was that it was 10 o'clock the a hospital for the indigent sick of Hartnext morning before the Whig paper field, Whately and Nothampton.

There wes a saucy little Democratic -Stuyvesant's pear tree, at the corsheet published then, called the Penn-sglvanian, edited by the late Colonel ner of Third avenue and Thirteenth street, New York is the oldest living thing in the city. It was planted by Governor Stuyvesant in 1647.

> -The capital acquired by Henry Irving during his two American tours will, it is said, be largely devoted to building in London a new theater of his own, on models and plans designed by -A bean-eating tournament at Tonawanda, N. Y., under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, was won by J. Baker, of Tonawanda, who devoured six pounds of beans in forty minutes.

New York on purpose to hear the -In the town of York, Maine, is to speech, and was anxious to get an early be seen a birch tree, about 40 feet high, two roots of which have lifted a block copy for publication in the New York Tribune, rushed out of his hotel and of granite computed to weigh 20 tons, bought several of them. Many thouabout 12 inches. The tree is still growing, and the rock continues to be raised and pushed sideways at the rate of nearly an inch a year. great good humor to see that Mr. Web

-A bill has been passed by the Belgian Chamber of Representatives, by a Whigs could not be expected to relish the jest, least of all of Mr. Greely, who vote of 61 to 21, forbidding soldiers to vote at elections, and allowing clergymen to vote only at the places in which they lived before they entered the priesthood.

-Electricity as an illuminating power is extensively used in the cotton mills of Fall River, Mass., and so well is it liked by the operatives that recently in a mill where the proprietors refused to introduce it the employes struck against all work by gaslight.

