

THE DEMOCRACY IN LINE FRIDAY EVENING,
JULY 11, 1884.

RATIFICATION OF THE NOMINATION OF CLEVELAND AND HENDRICKS.
FAT MEN, LEAN MEN, BOYS, AND DASHING HORSEMEN IN LINE, WITH MULE ACCOMPANIMENT.

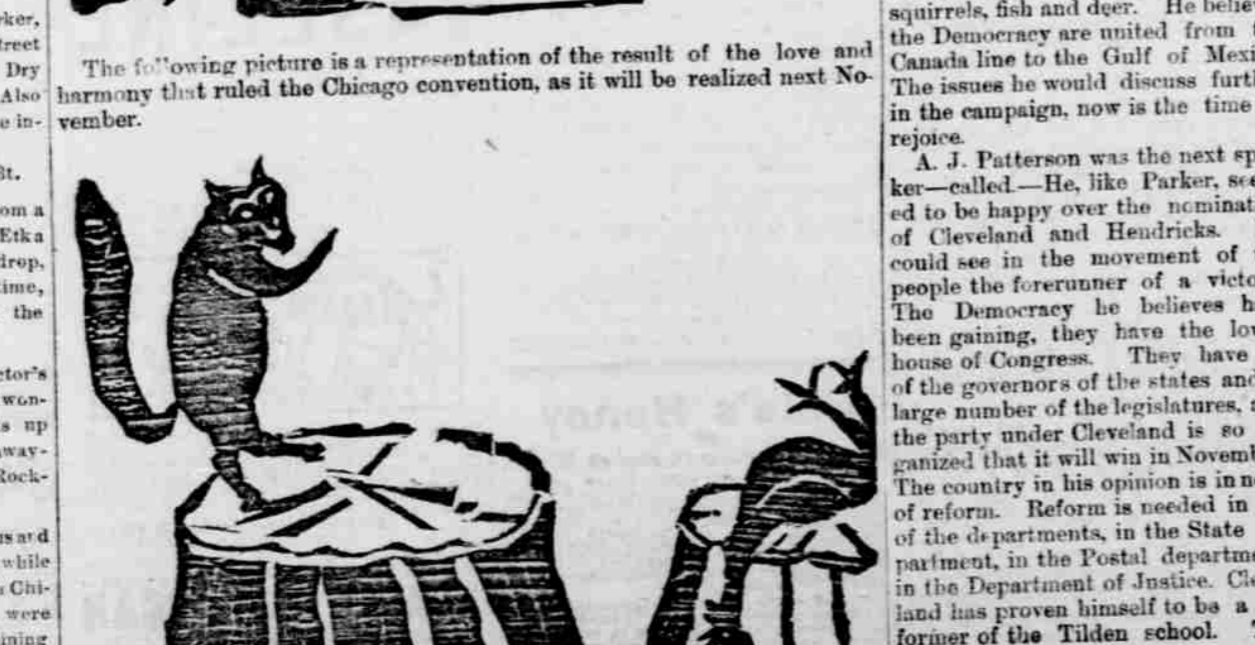

This is the wagon that was loaded with the thunder of the orators. Coon Story, Chicago Nomination, Cleveland, Hayes Fraud, Reform, Pup Story, Tariff, and Protection for squirrels, fish, and deer, United Democracy, Democratic Governors, Reform in Postal and Justice Departments, Land Grants, Republican Frauds and Robberies, Praise for the Democracy, with an installment of secret mule trap.

The procession filed into the Court House Yard where they were addressed by orators E. D. Parker, A. J. Patterson, D. D. Stone, and T. D. Garman. The following picture represents the orators delivery at the coon. That the coon was not hurt can be learned from the position that he occupied high above them.

The nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks caused the Democrats in town to get out their torpedoes and indulge in a game last Friday evening. A procession was formed, which was headed by J. B. M. Todd on horseback, and the band a foot. A number of Democratic citizens rode horses, and a wagon or two filled with the unfortunates were in line. There were about 140 torch bearers. Nearly all the prominent men of the party in this community were in line and they all seemed to enjoy the parade through the town streets. After their satisfaction they filed into the Court House yard, and there held an Oh! he joyful meeting. Robert McKeon called the meeting to order, and nominated Judge Elder as President. The names of the Secretaries our reporter did not hear. After the meeting was organized, E. D. Parker was called on for a speech, and he stood on the terrace steps, and opened by telling them a coon story and declaring the Republicans are ready to come down without firing a political shot at them. The crowd thought that was good and they cheered him lustily. After bringing down the coons he skipped away to Chicago, and enthused over an imaginary picture of the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks. He talked about Hayes and how he had, as he styled it, defrauded Tilden. Cleveland he believes is a great reformer, and the country needs to be reformed. After talking about reform he told a pup story, over which the Democracy cheered to their hearts delight. From the pup he glided to the railroad and grant question. He touched briefly the protection of the Democracy are united from the Canada line to the Gulf of Mexico. The issues he would discuss further in the campaign, now is the time to rejoice.

A. J. Patterson was the next speaker—called—He, like Parker, seemed to be happy over the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks. He could see in the movement of the people the forerunner of a victory. The Democracy he believes have been gaining, they have the lower house of Congress. They have 25 of the governors of the states and a large number of the legislatures, and the party under Cleveland is so organized that it will win in November. The country in his opinion is in need of reform. Reform is needed in all the departments, in the State department, in the Department of Justice. Cleveland has proven himself to be a reformer of the Tilden school. The Republican party he knows from the signs of the times, will be shattered and broken in November. D. D. Stone was the next speaker. He started out elegantly. "What means all this gathering?" He swayed that means that the Democracy are to be victorious in November. Cleveland has the mantle of Tilden on his shoulders and that's enough. He gave it to Hayes for having defrauded Tilden as he said. He talked about land grants, a united party and seemed to be as happy as Parker and Patterson.

T. D. Garman was the next speaker. He at first did not want to make a speech, but a few words warned him up and he went for the Republicans rough shod. The good prospects, as he believes, for the election of Cleveland and Hendricks caused him to talk eloquently about Republican frauds, robberies, land grants, railroads, and so forth, and he outdid Herod in denunciation of the Democrats and in eulogy of the Democracy. The speakers did quite well viewed from a speech making point, and the speeches were well received, and if they had told that it took 36 hours hard work of the best talent that the Democracy had at Chicago to frame a stalling tariff or protection plank for their party, they would have told what a milestone Cleveland has about his neck, and if they had said that when the Chicago Convention declared for the tariff rule as against the right of each and every individual congressional district to cast its vote in convention for its choice for a Presidential candidate that it stilled one of the primary rights of the party. If they had told that a large percentage of the Democracy of New York are in open rebellion against Cleveland and that the anti-monopolists of the city and State are against him, and that the Blaine Republicans who swelled his majority to such large proportions when he ran for governor will vote for Blaine they would have come a good deal nearer stating the correct situation. The fact that the speakers avoided even a hint at the great obstacles that beset Mr. Cleveland in the new career upon which he has just started, is an evidence of weakness. Happy and jolly as they seemed to be they might all have been happier if they had told the whole story.

This demonstration appeared as if under the management of the left wing of the Democracy. Appearances are, however, sometimes deceptive. Do Not Forget. Do not forget that at Hess's Photograph Gallery you can get any small picture enlarged for 75 cents. Anything that is made in Photography, you can get here done up in first class style. Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock P. M. on the 8th inst., some of the members of the members of the Berg family, living in the Jacob Sniff house in this place were awakened from sleep by a smoke that almost took their breath. The household was aroused immediately, and search made for the fire. The fire that caused the smoke was located in a lower corner, of the frame of a down stairs window facing the garden. The corner of the window was burned through so that a sight of the space between the window and the wall could be seen. A fire of the ash was burned off, so that the edges of the glass was exposed to sight. The discovery of the fire was in time to save the town from an other mysterious fire, for no one could ever have dreamed of the origin. It is not believed by a large number of people who have seen the hole that the fire made that it was the work of an incendiary. The fire, however, was there intentionally. From the appearance of the burnt wood no one will hazard a conjecture as to whether the fire started on the inside or outside of the window ledge. It would be difficult for a mouse to nibble a hole that would kindle a fire at such a place; a shrew or a chipmunk might be stuck at such a corner and not start a fire. Perhaps one mouse might kindle a fire. A thousand lit cigars, one at a time might be laid down and a pile made and not start a fire. Perhaps one lit cigar laid down at such a place might kindle a fire. How the fire got there is a mystery.

On last Thursday the Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church picnicked at Macedonia and the following are some of the incidents that took place. Rev. G. Bonmuth caught one trout, which was all the fish caught.

Many of the ladies walked from Macedonia to Roaring Run a distance of 2 1/2 miles where the Academy boys were camped. There were over 50 persons at the picnic which the majority were ladies. Several persons drove from Millintown in boggles. The boat in which the picnickers went was to start at 7 o'clock A. M. sharp, but did not get off until an hour and a half later. At the second lock a rooster tried to fly across the boat, but fell down between the boat and side of the lock. The picnickers had some fun while some persons fished him out. A number of the Academy campers came down to Roaring Run in the evening before the picnic boat left Macedonia for town.

Don't Give up Yet. It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never to late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr. Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghamton N. Y., was cured of Rheumatism by it after ten years of unrepentable suffering. Mr. R. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures. June 18-1m.
